The Sydney Morning Herald.

No. 5524.—VOL. XXXVI. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1855. PRICE SIXPENCE.

SHIP ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE steamer HUNTRESS, for the Champion Race, on TUESDAY next, will leave Pusey's Wharf, next the Gas Works, at 10 o'clock a.m., the Circular Wharf at half-past 10, and will accompany the race. Fares 4s. each. Refreshments provided for the occasion.

GRAND SCULLER MATCH FOR £200 ASIDE. —THOMAS M'GRATH having chartered the VICTORIA steamer, for the accommodation of his friends and supporters, begs to inform them and the public generally, that she will leave the New Wharf, next Campbell's, THIS DAY, the 27th instant, at ten minutes to Eleven o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of following the race throughout; and thus affording an opportunity of viewing the boats from first to last. Tickets, 5s. each, can be obtained at Messrs. D. Hill's, Pitt-street; J. M'Cabe's, North Star, Pitt and Liverpool streets; J. Palmer's, Liverpool Arms, Pitt street; J. Beal's, Currency Lass, Hunter-street; and G. Ewen's, King's Head, opposite the New Wharf, George-street. Refreshments can be obtained on board at moderate charges.

 The placards appearing in the city respecting the above vessel leaving Campbell's Wharf, and proceeding to Watson's Bay, where a luncheon will be provided, have been issued by parties having no connection whatever with Thomas M'Grath, as the steamer returns to the wharf immediately after the termination of the race.

THE GRAND ROWING MATCH FOR £400! "Not hate but glory made these chiefs contend, And each brave foe was in his soul a friend." The Gravesend man, JOHN DEWARDT, will be on board the TAMAR (chartered specially for the occasion), prior to the event on TUESDAY next, and will moreover do his endeavour to add to the attractions of the excursion subsequent to the great struggle for supremacy between himself and his tried competitor, McGrath. Refreshments of the most substantial and recherché character will be provided under the auspices of Mr. Joseph Taylor, who will devote his energies solely to the view of making both patrons and participators feel happy.

Tickets at Messrs. David Hill's, Thomas Rostron's, J. Ralph's, and other sporting houses. Saloon, 7s. 6d.; fore cabin, 5s. Time, half-past 10 a.m. sharp. Place, Australian Steam Navigation Company's Wharf.

☞ This will be an excellent opportunity for persons visiting the various interesting nooks and picturesque bays with which the harbour of Port Jackson is studded.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SYDNEY MORNING HERALD.—SIR,—The letter of Mr. Robert Campbell, in your issue of this day, is quite consistent with the whole of his recent malicious behaviour in slandering me. He merely takes such a part of the "Gin Case" as suits his own worthless palate, but even in that imperfect and distorted view of it the falsehood of his charge is quite apparent.

No doubt, to have one's "acquaintance cut" by such a man as Mr. Robert Campbell is a great calamity. But I declare that I was not aware of the important fact until announced by himself this morning, after he had been convicted of uttering a gross slander against me. I have been on speaking terms with himself and his brothers for the last 13 years, and have very recently had very large transactions with their house, and in one of these I was applied to by them to grant them a favour in order to save them a few pounds in store rent on some goods they purchased. It does not say much for Mr. Robert Campbell's idea of what belongs to a gentleman to appear affable to those he slanders; or to have the meanness to ask any favour of one whose character and acquaintance he affects to despise.

With these remarks I will leave Mr. Robert Campbell to the full enjoyment of the unenviable notoriety he has gained by his own insane and malicious conduct.

I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,
ALEXANDER CAMPBELL.
26th February, 1855.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The Pills prepared by the celebrated Professor Holloway are one of the greatest blessings ever discovered for the alleviation of certain departments of human misery. Combining as they do some of the choicest offerings of the Vegetable World, concocted under the supervision and knowledge of a highly scientific gentleman, it is not at all strange that they have effected the most astonishing cures. For any of that numerous class of complaints growing out of an impure state of the blood, the pills are marvellously happy and thorough in their action. There are few maladies which, if treated early, will not be nipped in the bud by this medicine, while for not a few it is a positive specific.—Boston Bee.

TO THE INDEPENDENT ELECTORS OF THE UNITED COUNTIES OF MURRAY AND ST. VINCENT.—GENTLEMEN,—Having received a promise of support from several of your number, in the event of my offering my services to represent you in the Legislative Council, I have resolved at once to place myself at your disposal, and should you do me the honour of returning me as your representative, I promise faithfully to use every exertion in my power to justify your choice.
In the event of your deeming it necessary, I will meet you on the day of nomination to make such an exposition of my political views as may enable you to judge how far you may consider the principles I advocate deserving of your support.
In the mean time I shall, through the medium of the public press, state my opinions respecting all the leading political questions that are likely to occupy the attention of the Legislative Council during the next session.
I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient and very humble servant
JOSEPH SIMMONS, Sen.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE PASTORAL DISTRICTS OF THE LACHLAN AND LOWER DARLING.—Gentlemen, I beg to make known to you my intention of becoming a candidate for the Representation of the Lachlan and Lower Darling districts, vacated by the resignation of your late respected member, Mr. William Macarthur.
Though for a very considerable time a resident in an adjoining district, enjoying a personal acquaintance with the greater number of you, in coming forward to request your suffrages, I feel it incumbent on me to state briefly the principles that will influence my votes, should I have the honour of becoming your Representative, on those matters that are likely to occupy the attention of the House in this its last session.
Deeply sensible of the great importance of the squatting interest, with which as you know I am personally connected, I am nevertheless fully alive to the necessity of providing for the settlement of an agricultural population wherever such can be placed with advantage to themselves and the public, it being quite possible, I believe, to form such settlements without any breach of faith to the squatter, and I promise to use my best exertions to procure the requisite surveys of the reserved lands to effect this object. These reserves, amounting, I am given to understand, in the Lachlan district alone to 250,000 acres, and in the Lower Darling to 150,000 acres, if prepared for selection, will I am sure be far more than sufficient to meet the demand for purposes of cultivation during the period of the present leases.
The next question in importance so far as your interests, indeed I may say the interests of the whole colony are concerned, is that of railways. I shall be prepared by my votes to sanction a loan for any amount for a mode of communication now become indispensable for the general welfare.
For the rest, though a Conservative, I shall be prepared to support all wholesome measures that may be devised for the colony's progress, believing however that I shall be consulting its best interests in advocating the strictest economy in the public expenditure.
In the hope of being able to wait upon the greater number of you personally before the day of nomination,
I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Your obedient Servant,
WILLIAM MACLEAY, Junior.

THE EDITOR OF THE EMPIRE. — (Per favour of the Sydney Morning Herald.) SIR,—Before censuring me for the course I was compelled to pursue with Mr. Robert Campbell, you ought to have made yourself acquainted with the real facts of the case, instead of writing on an exparte statement. As a matter of choice I would much rather avoid taking hostile steps against any one, but as the case stands between Mr. R. Campbell and myself, I am sure every unprejudiced person will at once admit that he forced me to the adoption of extreme measures. One friend of his says, "why did you not bring an action of slander against him?" Another says, "you ought to have publicly horsewhipped him and not called him out." To these arguments I reply, that the insult was of too grave and personal a nature to admit of the delay of three or four months, which would be necessary before I could vindicate my character in the Supreme Court (besides that course is now open to me), moreover I could not think of allowing my family to remain all this time under the stigma of a foul and infamous libel. The other course, although I admit it would be a fitting chastisement to such a man, my friends advised me not to resort to it.

You and others may imagine that my quarrel with Mr. Robert Campbell arises out of the silly exhibition made by his brother John, the other day, on the hustings, about a trifling dispute between his firm and mine five years ago, by which I may mention my firm lost £66 6s., owing to a mistake of Messrs. Campbell and Co., who also had to bear the loss of a few pounds for some expenses incurred in connection with the matter. These expenses my partner and myself refused to pay, because they were not incurred by us, nor by any act of ours, and because we considered Messrs. Campbell and Co. did not behave well in the matter. The refusal to pay these expenses, amounting to £5 or £10, was, after the lapse of five years, brought forward against me on Monday last, as a charge of dishonesty, but the statement was in itself so childish and absurd, that the people would not hear it, and I shall not now notice it further than to say that I had no communication with Mr. Robert Campbell personally on the subject. That the loss occasioned by the mistake of his firm fell entirely on mine; that through that mistake the boiler Nimmo defrauded us out of £120; and that the whole of the assets of Nimmo's estate fell I believe into the hands of Messrs. Campbell and Co., who applied them to the payment of their own claim against it, while up to the present hour none of the other creditors received one farthing, so far as I can learn.

But it is not with reference to these matters (which are of a private or business nature,) that I have to complain of Mr. Robert Campbell's conduct. The following letter from a respectable citizen, Mr. Benjamin James, contains the slander he published against me.

South Head-road, February 23rd, 1855.
Sir,—In reference to a conversation between Mr. Robert Campbell, Mr. C. and myself on Monday last, at the nomination of candidates for the Sydney Hamlets, I beg to forward you the following particulars:—On the ground, near the hustings, Mr. Campbell advanced to meet me, and said he was surprised to find that he and I were on different sides. I replied, that I considered Mr. A. Campbell was at that election best entitled to support, when Mr. R. Campbell said—What! support a man who "robbed" or "cheated" me or us of a hundred cases of gin. I replied, I had never heard of such a thing before, and that from my knowledge of Mr. A. Campbell for many years, and having had many business transactions with him, I believed the statement to be untrue, as I considered that Mr. A. Campbell was as honourable in commercial dealings as any other merchant in Sydney. The above occurred in a very short space of time; the charge was made in a voice quite loud enough for others present to hear it. As well as the hurry of the moment allows me to recollect, the above is substantially a correct statement of the language made use of on that occasion.
I have the honour to be your obedient servant,
BENJAMIN JAMES, builder.
A. Campbell, Esq., Lyons-terrace.

I did not deem it right to notice this charge, although Mr. James informed me of it on Monday, until after the election had terminated.
On Thursday, after all was over, I addressed the following letter, under the advice of my friends, to Mr. Robert Campbell:—
To Robert Campbell, Esq., Campbell's Wharf, Sydney.
22nd February, 1855.
Sir.—You and your brother, Mr. John Campbell, having, during the recent election, publicly charged me with having cheated you out of a hundred cases of gin, I made use of the occasion which occurred at the declaration of the poll to-day to give you an opportunity of retracting the charge. As you did not adopt that course, but, on the contrary, impliedly repeated the charge, I cannot think of allowing the matter to rest here, and I therefore now, for the last time, call upon you to make a public unqualified apology to me for the gross slander in question.
Awaiting your reply, which I shall expect by ten o'clock to-morrow morning,
I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,
ALEXANDER CAMPBELL.

Although the gentleman who delivered this letter brought a message from Mr. R. Campbell that he would make no reply, I deemed it right to wait till ten o'clock yesterday morning before taking any further step. That hour arrived, and I received no answer from him. I then sent a friend to demand an explanation. Mr. R. Campbell then consented to satisfy my friend, though he refused to answer my letter. Upon the libellous words being read over to him, he declared he never uttered them either in public or in private, and never said anything which could be construed into such an imputation upon Mr. Alexander Campbell's character, and that he would reduce this statement to writing, if required. My friend called on him again in about an hour, to obtain his written denial of the charge, when Mr. Robert Campbell said, evidently under excited feelings, "What more can you want with me? I have already told you that I never stated Mr. Campbell had robbed me; but if you ask me if Mr. A. Campbell ever tried to rob me of the gin, I say he did, and he is no gentleman." Mr. Campbell afterwards refused either to name a friend or to meet me. My friend then left him.

I ask you and those who think with you, what course other than that I adopted could be taken with a man who first refused to give me any explanation, but at once tried to shelter himself from an unpleasant ALTERNATIVE, by a flat denial of the charge, when that explanation was peremptorily demanded by my friend. But fearing that he would be exposing himself to a lasting disgrace by writing an unqualified denial of all he had said, he keeps up the sting of his slander by an assertion equally insulting and objectional as the original charge, but one from the consequences of which he might more easily escape. But the slanderer who stabs another's reputation in the dark, as Mr. R. Campbell has done in my case, especially during my absence in England in the year 1852, cannot and shall not escape from the punishment due to his guilt. What else could I do to a man who could neither prove his allegations nor apologise for the injury inflicted by their circulation during the last five years? To proclaim him through the streets of his native city as a public and base calumniator, as a man utterly unworthy of credit and unfit for respectable society, is a punishment far short of what he deserves.
As to Mr. R. Campbell's denying Mr. James' statement, I feel confident that he uttered every word attributed to him, and that his denial is nothing more nor less than a mere subterfuge to escape from the dilemma in which he found himself. I have known Mr. James for many years, and I believe him to be a person incapable of telling an untruth, and I know he is prepared to substantiate the contents of his letter on oath, if necessary.
I remain, sir,
Your obedient servant,
ALEXANDER CAMPBELL.

SYDNEY HAMLETS ELECTION.—TO MR. ALEXANDER CAMPBELL.—Sir,—If in your letter published in the Empire of Thursday last the censure therein conveyed has been intended for me, such censure is unfair, as I repudiate the report of which you complain. You remark in your letter, that "the report of your meeting at St. Leonard's was a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end." I am known to have been the reporter present upon that occasion, and I wish to offer a fair explanation in self-defence. I did not write that "only forty or fifty persons attended you to the meeting," or "that those persons accompanied you in a steamboat." I wrote in my report that the meeting was most numerously and respectably attended. In fact, I could not know anything about how you or the company arrived at the meeting, as I hired a boat for myself and was taken alone to the meeting. I arrived late at the meeting, when you were speaking, and I enquired from a gentleman near the door, who was in the chair, and what you had said previous to my arrival. I then sat down and took up the thread of your discourse. I wrote out a speech two columns long; and I believe that if it had been reported properly, you would have expressed yourself as well satisfied with it as you expressed yourself with previous speeches of yours which I reported. Some gentleman sent a letter to the Empire Office, casting contempt upon the meeting by the allusions to forty or fifty persons going with you in a steamer, and his version of the circumstance was preferred to mine.
Your obedient servant,
CHARLES ADAM CORBYN.

VICTORIA, by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith, &c., &c.
To all and singular, clerks and literate persons, whomsoever and wheresoever in and throughout our colony of New South Wales and the dependencies thereof.
Greeting:
WHEREAS it is represented to us in our Supreme Court of the colony of New South Wales that Donald Rankin, late of the district of Maneroo, in the colony of New South Wales, farmer, deceased, departed this life in or about the month of September, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, having at the time of his death goods and chattels in the said colony: We do hereby authorise, empower, and strictly enjoin and command you to cite Samuel Rankin, of Native Dog Flat, in the said colony, farmer, the executor named in the last will and testament of the said Donald Rankin, deceased, to appear personally, or by his proctor duly constituted, before our said Court, at the Court House, King-street, Sydney, on the thirty-first day of March next, at the hour of ten of the clock, in the forenoon, then and there to bring into and leave in the Registry of our said Court the true and original last will and testament of the said deceased; and to accept or refuse the burden of the probate and execution thereof; otherwise to show good and sufficient cause (if he hath or know any) why letters of administration, with the said will annexed, of all and singular the goods, chattels, and credits of the said deceased, should not be committed and granted according to law, unto Hugh M'Coll, the stepson of the said deceased, and a person interested under the said will.
Witness the Honorable Sir Alfred Stephen, Knight, our Chief Justice of our said Court, at Sydney, the twenty-fourth day of February, in the eighteenth year of our reign, and in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty five.
For the Prothonotary, L.S., D. B. HUTCHINSON,
First Clerk of the Supreme Court.
E. J. CORY, Proctor for the said Hugh M'Coll, 55, Pitt-street, Sydney.

TO MRS. ISABELLA M'LEAN. — Madam,— With reference to the advertisement inserted by you in Saturday's issue, as to your being "compelled to separate from your husband, through his cruel and unmanly treatment," I reply to it, and the last I will notice.
It may be possible for you to recollect that for 16 years we had lived together; that it was from my not paying proper respect to your brother and sister (new arrivals) that you compelled yourself to separate, and quitted the house; and previously seeing the necessity, from observation, your taking away property, it became time for me to look to myself and my engagements—consequently took charge. Your next step was to have me taken up, on warrant, on a Saturday, took the receipts and property during the interval of my finding bail; the refusal to let my own child go for bail on my behalf, in order to gain time to collect more property; and your own words, that "if I displeased your brother, you would despise me," and now your advertisement of Saturday, shows too plainly the vindictive feelings with which you were, and now are, actuated. My only other observations are simply that quietude would have been the best antidote—on behalf of the children more particularly; since you are wasting the pittance you complain of, in advertising to your own and their detriment.
I am, Madam, yours, &c.
ALEX. M'LEAN.

THE EYE.—DEFECTIVE VISION RELIEVED. Mr. De LISSA, Sen., Optician, 34, Hunter-street, in connexion with the celebrated firm of Messrs. S. and B. Solomons, Opticians and Oculists, of Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, who have received her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent for their valuable inventions, and extraordinary improvements in optical lenses, under the patronage of the nobility and the most eminent London oculists, (see London Times.) The great advantage derived from their improvements is, that the sight is preserved and strengthened; and persons of advanced age, as well as the young, are enabled to read with ease and to discriminate the most minute objects with perfect distinctness, and without suffering those pains in the eye which they are subject to from spectacles now in common use, the glasses being slightly tinted by a valuable process known only to themselves. With these lenses they require a far less magnifying power, without frequent changes to the dangerous effects of further powerful assistance. They are not to be equalled for lightness and durability, in panoptic frames, both in steel and gold, and suspenders in tortoiseshell frames, to suit every sight.
Mr. D. has had manufactured by his firm in London, expressly for this colony the Stanhope lens, for the streets, which resists the power of the hottest sun and sand winds, at the same time keeps the eye coo, being the best preserver for the sight yet invented.
Observe the address!—Mr. De LISSA, Optician and Oculist, 34, Hunter-street, between George and Pitt streets. At home from 10 till 6, Saturday excepted.

Deane's revolvers, pistols, and one single-barrel gun
Gold and silver watches, jewellery, toys, and sundries.

BATHURST.
Residue of the WARDELL ESTATE, situated in Queen Charlotte's Vale, about 4 miles from Bathurst, for positive sale on THURSDAY, March 15th, at Matthews' Royal Hotel.
SLOMAN and TRESS beg to announce that they have been favoured with instructions to sell by public auction, at the Royal Hotel, Bathurst, on THURSDAY, the 15th March, at 11 o'clock,
The remainder of this fine property, consisting of about 2000 acres, in farms, as already surveyed and lithographed, varying in size from 35 acres upwards. Lithograph plans may be had on application at the office of the Auctioneers, shewing the different lots, by which it will be seen that each farm has access by a reserved road to the Vale Creek.
There are also several fine springs upon the property, which have always afforded a constant supply of pure water to the occupants of the back farms; abundance of timber will be found suitable for fencing purposes, firewood, or charcoal, and easily, as this way alone to pay the purchase money, whilst the soil and situation, so near Bathurst, render these farms peculiarly adapted for the market gardener and small farmer.
It may also be mentioned that Gold has been found upon this property, and it is believed exists in considerable quantities.
The attention of small capitalists is particularly called to the present sale. Such another opportunity of becoming possessed of a small freehold, so close to the town, and upon such easy terms, is not likely soon to happen again, and every lot will positively be sold without reserve.
Terms:—One-fourth cash; one-fourth by bill at three months—payable on the fall of the hammer; the residue (or one-half the purchase-money) may remain, secured by mortgage upon the property, for a period of 3 years, at 6 per cent. interest, from the day of sale.
Refreshments provided.

POSTPONEMENT of SALE of the BONA VISTA ESTATE to WEDNESDAY, the 7th March next.

Mr. LEDSAM begs to inform his friends and the public that the SALE of the BONA VISTA ESTATE, in ALLOTMENTS, has been POSTPONED to WEDNESDAY, the 7th March next, which was rendered necessary in consequence of the unavoidable absence of many intending purchasers at the Maitland Assizes, and likewise from sufficient time not having been allowed for the distribution of the lithographed plans.

Mr. Ledsam now begs to announce that the sale will take place on WEDNESDAY, the 7th March, 1855, at the Northumberland Hotel, West Maitland, at twelve o'clock precisely.

Plans can be obtained at Mr. Ledsam's office, or will be forwarded by post, on application by letter.

In making this announcement, Mr. Ledsam is authorised to state that there is no intention of reserving any of the lots; as, being one of the last of the Loan Company's properties, the whole will positively be sold, provided there is any competition whatever. Meantime no private offers can be entertained.

The Magnificent Estate of BONA VISTA, containing 2000 Acres or thereabouts, of rich Agricultural and Pastoral LAND, situate and lying between Tocal and the flourishing Township of Paterson; bounded by the Government Highroad and the splendid Paterson River, navigable for vessels of various tonnage.

MR. JEREMIAH LEDSAM has received instructions from the Managers and Directors of the British and Colonial Bank and Loan Company to sell by public auction, at the Northumberland Hotel, West Maitland, on WEDNESDAY, 7th March, 1855, at 12 o'clock noon precisely,

ALL THOSE 2090 ACRES OF LAND, situate, lying, and being in the County of Durham, and townships of Walsingham and Middlethorpe, bounded on the south by part of Webber's Farm, bearing west 250 chains; on the west by a line bearing north 80 chains; on the north by a line bearing east 293 chains to Paterson-river; and on the east by that river (save and except certain portions thereof sold in allotments by the late James Phillips, Esq., in or about the year 1840, to Felix Wilson, Esq., and others).

The subdivision of the property above described has been effected by Mr. G. B. White, surveyor, the particulars of which are as follow:—

1st.—Sixty-five acres (more or less), added to the present Township of Paterson, and laid out into building allotments.

2nd.—Fifty acres (more or less), marked out into garden lots, of from one to two acres; of these several have high road frontages.

3rd.—Eight Suburban lots, varying from five to seven acres, each having a road frontage, and merely the road between them and the bank of the River Paterson.

4th.—Eight Four-acre Allotments, fronting the street, bounding the township on the east.

5th.—Seven first-rate Small Farms, varying in size from twelve to thirty-five acres, including and situated around the Homestead of Bona Vista. All the above allotments and farms are well worthy the attention of capitalists and settlers. The land is equal to any in the district.

6th.—Five farms of forty acres each (more or less) partially cleared and cultivated: the soil exceedingly rich.

7th.—Two Farms of fifty acres each (more or less), similar to the foregoing.

8th.—Four Farms of one hundred and sixty acres each, partially cleared and cultivated; the Pumpkin Ground Creek runs through three of them, and has a never failing supply of water. One of these farms is now in the occupation of Captain Crae.

9th.—Two farms of two hundred and forty acres each, both watered by the Pumpkin Ground or Webber's Creek.

10th.—Eight back farms close to the township of Paterson, varying from forty to fifty acres.

11th.—Also two additional lots, shown upon the sale plan as the extension of the town, consisting of thirty acres (more or less) each.

These lots will be sold, and are recommended to speculators as well worthy their attention, and well suited for the purpose for which they were reserved upon the plan.

Title unexceptionable.

Terms.—Upon the fall of the hammer, each purchaser shall pay to the auctioneer, in cash, one-third of the purchase money, and give his promissory notes for the balance by equal instalments at six and nine months, with interest at 7½ per cent., to be secured by retention of the purchase deeds; but purchasers, the balance of whose purchase money shall exceed £500, shall have the option of allowing the same to remain on mortgage of the property for three years at the same rate of interest.

Mr. Ledsam respectfully invites the attention of settlers, capitalists, agriculturists, and others, and the public generally to the sale now advertised.

The Estate of Bona Vista is beautiful for situation, and proverbial for its fertility and vegetative qualities.

The Homestead is erected on a first-rate site, and so commodious as to be admirably adapted to, and suitable for, a family of the first respectability.

There also a number of good dwellings on the estate, with other erections occupied by the present tenants.

The land under cultivation, comprising many acres, with an immense proportion laid out in grass paddocks, is peculiarly adapted to the growth of wheat, maize, tobacco, cotton, &c., and is abundantly supplied with fresh water—in a word, "THE PRINCELY ESTATE OF BONA VISTA," consisting of rich agricultural and pastoral lands, stands unrivalled amid the varied splendours everywhere visible in the fertile district of the Paterson, said to be the "GARDEN OF NEW SOUTH WALES."

Immediate possession will be given.
Refreshments at sale.

WATER POLICE COURT.
MONDAY.
Before the Water Police Magistrate and Mr. Fisher.

Margaret Strickland, Thomas Craven, Mary Cox, George Wolfe, and Elizabeth Brown, were fined 20s., or in default of payment 24 hours' imprisonment for drunkenness. Thomas Gannon and John M'Hugh paid the fine of 40s. for a like offence.

James Ryan, for having committed a violent assault upon his wife, was ordered to find sureties to keep the peace for 12 months, himself in £20 and two sureties in £10 each. This is the case the particulars of which appeared in our Saturday's issue. The wife declined to prosecute.

Mary Cox and Elizabeth Briton were placed in the dock charged with having used obscene language in the public street. They were found guilty, and ordered to pay a fine of 20s., in default of payment to be imprisoned for seven days. Pilch Birmingham, for a like offence, was ordered to pay a fine of 20s., in default of payment three days' imprisonment; George Wolfe, for using threatening language, was fined 20s., or three days' imprisonment.

Two seamen, Johnson and Branner, were arraigned upon the charge of drunkenness, and having conducted themselves in a riotous and disorderly manner on board their ship, the Seelhied. Fined 20s. each.

Almin, a man of colour, belonging to the Bangalore, was sentenced to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour for twelve weeks for desertion.

Charles Crowley, a prisoner of the Crown, was brought before the Court upon the charge of having been illegally at large. It appeared that he was a ticket-of-leave holder, and had absconded from his district. Ordered to be returned to Government, with a recommendation that his ticket-of-leave be cancelled.

Henry White, chief officer of the Bangalore (on bail) was charged with having absented himself from his ship without leave. Defendant agreed to take his discharge without wages, which was agreed to by complainant, and the case was dismissed.

T. S. Whitfield, master of the Bard's Legacy, appeared upon summons to answer the information of Mr. W. A. Douglas, Inspector of Water Police, charging him with having on the 11th of February instant, on entering the harbour of Port Jackson, neglected to hoist a light at the mast head, and to keep the same burning until daylight. Mr. Ryan Brenan appeared for the prosecution. It appeared that the Water Police boat had a narrow escape of being run down by the vessel. Defendant stated in his defence that the ship's lamp had been broken on the voyage, and that he had endeavoured to keep a light at the masthead on entering the harbour by means of a substitute, but had found it impracticable. The lamp had been repeatedly lighted and as often extinguished by the wind. His Worship said, the penalty was fixed at £10; and there was no discretionary power left to the Bench in such cases. He therefore ordered defendant to pay a fine of £10, with costs of court 5s. 2d., and professional costs £2 2s; at the same time informing him that if he thought proper to petition his Excellency the Governor-General for a reduction of the penalty, he (the Water Police Magistrate) would recommend that it be reduced to £2.

Daniel Smith, master of the Royal Saxon, appeared upon summons to answer the information of Mr. W. A. Douglas, charging him with taking in ballast without having tarpaulins properly stretched and spread so as to prevent any portion of it from falling into the water. Defendant pleaded guilty, and was ordered by the Bench to pay a fine of £5 with 5s. 2d. costs of court. Fine paid.

R. Roberts, master of the John Fielden, appeared upon summons to answer the information of Mr. W. A. Douglas, charging him with having neglected to keep a watch on deck between the hours of sunset and sunrise. Defendant pleaded guilty, and was ordered to pay a fine of 10s., with 4s. 6d. costs of Court.

Mary Ann Prouse, laundress, appeared upon summons to answer the information of Jane Mackay, charging her with non-payment of wages, earned between the 1st of January and the 11th of February, at the rate of 4s. per day, to the amount of £7 18s. 8d. Complainant deposed that she was engaged verbally by defendant as laundress, to live with her and to receive a salary of 4s. per day; which was flatly denied by defendant, who called as witness a woman who lived in the house, who deposed that complainant was more addicted to sleeping and drinking than to washing. The Bench made order for complainant to the amount of £2, to be paid by weekly instalments of 7s. 6d.

PATRIOTIC FUND.—PUBLIC MEETING AT RYDE.

PURSUANT to advertisement, a meeting was held on Saturday, the 24th instant, at 11 o'clock a.m., in the Parochial School House, Ryde, when Dr. FORSTER being unanimously called upon to take the chair, the following resolutions were submitted to a highly respectable and numerous assembly:—

Mr. J. BLAXLAND proposed the first resolution—

That this meeting, taking into consideration the peril and importance of the struggle in which Great Britain and the allies are now engaged, feel bound to express their sympathy with, and to do the utmost in their power to relieve those who have suffered thereby.

The Rev. G. E. TURNER, in seconding the resolution, said, that if he were to say that he esteemed it a pleasure and a privilege to be permitted to second the resolution which had already been read, he should only express what he deeply felt, but his heart had warmed in the holy cause which they were assembled to support, when he found that his respected and veteran friend had kindly consented to preside over their proceedings, for in him he saw one who (to use his own words) "had seen some five and twenty years of hard fighting, as well in India as in Europe." He had stood on many a bloody field of battle, not to deal forth wounds and death to a mortal foe, but to offer prompt and kindly acts of relief to the mangled bodies, and the shattered limbs of his wounded comrades. The resolution spoke of the peril of the present war. That venerable man could tell them of a thousand scenes of peril, suffering, and death, which were the constant attendants on the actual conflict of two mighty nations, half a century ago, and his presence among them now was from the position in which he had stood, and the duties he had performed amidst those frightful scenes, a happy omen of good, and peculiarly calculated to stimulate their sympathy with those who suffered in the terrible war. They had most of them been taught to look up the stream of time, and to study the history of the wars of the ancient world—the Persian and the Greek — the Roman and the Gaul — and in most of those they had met with little more than the cold broad outline of great events, interspersed with occasional relations of the valorous deeds of heroic and daring men, but found in those records but little about the peril of the war—little to evoke the sympathy of the people for whom those battles had been fought. There was then no special reporter upon the scene of action appointed to observe and communicate to his countrymen at home the minute details and the touching incidents of the war, but thanks to the progress of the science and intelligence of the age in which we live, we were enabled to receive such truthful and graphic delineations of the fearful contest in which England and her allies had lately been engaged in the East, that his imagination had been filled with enthusiasm, and he had often in fancy deemed that he had been an actual eye-witness of the horrors and the glories of the scenes described. He had stood upon the blood-stained heights of the Alma, and on the gloomy ruins of Inkermann—had heard the thunder of a thousand guns and the clashing of a thousand arms, and trod the slippery streams of blood which reddened the surface of the fatal valley beneath. But war in all its phases was fraught with peril, and their warmest sympathies were now implored on behalf of those who had suffered by a contest of such fearful magnitude and peril as the present. His attention had been directed to the importance of the war. This could neither be magnified nor exaggerated, for upon its issue depended not only the fate of England, or France, or Russia, but of every civilized state of Europe—nay, of the world itself. What was it but the knowledge of the vast importance of the final results of this quarrel, if once entered upon in earnest, which caused Her Majesty's Ministers to struggle against it to the very last available moment—to use every possible means they possessed, till they had almost outstepped the bounds of political prudence, to postpone with the hope of avoiding it altogether; and when at last they were compelled to form the bold resolve of combatting, single-handed, the encroaching power of Russia, forth flew the armies and the fleets of England to do battle in the cause. But he believed that the enthusiasm which was felt by the people of England as well as by themselves was based no less upon the justice than the importance of the war, and it was this conviction which had caused him the more readily to take part in the proceedings of that meeting. During the last forty years they had seen link after link of the chain of despotism struck off by the hammer of civilization from the people of South and Western Europe, they had seen the various Governments year after year extending the franchise and enlarging the liberties of the people, who, as a necessary consequence had gradually but certainly progressed in the arts and sciences—the industry and contentment of peace—and did he dare to ask it?—were all these great and valued blessings to be crushed and overwhelmed by a flood of barbarism poured down from the North by a single but daring despot, who would endeavour to drag the world again into a base condition of bondage, ignorance, and degradation? Emphatically he would answer No! This must not—would not be permitted; and whatever might be the apprehensions of the timid and the less thoughtful for the issue of this war, he could recognise with confidence and faith through all the mighty contests which were now being enacted in order to bring it to a successful close, a merciful and omnipotent arm, which would defend the cause which was righteous and just; and it was this very sense of the justice of this war mingled, as it was, with religious sentiment, which enabled our brave soldiers to nerve themselves with calm and fearless resolution to face the thousand perils of battle. It was this religious feeling existing in our army, to an extent which could scarcely have been expected, which had caused the lips of many a dying hero to utter the pious aspirations of a dying Christian; and it was this which had inspired the many tender and affectionate words which had been sent home to England for the consolation of the widows and the orphans of those who had fallen. It was the encouraging thought that they were doing battle in a righteous cause. The incidents which had brought about this war, were now so patent to all the world, and the justice of the course which England had taken was now so universally admitted, that nothing need be said in justification of her conduct, but the words of a patriotic and pathetic poet of their own country appeared to be with a slight alteration extremely applicable to the present position of affairs:—

> If but a doubt hung o'er the ground of fray,
> Or trivial rapine stopped the world's highway;
> Were this some common strife of States embroil'd
> Britannia on the spoiler and the spoil'd
> Might certainly look, and, asking time to breathe,
> Still honourably wear her olive wreath.
> But this is darkness combating with light;
> Earth's adverse principles for empire fight:
> Far as his knout could reach or dagger probe,
> Oppression that has belted half the globe,
> Holds reeking o'er our brother freemen slain
> That dagger—shakes it—at us in disdain;
> Talks big to Freedom's states of Turkey's thrall
> And trampling one, would crush them one and all.

But this will never be. The spirit of liberty and civilization was now too deeply rooted, and had made too vigorous a growth to be so easily crushed, and he trusted that in spite of all the proud boastings of this "Imperial thief," the time was not far distant when

> Prone to the dust, oppression shall be hurled,
> Her name—her nature—wither'd from the world.

After making a brief but feeling allusion to the relief of the widows and orphans, the rev. gentleman said, that if ever he desired to be rich, he did so at that moment. He would willingly plead the cause of the sufferers, but as this appeared to form the substance of the next resolution, he would leave the task to abler speakers. He begged to second the first resolution, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. WM. FORSTER, in proposing the second resolution,

That this meeting warmly responding to the proposition of her most gracious Majesty, that a Patriotic Fund be formed for the relief of the widows and orphans of soldiers, sailors, and marines, killed in action, or dying from other casualties connected with the present war, feel called upon to co-operate with the central committee in carrying out such object.

Remarked, that although he did not anticipate any objection to the resolution he had just read, but on the contrary, was satisfied it would be most cordially adopted, he yet did not intend to leave it in the hands of the meeting without some attempt at an expression of individual opinion. They were met not only to subscribe, but to give utterance to their sympathy, otherwise they might as well remain at home, since the mere collection of money might have been managed without meeting at all. Every one who had suffered affliction—every one who, in the course of his life, had lost those who were nearest and dearest, knew well how a kind word, how an expression of benevolence, was worth more than the gift of millions. It was for this reason he hoped the example set by Sydney, and which they were following this day would be general throughout the colony, and also that the example set by the speaker who preceded him would be followed by others, that all who had resolutions to propose would give utterance to their opinions. If inspiration were needed to make an impression on this occasion, what more calculated to produce it than the accounts of the late brilliant achievements in the Crimea? Was there one among them who had not been thrilled by these accounts, whose bosom had not glowed, and whose blood had not run in warmer current through his veins over the history of those battles. Why, these men had fought like demi-gods—had transported into modern times the fabulous legends of antiquity. It was too cold an expression to say, that the glory of Greece and Rome grew pale before theirs, but he would say, they had demeaned themselves like Englishmen, and that the heroes of Waterloo, of Agincourt, and Cressy,—were they present, need not have blushed to find themselves placed in parallel with the heroes of Inkerman, Balaclava, and Alma. Was it not wonderful that they themselves, living in this prosaic age—in this nineteenth century—hearing for so long a time of no wars, save those distant Indian wars which could not be compared in interest with the present, should have become, as it were, living spectators of such brilliant victories—such glorious achievements? With regard to the justice of the present war, that theme had been so ably touched by a preceding speaker he should not expatiate upon it, but felt bound to give his opinion. He could not understand how any doubts could arise upon the subject, and he felt surprised to find the question lately raised by a gentleman in the neighbourhood to whose general intelligence and liberality he was happy to bear testimony. He must have very imperfectly read the lessons of history who could fancy there was no danger in Russian ambition, who could not feel that Great Britain, in undertaking the present war, was not doing her duty; was not acting the part she ever acted, leading and defending the civilisation of the world. The map of Europe was before them—there they might look upon that small corner of the globe, whence, taking a small portion of Africa into account, had sprung the civilisation of modern days—the arts and arms, the sciences, the improvements they were now enjoying. To all this Russia was opposed. Why such a power as Russia, possessing both the strength of barbarism and the improvements of civilisation, having control over an immense organisation of slaves, who were soldiers at the same time, ruling over a people among whom feelings of devotion had a more extensive influence—or apparently so—than among any nation of the earth. A power like this must be regarded with apprehension, were she totally inert—were they to form no designs against European freedom. But when they find her grasping Poland, when they saw her enslaving Hungary, when now she endeavoured to seize on Turkey, was it not the duty of Great Britain and France to resist her? It was impossible to regard the present contest without feelings of the profoundest melancholy. It was not that he feared the issue. Rash as it might be to speculate on the designs of Providence, he could not believe the ambition of Russia could be allowed to prevail and blight the fair prospects to which they might all look forward. But it was not to be denied that the struggle would be arduous, and that hundreds—nay, thousands of valuable lives would probably be lost before Russia could be conquered, and conquered she must be, for it was now a death struggle between England and Russia, between civilisation and barbarism. But there was one point connected with the present he could not look upon with complacency. He felt sorry when he read in the papers that the alliance had been formed between England and Austria. Austria! The stronghold immemorial of tyrannies. Austria, the vanquisher of Italy—the oppressor of Hungary, and, in conjunction with Russia, the enslaver of Poland. An alliance with such a power was, in his opinion, a degradation; and, however little connection this topic had with his subject, he could not resist this opportunity of expressing his opinion. There was another subject to which he would venture to allude, though by doing so he would run the risk of awakening discordant feelings. He could not but think the news of the glorious deeds of the British army would have some effect in postponing a measure which had been discussed in pamphlets and handled in the daily journals—he meant the separation of the colony from Great Britain, which he now believed would be postponed for centuries. (Cries of "no politics!") He would appeal to the Chairman that he was perfectly in order. He hoped every one from this time would be proud of the name of Englishman. Who would now dare to stand up in a public meeting and talk of separation, "cutting cables," and the like. (A voice, "Dr. Lang.") For himself, he was proud to consider himself an Australian, but he was also proud to call himself an Englishman. There was another effect he hoped to see arise out of the present difficulties; he trusted they would lead to the resuscitation of Poland. He hoped yet they would be compelled to set that country free, and yet a Polish legion would yet fight by the side of Englishemn, and would take rank with their other allies—the gallant French and the Turks. But it was apart from all these considerations of expediency and the justice of their cause that he would put it to the meeting to support the resolution. He would urge it on the score of humanity. The people of Ryde would not be behind hand in the good work. They might not be so wealthy or so influential as other districts, but they still would not allow themselves to be outdone in a cause like this. The men of the Field of Mars, which had been named from its occupation by old soldiers, were many of themselves perhaps descended from these men, and their generosity would be most appropriate. But to the women of these districts, of whom he was glad to perceive so many present, he would look most to urge their fathers, husbands, and brothers to so good a purpose. From them had our infant lips learned the first lessons of piety and duty; by them had the paths of heroism and sacrifice been first pointed out to us. He well knew they would be most energetic on the present occasion, and he had good reason for knowing that they were so. He felt satisfied he need say no more — the patience with which he had been listened to, and the tokens of generous approbation he had received had alone been bestowed upon the cause he advocated. Therefore without a shdow of doubt he would leave the resolution in their hands, the further support of that cause to their generous sympathies.

The resolution having been seconded by Mr. JAMES DEVLIN, was unanimously adopted.

Mr. ISAAC SHEPHERD moved the third resolution:—

That the following gentlemen be constituted a local committee (three to form a quorum), to receive subscriptions, and transact all business connected with the objects of this meeting:—Thomas Forster, Esq., Rev. G. E. Turner, Major Darvall, John Blaxland, Henry Parkes, Isaac Shepherd, John Bettington, William Forster, Charles Blaxland, James Devlin, Edward Drinkwater, William Bennett, Thomas Small, George Codrington, George Emmott, William Small, Henry O. Rich, — Cumberland, — Joubert, De Milhau, Francis Campbell, — Uhr, — Sentis, — Burgis, James S. Farnell, George Pope, Dr. Plumby, George Weeks, Paul Benson, — Long, George M. Pope, James Bellamy, Captain Payt.

He would beg to observe that to discuss the justice or injustice of the war, was not the object of the present meeting; the object of the meeting he considered was to form a local committee to co-operate with the central committee, in furtherance of the objects contemplated in her Majesty's royal commission: viz., the raising funds in aid of the wives and families of those who fall in the war; to arouse the sympathy of the residents of this district, and induce them to extend the liberality that has ever characterised the people of Kissing Point, and especially the ladies; but when he saw so many ladies round him, he considered it altogether superfluous for him to say one word by way of calling forth their sympathy; for he saw it in their very countenances; and he had had a demonstration of it from one (who in consequence of the pressure of domestic circumstances could not attend the meeting) who requested her name might be put down for ten pounds. Feeling assured that those gentlemen whose names he would read over, would exert themselves in the good cause, and do their utmost to further the object contemplated, he felt pleasure in moving the resolution which he had already read.

This resolution having been seconded by Mr. John H. Bettington, was carried unanimously.

The fourth resolution was proposed by Mr. E. Drinkwater.

That a subscription list be opened at once for the purpose of receiving contributions in aid of the Patriotic Fund, and that Mr. John H. Bettington be requested to act as Treasurer and Secretary.

This resolution was seconded by Mr. Bellamy, and unanimously adopted.

A list having been opened, the sum of £171 16s. was subscribed in the room, when a vote of thanks having been given to Dr. Forster, three hearty cheers for the "Queen," three for the "Allied Armies," three for the "Governor-General," and three for "the Ladies who were present," the meeting separated.

THE DUTY OF AUSTRALIA TO MOTHER ENGLAND.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—Among the various speeches delivered at the meeting held in the Victoria Theatre, on Tuesday—and they were certainly good speeches in general, and some even eloquent—there was one address which, without pretension to eloquence, pleased me more than the rest, by its just, generous, and patriotic sentiments, and practical purport. I mean Mr. Mort's. I cannot but believe that a great majority of, at least, the educated classes, must fully and entirely concur in Mr. Mort's opinion of the propriety of placing on the estimates an annual sum during the continuance of the war, in aid of the Imperial Government in the great struggle in which our nation is now wrestling, for her own safety and honour, for us, for the freedom of the world.

We should bear in mind that in lending a helping hand to those bereaved by the war of their natural protectors, we are merely obeying the dictates of common humanity—we are merely assisting individual sufferers—doing that which we might do for the unfortunates of any nation—but we are not doing anything whatever directly towards the aid of our nation in this great crisis. Now it seems to me there is something ineffably mean, contemptibly mean, in the children of Britain standing by while their great mother is lavishing her blood and her treasure—standing by, watching the progress of the mortal struggle with a spurious and fruitless interest, yet not contributing a single man or a single shilling to aid her in the fight;—nay, not only contributing nothing, but actually pitifully making ourselves a burthen to her, by keeping among us several of her much-needed regiments of the line, instead of enrolling a militia to protect our own coasts, and preserve order in our own territories.

I suppose it will not be denied that Australia is as fully an integral part of the British empire as Lancashire or Yorkshire. If such be the case, it is clear that, as a matter of abstract equity and justice, England has a right to require us to bear our proportionate share of the burthen of maintaining those armaments, which protect all parts of the empire alike. But, as we all know, England, since the fatal lesson of the disruption of the empire, has long since abandoned all claim to that right with regard to the colonies as inexpedient in practice, however just in theory.

But while we continue to enjoy the all-sufficient protection of the British flag, of the imperial fleets and armies—when we consider that England has to maintain much larger forces, in order to protect her colonies, than she would otherwise require, and reflect that we give no quid pro quo whatever, would it not, to say nothing of our love, veneration, and loyalty for the glorious isle that officina gentium, the common parent of the Anglo-Saxon race all over the world—would it not be grateful generous and graceful—or, rather, I should say, would it be anything more than manly and honest, to come forward in a time of exigency, and voluntarily offer to bear some small portion of her heavy burthen while the emergency lasts—to perform some small part of that duty, her claim to which she waives? Among educated and liberal-minded men, I wonder there can be a difference of opinion on the subject.

An excellent and eloquent letter on this subject, signed "Civis," appeared in the Empire, of the 17th instant.

There is a sad alloy of injustice in the principle of voluntary and individual conviction to public necessities, good as it is in many respects. The weight falls unduly on the giving few—on the right-hearted, or those who are too well-known to dare to act otherwise than as if they were so; while the mean, and the insignificant escape from their social duties with impunity. There is this great advantage attached to a vote by the Legislature, that the minority of "traitor loons," the mis-begotten sons of Britain, who would not voluntarily come forward to the assistance of their country, would have to contribute their quota indirectly, in spite of their inward recalcitration.

In conclusion, Sir, I would express my hope, and my conviction that it is the hope of many, that the (as Mr. Mort justly termed it) noble suggestion of the Solicitor-General in the Legislative Council last year will be repeated, and carried into effect this year. It would be very satisfactory too if another annual sum were placed on the Estimates for the purpose fortifying our harbours.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.,
T. E. LANCE.

Parramatta, February 23.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—With reference to an excellent letter in your issue of this day, signed "Bucolicus," alluding to the monopoly exercised by the "Sydney carcass butchers," it would be well if his views could be carried out, so that this monopoly which presses so heavily on the consumer may be broken up.

I sold one of these men a flock of sheep, averaging 50 lbs. each, at 15s. per head during the last week; and by your prices current of this day this appears to be the average rate of the market. At 15s., deducting 1s. for the pelt, the meat would cost the carcass butchers under 3½d. per lb.; nevertheless the consumer is paying at present moment 10d. per lb. for mutton.

In London we find a salesman acting between the producer and carcass butcher—this must be done here or this imposition will continue.

THE RIFLES.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—If "the Rifles" are ever to become an efficient body or escape the jeers and laughter of empty-headed people, they must be commanded by men who desire and have the capacity to qualify themselves for their positions.

Although the "men" who mustered on the review day did everything that could be expected by reasonable creatures, it must be admitted that, in so far as the Rifles are concerned, the performance was not at all perfect; and I venture the assertion that nearly everything that was wrong was occasioned by the ignorance, inaptitude, and wavering of the amateur commissioned officers;—of whom, Heaven be praised, not half the complement mustered. And I would call to mind here, the admirable order and precision of our movements on drill or parade, when under the inflexible and decisive command of the Serjeant Major, as a proof that the fault is not with the privates.

Now I think it will be admitted in justice to the members of the corps, that it is exceedingly annoying they should be made the laughing stock of all Sydney through the medium of a set of men for whom as officers, I am afraid the members of the corps have not one particle of respect, in consequence of their want of nearly every requisite for their positions.

The company in which I was "fixed" at the Review was commanded by a jolly good tempered officer who, in his anxiety transposed nearly every word of command that his prompter, the assiduous serjeant gave him, and no person could be surprised, if while company, No. 2, properly marched "by the right;" and No. 3, according to the transposed command marched "by the left," that a considerable divergence from the line of rectitude took place.

You may imagine, while you laugh, the fun which was created by this cross firing of orders amongst the numerous "little boys" who infest our companies, and the angry exclamations of the more sedate members, who wished to go on in a straightforward course.

I appeal to the members of the corps if my observations are not correct; indeed I have taken the trouble to ascertain that such are the opinions of several, and being perfectly convinced of their correctness, I am induced to trouble you with this letter, in the hope that, before numerous resignations take place, an effort may be made by the officers to render themselves more capable.

There is also another reason for troubling you. Our officers blandly tell us, when a mishap occurs, that we must drill oftener; while at the same time, we think the remark should come from us.

I am, your obedient Servant,
No. 2.

Paddington, Feb. 23rd, 1855.

["No. 2," we think, is quite too severe in his strictures. No officer will ever be fit, properly, to command, unless he be himself a good "drill." This he need only expect to be by constant, unremitting attention and hard work: to do the thing by fits and starts is worse than useless—it is positively mischievous. The same remarks apply with equal force to "the men." Unless a man, on entering the Volunteers, means to make attention to "drill" a matter of conscience, he had, better by far, not join the service.—ED.]

MUTUAL PROVIDENT SOCIETY.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—To-day is to be held a meeting of the members of the Mutual Provident Society, to take into consideration the case of the late Secretary, Mr. W. Perry, whose unfortunate condition the conveners of the meeting intend to benefit, and, as it appears to me and some other members, at the expense of the institution—a course which would, if carried out, be manifestly unjust, not only to the present members, but much more so to all who may become such in after time, many of whom will never have heard of that gentleman's name.

That the affliction with which Mr. Perry, and, through him, his family, have been visited, is most distressing, and that the case is worthy of our liveliest sympathies, and best assistance, as individuals, I readily recognise; but cannot admit that, as a society, we can do so without committing injustice to others.

The funds of the Institution should be preserved intact from all but its legitimate objects; and should any be now appropriated, whether in a present sum, or in a guarantee to pay the annual premium of his life policy (for £1500 I understand), it will form a very bad precedent, and a very difficult one to set aside upon the retirement of all subsequent secretaries. The youth of the society and his connection with it, five years only, do not warrant the proposed step. Had Mr. Perry's reason become shattered through the performance of excessively onerous duties on behalf of the society, some show of claim on it would be established, but it is not so, but from constitutional and hereditary causes it has been disturbed.

It may be (and would not be an unusual fact) that Mr. Perry may live to an old age, during which time the bonuses periodically allocated would accrue to his policy, and at his death three or four thousand pounds would be paid to his family from funds to which they had not contributed at all, or at least but a few pounds.

Whatever is done, I submit, should be done by private subscription, to which I would give my mite, and yearly, if required. Of the intended object I approve, but not the means to attain it. Justice first, generosity after.

I remain, Sir, yours respectfully,
A POLICY HOLDER FOR £500.

Sydney, February 27, 1855.

VICTORIA.

BREACH OF PASSENGERS' ACT.—At the City Court, on Wednesday, John Fitzgerald complained against H. A. Burdell, of the firm of Burdell and Co., Collins-street West, for a breach of the Passengers' Act. It appeared that defendant and others acted as sub agents for the Sussex; and upon the returns being sent in to the agents, Messrs White and Co., it was found that about a dozen more passages had been taken than were berths prepared, whereupon the surplus passengers were offered accommodation in other vessels of the same line, and payment of interim expenses, or return of money; but this complainant, not satisfied with that, urged upon the consideration of the bench, that the practice of sub-agency was a great humbug and nuisance that ought to be put down, and he wished for exemplary damages for the loss of time and other losses and annoyances he had sustained. The Mayor said he was himself in doubt as to the propriety of the practice mentioned, but he considered justice would be met by an order for the restitution of the money, together with £2 per week expenses, which order was made forthwith.

CONGREGATIONAL MISSIONARY MEETING.—The annual meeting of the Auxiliary to the London Missionary Society, in connection with the Independent Church, Collins-street East, was held on Wednesday evening, the 14th instant. The chair was taken by Robert Smith, Esq., the treasurer of the society. After the proceedings had been commenced by singing a hymn, the Rev. J. Hetherington read a portion of a Scripture and engaged in prayer. The chairman then read some interesting extracts from letters he had received from the missionaries at Samoa. Mr. O. Kemp read the annual report. It consisted of a brief summary of the report of the parent society for 1853-4, and stated that £150 19s. 1d had been subscribed by the auxiliary society during the past twelve months. The meeting was addressed by the Rev. Messrs. Ramsay, A. Morison, Sutters, Hannay, and Goethe, Messrs. H. Drew, and Jerson. The Rev. Mr. Fletcher concluded with prayer.

MATRIMONY IN DIFFICULTIES.—On Wednesday, Rose Young, alias Hunter, an elderly woman who had evidently seen better days, was brought up at the City Court, in company with her husband John Hunter, charged by Mr. Lightfoot, of Collins street, the man with being concealed under her bed, and the woman with harbouring him there. It appeared that the husband had been sick, and their friends having disappeared, the wife went to service as a single woman; her husband came to see her from St. Kilda, and she accommodated him with a night's lodging without Mr. Lightfoot's consent, whereupon that gentleman preferred the present charge, remarking, as an expression of doubt, as to the marriage, that it was not a usual course of procedure. The Bench, having been satisfied by inquiry as to the respectability of the parties and their marriage, told them they had acted improperly, but as there was no evidence of felonious intent, they were discharged.

FORGERY.—Charles Steel, a person of middle age, formerly in business in Melbourne, at the corner of Russell and Little Bourke streets as a grocer, was brought up on warrant at the City Court on Wednesday, charged with having forged a bill of exchange for £1012 6s. 8d., and purporting to be accepted by Messrs. R. and H. Kerr, grocers, Collins-street East. The prisoner had contrived to evade the emissaries of the law until a few days since, when he was apprehended at Benalla, and brought-to-book at the City Court on Tuesday, and remanded. Mr. Badcock, manager of the Bank of New South Wales, deposed that on the 19th September last, prisoner presented the document at this bank, stating that it had been accepted by Messrs. Kerr, and as the signature was similar to that of the Messrs. Kerr, and the prisoner had been in the habit of discounting bills there, the bill in question was discounted; but upon its being paid into the Union Bank in due course, the acceptance was repudiated. Mr. Robert Kerr, of the firm of R. and H. Kerr, proved the forgery; and the prisoner was defended Mr. H. Stephen. Having declined to say anything, he was committed for trial.

SAVINGS BANKS.—From the accounts of the Savings Banks of the colony for the twelve months ending 30th June, 1854, we gather the following information:—The gross amount of money received and credited by the commissioners during that period, including interest, was—in Melbourne, £4115 5s 7d; in Geelong, £2989 5s 9d; in Portland, £565 4s; in Belfast, £113 13s 11d. The sums paid during the same period were—Melbourne, £7926 16s 7d; Geelong, £541 11s; Portland, £20 1s; and Belfast, £362 16s 7d. From the balance-sheet it appears that the following sums were lying to the credit of the different trustees, viz:—Melbourne, £166,123 16s 10; Geelong, £9839 5s 9d; Portland, £884 14s 8d, Belfast, £1157 2s 1d; making a total of £178,004 19s 4d. The gross profit during the year was £9066 15s 2d; from which £3461 9s 6d have to be deducted for charges, as follows:—Premiums and exchanges, £638 19s 3d; charges of commissioners' departments, £1134 2s 1d; charges of Melbourne banks, £1321 6s; of Geelong ditto, £249 15s 6d; of Portland, ditto, £40 4s 8d; of Belfast, ditto, £77 2s; leaving a net profit of £5605 6s 8d. From this allowances for interest to depositors have been made in the following manner:—To Melbourne, £3556 7s 11; to Geelong, £247 8s; to Portland, £23 15s 4d; to Belfast, £34 1s 3d; and the balance, £1743 14s, has been carried to the Rest Fund, which had previously reached £3168 8s 4d. The cost of managing the Melbourne bank is also 37 per cent. of the amount allowed to depositors. Of the funds of the bank £78,850 are lent on 64 mortgages; £73,300 are lent on New South Wales Land and Immigration Debentures; £20,000 on Melbourne Corporation Bonds; and £8769 7s, balances in banks. On the 1st July there were 633 depositors whose balances did not exceed £20, their deposits amounting to £5264 14s 11d; 688 ditto above £20, and not exceeding £50, amounting to £22,269 15s 7d; 499 above £50, and not over £100, amounting to £34,291 10s 10d; 313 above £100, and not exceeding £150, amounting to £36,344 2s 1d; 122 above £150, and not exceeding £200, amounting to £20,691 7s 8d; and 162 above £200, amounting to £43,534 15s 11d. In the Melbourne Bank, the depositors' balances on the 30th June, 1853, amounted to £132,891 1s 10d, and the deposits during the succeeding twelve months amounted to £178,003 8s 6d; whilst the repayments to depositors during that period was £147,619 10s 3d, showing, in the twelve months, an excess of deposits over repayments, of £30,383 18s 3d. On the 1st July, 1854, as compared with the same date of the preceding year, there was, in Melbourne, an increase of 170 in the number of depositors, and of £33,910 6s 2d in the amount of deposits; in Geelong, an increase of 11 depositors, and of £3269 4s in amount of deposits; in Portland, an increase of 28 depositors, and of £249 13s 8d in amount of deposits; and in Belfast, an increase of 3 depositors, and with a decrease of £94 13s 8d in amount of deposits; showing a total increase of depositors of 212, and in amount of deposits of £37,365 10s 1d.

"VAIN, VERY VAIN."—A very magnificent specimen of that peculiar stolidity which is never found in perfection except in corporations, has obtruded itself upon our attention for the last few months. We have waited that time to see whether our Swanston-street luminaries were really as unconscious as they appeared to be of the ridiculous blunder they have perpetrated. They have erected upon the top of the tower of Mr. Kerr's £40,000 stone palace, a complicated piece of ironmongery intended as a weathercock, whose duty it of course should be to indicate the direction of the wind. This piece of workmanship, costing probably twenty or thirty pounds, or, if supplied by the cousin of a councillor or alderman, possibly forty or fifty, is ornamental enough in its way; but it has the trifling disadvantage of being entirely useless, in consequence of our civic sages having forgotten the vane. Stiff, solemn, immovable arms point out the various points of the compass; and we are informed with a grim regularity which is north, south, east, or west; but as nothing moves with the wind to indicate its direction, the weathercock is a mere piece of useless expensiveness, an eye-sore to those who know what it ought to be, a standing commentary upon City Council stupidity! The affair has been in its present state for several months. The citizens can see it, and judge for themselves.

SUMMARY OF MINING INTELLIGENCE.

(From the Ovens and Murray Advertiser.)

SPRING CREEK.—Although a considerable increase is observable in the population of this gold field, mining operations have been prosecuted but slowly, in consequence of the attractions offered by the races. The 'New Rush' is still sought for, and many parties are coming in from the Nine-mile with the intention of steadily trying their fortunes up the gully, where the lead of gold appears to tend. Many persons, however, merely attracted by the 'rush,' have left for their former claims.

REID'S CREEK.—Judging from the profuse expenditure of our worthy and liberal friends at Reid's Creek, who were determined to spend their money, and to run their hacks against anything and for any amount, we should opine that the treasures of this gold field are still within the reach of the very orderly and steady-working population who are employed there.

SNAKE VALLEY.—Matters during the past week have not shown their usual activity, but in a few days we shall resume our former steady appearance. We regret to hear a rumour of the approaching departure of the chief of our police here, Mr. Sub-Inspector Wilson, who will be much missed amongst us. Mr. Wilson has, while stationed here, been indeed a 'terror to evil doers;' and we can only hope that his successor may follow in his footsteps. His (Mr. Wilson's) clever capture of the parties who effected the robbery at Deep Creek, mentioned in our police report, reflects much credit upon him.

YAHCANDANDAH.—The injuries effected by the late floods on this creek having now been entirely repaired, the miners are prosecuting their works, more particularly in the neighbourhood of Osborne's Flat, with renewed vigour. The decrease in the last two escorts from this station is mainly attributable to the fact that a higher price is given for gold at Snake Valley and Beechworth, whither it is taken by private hand; indeed we believe only one storekeeper is at the present time purchasing on Yahcandandah.

BUCKLAND.—We have to mention with regret the extremely unfavourable report of the sanatory condition of this district during the past week. Dysentry, combined with low fever, still prevails in a greater or less degree, and two deaths from the above causes are reported. The intended resignation of Mr. Commissioner Hood is spoken of on all sides with universal regret; in fact, but one feeling on the subject exists, and although all concur in regretting his departure, and fear "they ne'er will look upon his like again," it is at the same time acknowledged he and many other deserving officers have received but small inducement to remain in the Government service.

SANDY CREEK is deserted, and the commissioner, J. F. Jones, Esq., and his clerk, have returned to head quarters at Beechworth.

We feel compelled to allude in terms of the greatest praise to the extremely orderly manner in which our visitors of the past week conducted themselves. We might, we are convinced, challenge the colony to show so great a number of persons collected for the purpose of enjoyment with so little disorder or crime. Good humour and jollity were the orders of the day on our race course and township, and the police have held perfect sinecures.

(From the Mount Alexander Mail.)

The following intelligence extends up to the 3rd February:—

MOUNT FRANKLYN.—The miners are doing well. A new gully has been opened at the back of the camp, and the hill opposite the camp has also been tried with success. Where the lead is struck in the deep sinking, it turns out very rich. There have been several applications for permission to erect puddling machines and for sluicing claims, to be ready against the winter. Population, about 2000.

TARRANGOWER.—The population is daily increasing, and is scattered over a large area. The people are all doing well, and in consequence there is more activity in every kind of business.

FRYER'S CREEK.—The yield of gold continues very remunerative, and a nugget of pure gold, weighing 272 ozs. 10 dwts. nett weight, has been taken from New Year's flat. Some new ground has been opened during the week, the yield from which has been most satisfactory. There has been an increase in the population of 800 persons during the week. The number on the ground at present is about 6000.

GOLDEN POINT.—No change since last week.

CASTLEMAINE.—Some rushes have taken place to some old ground, both on Forest and Campbell creeks, and several claims have turned out well. The population is about the same as last week, and the condition of the neighbourhood is healthy.

ADELAIDE FLAT.—NEW RUSH.—This lively scene has lasted now about ten days or a fortnight, and though originating in no splendid discovery, promises to repay the labour which so large a body of men are bestowing upon it. It appears that, a short time back, two or three parties were "taking down paddocks" near the creek; they did not do much good for themselves, but it was found that their operations lowered the water in the nearest holes; this encouraged others and more came, and the result is there is a rush of about 1000 men, who, from many enquiries made upon the spot, appear to be nearly all doing well, though it would seem that no very great windfall had occurred to any one. Nearly all the holes are dry. This is the second time the flat has been attacked by a large body of men, and it is thought certain that there lies ten times more gold there than has ever been taken out. It appears to be spread pretty evenly over the flat, and not distributed like prize money after a naval victory. A great number of the diggers here are the same men who made that rush upon PENNYWEIGHT FLAT, near the foot of Wesley Hill, which is now comparatively deserted; some parties are doing pretty well on this flat. Nuggets of one and a quarter ounce have been found on the western side of the flat, rather high up, towards Moonlight. As much as eight ounces to the tub have in one or two instances been washed. It is understood that, taking the flat throughout, there is still about an hour and a half daily wasted in baling; but this is endurable, if the remainder of the day be profitably employed.

MOONLIGHT FLAT.—The diggers here, from all we can learn, are as well or better paid for their labour than on many other parts of the district. A storekeeper purchased from one pair on Saturday fifteen ounces, said to have been got out since Wednesday morning, and such instances are by no means rare. The water appears to be reduced to tolerable limits and the reason of this flat not being more extensively worked is not very clear. Perhaps it stagnates upon its old reputation of being waded with water. Certainly, if any think it nearly worked out, that is a capital error, especially when the patchy character of the ground is considered. Wheal Castlemane is still going on, but the time elapsed has been much too short to repay the great outlay that must of necessity have been incurred at first.

THE MAIL CONVEYANCE.—Our attention has on several occasions been called to the disgraceful manner in which passengers by mail conveyance from Melbourne are treated. We are astonished that this evil should have been allowed to continue for so long a time, and that so excellent a field for speculation, as a regular passenger conveyance, should have been overlooked by capitalists. It is notorious that the description of cart at present in use is incapable of accommodating, with comfort, more than three passengers in addition to the driver: but notwithstanding in several instances as many as eight passengers have been crowded into this vehicle, which is no larger than an ordinary dog-cart, and is, moreover, loaded with heavy mail bags. When we consider the nature of the roads in this part of the country, and the amount of traffic between Melbourne and the Ovens, we cannot but be surprised that, if not for their profit, at least for their own credit, the proprietors of this conveyance should have neglected to supply a commodious and comfortable means of transport, and to protect their customers from the impertinence and impositions of drivers. The fare demanded of each passenger from Melbourne to Beechworth is £12, a sum which should at least entitle the traveller to comfort and civility. We would recommend the contractors to reform their system; to pay more attention to the accommodation of their passengers; and less to the exaction of high fares; this, at least, if they would avoid an opposition which might to them prove ruinous. We have no hesitation in saying that if a sufficient and regular means of transit were provided for this road, and the fare reduced to something like a reasonable charge, the profits of the proprietor would be greater in ratio to the increased advantages afforded to the public. We trust that the mail contractors will see the advantages of attending to these suggestions.—Murray Advertiser.

TERRIFIC FIRE.—A gentleman, who has recently come from the neighbourhood of Mount Barker has informed us that the most destructive fires raged in that district on Friday last, in many instances burning the people's houses and injuring their stock. Mr. Francis Hunt's property had fortunately escaped, but a valuable horse was burnt so seriously as to be beyond all hope of recovery. There are many persons who have been literally deprived of any place in which they could lay their heads.—Adelaide Times, 13th instant.

FOR LONDON.—By the Prince of Wales, this day, at 6 p.m.

FOR MELBOURNE.—By the Telegraph (s.), and London (s.), tomorrow, at 2 p.m.

FOR WANGANUI AND NEW PLYMOUTH.—By the Rosebud, this day, at 6 p.m.

MELBOURNE.

ARRIVALS.

February 22.—Pacific (s.), from Plymouth; Malay, from New York; Christina, from Hamburgh; Clio, from Amsterdam.

CLEARED OUT.—February 22. Emily Jane, for Sydney.

ENTERED OUT.—February 22. Fawn, for Sydney.

The Malay, American ship, spoke the following vessels:—February 9, the American ship, Caroline Read, from London to Sydney, eighty-five days out, in latitude 44·50 S., long. 92·10 E. February 15, 44·30 S., long. 121· E., the barque Fingal, with passengers for this port, place of departure unknown; and February 20, the Dutch barque Fortfield, in latitude 40·20 S., longitude 130·35 E., bound from London to Melbourne, one hundred and six days out. On the 18th January, Captain Hutchinson saw sixty icebergs in latitude 41· S., and between long. 17· to 12· W.—Argus, February 23.

The Clio, spoke the Helen Stewart on the 11th February, in lat. 47·30 S., long. 132· E., bound from London to Sydney.—Argus, February 23.

The Yarrante, ship, with two hundred and forty-six Chinese passengers from Hong Kong, sixty-nine days out, was being towed up the Bay when our report was despatched.—Argus, 23rd February.

GEELONG.

ARRIVAL.

February 21.—Marchioness of Salisbury, from Plymouth.

THE STEAMSHIP PACIFIC.

THIS splendid ship is the largest ever built for a colonial proprietary, and is the property of the Sydney and Melbourne Steam Packet Company. The contract for this vessel was taken by Messrs. John Scott Russell and Co., under the inspection and superintendence of her present commander, Captain Thompson (late of the Sarah Sands), and has been built for the purpose of trading between Sydney and Melbourne, and from her tonnage and power she is in every respect eminently adapted to meet the traffic which exists between this and many of the neighbouring colonies. The Pacific is an iron ship, built of unusual strength, and from the most approved lines. We have copied from time to time the various accounts which have been printed in the London papers, of her build, launch, &c.; and as much expectation, both here and in England as to the certainty of her making an unequalled passage out, it may be desirable to mention the causes which unexpectedly arose, and which have occasioned such a protracted voyage.

Some idea of the speed of the Pacific may be given from the following run which she made when deeply laden with coals provisions, &c., ready for sea. She left the South Foreland at 3·24 p.m., on the 23rd November, and arrived at Plymouth Breakwater, a distance of 238 miles, at 10·24 a.m. on the 24th, giving her an average speed of 12 knots per hour. On the evening of the 25th November she left Plymouth for St. Vincent, under easy steam. On the third day out it was discovered that one of the connecting rods had broken, which was attached to the float for the purpose of feathering by an eccentric fixed at the ends of the shaft: spare ones being on board, this was immediately replaced, and the ship continued on her voyage. Between that, however, and St. Vincent's six more were broken, and having at first only three spare ones she was now compelled to bolt permanently three of the floats or the arms of the wheels; more than half a day was lost in doing this, besides having to steam slowly, which cost at least a delay of another day. Notwithstanding all this, the Pacific reached St. Vincent in nine days and eight hours, four hours less than had been performed by any other steam vessel. Here, as the rods were evidently too light, Capt. Thompson deemed it advisable to reduce all the floats five inches, hoping this would remedy the difficulty. After stoppages of three days and a half coaling, &c., the Pacific left for the Cape of Good Hope, and on the fourth day encountered the commencement of the north-east trades, steaming against which soon broke more rods and caused more delay. On finding that the coals were rapidly running out, and that it would be impossible to reach the Cape with the stock then on board, Captain Thompson shaped his course for the island of St. Helena, which she reached in eleven and a half days from St. Vincent. This involved another delay of thirty-six hours, and the Pacific was again under weigh, and steered direct for the Cape of Good Hope, having to contend against a fresh trade wind the whole way. It was not until the 29th December that she anchored in Table Bay. Here a week was occupied in coaling and obtaining more connecting rods of greater strength; and on the 5th January, being ready for sea, deeply laden, she left for Melbourne, steaming slowly against a heavy rolling swell right a-head; but before she had been outside two hours, one of the new rods bent and an old one broke, and she was compelled to return to Table Bay to repair. By midnight she was ready for sea, and again left; but had not reached her former distance before she was compelled to return to port from a similar cause. Captain Thompson was now fully satisfied that it was impossible to reach Melbourne with feathering floats, and immediately made arrangements for shipping both wheels and fixing permanent slabs of African oak on the arms of the wheels, as the only means to enable him to prosecute the remainder of his voyage. This involved another six days' delay; so it was not until the 11th January that the Pacific finally left Cape Town. As might be expected, this crippled condition materially reduced the speed of the ship, varying from two to three knots per hour, which, with the succession of light and variable winds the whole way (notwithstanding she went as far as 46 degrees south), in consequence of not meeting with the westerly winds, and being compelled to steam so great a distance, caused a great consumption of fuel, and rendered it imperative to touch at King George's Sound for a further supply of coals, which she reached on the 10th instant; and although every exertion was made to give the ship all possible despatch, it was not until the 16th instant that she could obtain a sufficient quantity to carry her on to Melbourne. The run from King George's Sound occupied exactly six days from Heads to Heads. It will thus be seen the great detention of this ship has arisen from a miscalculation on the part of her engineers as to the required strength of her connecting rods. The Pacific, in every other respect, is quite as efficient now as the day she left Plymouth. The time occupied by the Pacific was fifty-eight days under steam, seven days under canvass and twenty-three days in port.

The Pacific cleared Melbourne Heads at 11 a.m. on Saturday morning, steaming against a head wind all the way, and arrived at the Heads of Port Jackson at 5.30 p.m. yesterday. Passed the City of Sydney off Cape Shancke on Saturday; and on Sunday evening, the steamer Hellespont and two brigs between Cape Howe and Twofold Bay, all bound to the westward.

The voyage of the Pacific, although protracted, is spoken of by all the passengers as one of great comfort, the captain and officers having done all in their power to promote the happiness of all on board. As a token of respect to Captain Thompson, an address has been presented to him, signed by all the passengers, marking their estimation of his high qualities; and to the Rev. W. Kemp, a Congregational Minister, an address and purse of forty sovereigns, for his zealous efforts to promote the spiritual welfare of all on board.

We are requested by the directors of the S. and M. Steam Packet Company to mention that the Pacific will be ready for the inspection of the public in a few days, of which due notice will be given.

CUSTOM HOUSE.—Entered Outwards, February 26. London (s.), 405 tons, Captain Watts, for Melbourne; Acadia, barque, 300 tons, Captain Parker, for California; Duke of Wellington, schooner, 100 tons, Captain Ward, for Port Nicholson.

GRAND MATCH BETWEEN M'GRATH AND DEWARD.—This event, which has caused more than usual excitement, will be decided to-day; the start will take place at 11 a.m., from the Red Buoy, off Fort Macquarie, and the course to be pulled is from thence round Shark Island and back to the Red Buoy; the amount of stakes £200 a-side. The Victoria steamer will leave the New Wharf at a quarter to 11 o'clock, and follow the boats round, and the umpires will proceed by her. Both men have been in close training and appear in excellent condition. The boats are colonial, M'Grath's having been built by Reynolds, of Balmain, and Deward's, by P. Mulhall; we trust, therefore, that no circumstances will occur to mar a fair trial for the competitors. Mr. W. Dind has consented to act as umpire on the part of M'Grath, and Mr. George Thornton as mutual referee.

The Agricola came up from quarantine yesterday to the usual moorings off Dawes' Point.

477 packages, per Waverley, consigned to Haidwell, should have been Caldwell, and 11 packages for P. Bauike, should be Perks and Bauike.

The French war steamer Duroc, which arrived yesterday from New Caledonia, via Newcastle, saluted yesterday forenoon, which was returned by the batteries at Fort Macquarie.

The Duroc is a French war steamer, brig rigged, and has come to this port for provisions, coals, &c., for the French station at New Caledonia. She has brought down from that place the crew of the London Packet, an account of which we gave in Thursday's Herald. The Duroc reports having put an officer and 10 seamen on board the barque Seims, of Sydney, to take her on to Tahiti, as the crew had mutinied, and six of them came on to Sydney by the Collaroy (s.), on Saturday February 26, having been put on board from the Duroc. Their names are—W. Moiton, J. McCurley, J. Fyfe, A. Frances, G. Denham, H. Hayfield.

MAIL FOR ENGLAND BY THE JAMES BAINES.—The James Baines will leave Melbourne on the 10th March, with the return mail for England. A mail forwarded therefore by the City of Sydney (s.), which will leave here on Wednesday, the 7th March, will arrive in Melbourne in time to be placed on board the James Baines.

THE CROESUS.—This steamship, which left Sydney on the 2nd of September, put into St Vincent on the 27th of October, having carried away some portion of her screw off the Horn. Her long passage may be attributed to the foulness of her bottom, and the hindrances she met with from the large quantity of ice she fell in with. At St. Vincent she repaired and took on board 600 tons of coal, and left for Southampton on the 29th of the same month.

LOSS OF THE UNION.—During the stay of the Pacific at St. Vincent, the captain, crew, and passengers of the brig Union, from London for Launceston, arrived in a coaster, which vessel had been totally lost on a reef on one of the Cape de Verde Islands on the 6th of December. A subscription for the crew was made by the captain, officers, and passengers of the Pacific.

The clipper ship Nugget was spoken two days eastward of the Cape, by the Pacific.

The Madras arrived at King George's Sound on the 8th instant, and left again for Galle the same evening.

The Antelope, which had been ashore in King George's Sound, had got off without damage.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.—The following quantities of colonial produce have been received coastwise during the week—51 casks tallow, 15 hides, 331 bales wool, 2 bundles sheepskins, 36,000 feet timber, 450 posts and rails, 35,000 laths, 1265 tons coal, 1650 bushels and 2 tons maize, 290 bales and 10 tons hay, 4507 bushels and 2 tons grain, 78 horses, 12 coops fowls, 182 sheep, 400 bushels shells, 21 calves, 19 cases eggs, 79 pigs, 16 tons firewood, 542 bags and 135 tons potatoes, 152 kegs butter, 117 bags onions, 1 ton bark.

YACHT RACE.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—I was somewhat surprised this morning on reading the result of the race of the yachts on Saturday last, that the time was given—difference between Frolic and Presto, 6 minutes 48½ seconds, Frolic winning by 35½ seconds; whereby Mr. Douglas, Mr. Newell, and myself, took the exact time to be 7 minutes 50 seconds, calling the time to each other every minute after the lapse of the 5 minutes of the Presto passing the steamer Huntress. I am not interested, or known to any party connected with either of the boats, so I hand my interest over to the Patriotic Fund; but justice and impartiality I admire.

I am, Sir, your's &c.,
J. C. PETERS.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1855.

WE regret to find that subsequent events have not fully answered to our high appreciation of the spirit displayed at the close of the election for the Hamlets. We are accustomed to ebullitions of temper, and bitterness of speech, during the excitement of a contest, but that excitement is alone its excuse. The friends of a candidate usually represent him as something superior to CICERO in eloquence, and CATO in virtue. Full of love for his native street, if he does not, like the Roman horseman, precipitate himself in the first chasm which it opens — to prove his patriotism, it is because he will not interfere with the commissioners. The "fellow opposite" is exactly the reverse. Having seen a good many deliverers of their parish at the head of the poll, or elsewhere, we presume that men of experience take highly seasoned eloquence, sanguine predictions, and patriotic vows, for what they are worth. An election being over, a sponge should be applied both to the walls and to the memory. The candidates honour themselves when they acknowledge as final the decision to which they have appealed, and bear no malice, and display no envy. At a recent election at Melbourne, while the defeated candidate was eulogizing his successful opponent, one of the crowd joined in, "And why did you not say this before?" The reply was very sufficient—that before, it was not his business; that it was not for him to promote the cause of his antagonist by publishing his praise! The working of free institutions demands the constant recognition of others' rights, and the generous treatment of an adversary. When the election is over, men who have been opposed for four-and-twenty hours—have to meet in the same circles, toact their parts in commercial and scientific undertakings, and they only embitter social life, by debasing a fair opposition into personal enmity.

The city has been a little startled by the posting of Mr. ROBERT CAMPBELL by his namesake, "a liar and a coward." We presume we are to sa take both in the "Pickwickian sense," because we believe few in this city will allow Mr. ROBERT CAMPBELL to be either. The CAMPBELLS of the Wharf are men of whose personal worth we presume the sober people of this city are not likely to entertain any doubt; as to their fighting powers — every Scotsman is brave, and there is an end of that question. The attempt at duelling will not receive countenance from any man who has any brains to lose. It is a ridiculous sight—a mercantile gentleman appealing to weapons of assault and defence, to test a question of commercial honour. A man may stand being shot at, and yet be a slanderer, he may be able to go through the whole exercise of the duellist, and yet be a cheat. The people of the dark ages purged their charater, and fulfilled their obligations with swords and bullets, but civilization pertinaciously asserts, that men who are liars and slanderers are not less so because they have the brute courage to maintained their wrong. We are sorry to see a custom recognized even in a blind alley, which the military authorities treat as an offence—and which the laws deem a crime. It is creditable to Mr. ROBERT CAMPBELL that he refused that kind of appeal which reason condemns for its absurdity, and Christianity repudiates, as often an inexpiable violation of its first social law.

The rejection of appeal to single combat, imposes, however, additional obligations on every gentleman. The duty of self-restraint, is rendered more urgent by the rejection ofthe appeal to the sword. The only defence of duelling we could ever think worth notice was its tendency to check those ruthless sallies of temper, which cannot be effectually restrained by laws. There are men, doubtless, who have been kept within bounds by their fears of a challenge: and upon whom the voice of reason, or of religion, is totally lost. Gentlemen of liberal education and social position, like those engaged in this quarrel, will exercise a more careful control over the dangerous faculty of speech, from the fact that they are bound by the most sacred laws to repudiate the deadly weapons, which in other times were the arbiters of quarrels.

We have already expressed an opinion on the introduction of the question at issue between the firms of CAMPBELL and Co. and ALEXANDER CAMPBELL. It was irrelevant and uncalled for. If Mr. CAMPBELL had been disqualified for the Legislature by mercantile delinquencies, it was a matter too serious for discussion at the hustings. The case brought forward was not adapted to produce its conviction. It depended on many particulars, which it is difficult to estimate properly, even when they are read, and, except certain catchwords, as robbery, robbers, and cheats, it would be wholly unintelligible to a crowd. When we hear a charge of fraud, we first enquire whether that is the only possible conclusion; we search out first, what was the liability to mistake; we note the time that elapsed between the different stages of the fraud alleged, and we enquire the benefit to accrue to the party asserted to be guilty. The sum in question is sixty pounds; an amount too paltry to seduce a firm above a chandler's shop into a complicated fraud: which must have been discovered at a time not very remote. We see no ground to attribute design to the parties in any guilty sense. We have no doubt a mistake did occur, but it would be certainly hard were every such error, especially when committed through the agency of servants, to justify the imputation of dishonesty. The refusal of the firm to pay the law expenses to the extent required might be perhaps a reasonable ground of complaint, but it does not make the previous character of the transaction one whit better or worse.

We have reason to congratulate "the mob" on their intelligent conduct. There cannot be any doubt that Mr. ROBERT CAMPBELL wandered a little, when his friends were resolved not to listen to his assertions. A promiscuous assembly is often very wrong on questions of an abstract nature, or points of political dispute: but it is rarely misled when material for giving a sound judgment is at hand, and complete. It is, therefore, without much surprise that we find the people, gathered at the hustings, and at the declaration of the poll heard, without sympathy and without curiosity, the mention of a quarrel which did not concern the public, and which had no broad facts to conduct to a clear and decisive conclusion. We do not believe that Mr. CAMPBELL cheated Messrs. CAMPBELL and Co. We do not believe that Mr. ROBERT CAMPBELL is a liar and a coward, but this we do believe—that he is hasty in his resentments, as well as resolute in his opinions, and apt to speak unadvisedly when his blood is up; an event not uncommon to the CAMPBELLS. The city is in some measure concerned in the reputation of its firms. Mr. A. CAMPBELL has been repeatedly placed in positions where he has represented the ody of merchants. They are his judges. It does not become the accuser to assume infallibility, or to issue a peremptory sentence of condemnation.

It is for the mercantile body of this city to arbitrate between the parties, and terminate the scandal of a dispute which seems to founded in mistake.

This view of the case will not, of course, be gratifying to the parties have exchanged mortal defiance, but we are certain that it would be the sentence of that great proportion of sociey who are accustomed to "hear all, and say nothing."

ASSIZE INTELLIGENCE.

MAITLAND COUNTY COURT.—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 24.

CIVIL SIDE.

(Before His Honor the CHIEF JUSTICE and a Jury of Four.)

HART V. HORAN.

THIS was an action for debt. Defendant pleaded the general issue. For plaintiff, Mr. Darvall; attorney, Mr. Shuttleworth. For defendant, Mr. Broadhurst; attorney, Mr. O'Meagher. By consent, the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff; damages £124 17s. 7d.

CRUICKSHANK V. STARR.

This was an action for debt. By consent, a verdict was given for plaintiff; damages, £42 9s. Counsel for plaintiff, Mr. Lutwyche; attorney, Mr. Muller. For defendant, Mr. Milford; attornies, Messrs. Rodd and Dawson.

JACQUES V. JOHNSTON.

This was an action for breach of contract. The declaration stated that the defendant, on the 26th July last, sold to plaintiff 600 bushels of maize, at 10s. per bushel, and agreed to deliver same on board a vessel at Clarence Town within a fortnight from the date of said agreement, and that although a fortnight, and a reasonable time therefrom, has since elapsed, and that plaintiff was always ready and willing to receive the said maize, yet that the defendant has wholly neglected to deliver the same, &c., to the plaintiff's damage of £250. In a second count, the declaration stated that defendant was indebted to plaintiff for money had and received. To this declaration defendant (by a Judge's order) pleaded, first, that he did not promise as alleged; and, secondly, that plaintiff was not always ready and willing to receive and accept said maize, and to pay for same, and upon these pleas issue was joined.

The Solicitor-General appeared for the plaintiff; attorney, Mr. R. B. Minter. For defendant, Mr. Broadhurst; attorney, Mr. O'Meagher.

The SOLICITOR-GENERAL, having stated the facts of the case, called Charles E. Jacques, who being sworn and examined, said, that he is plaintiff in this action, and on the 26th of June last entered into a written contract with the defendant, Johnston, to purchase 600 bushels of maize, at 10s. per bushel, to be delivered in about a fortnight afterwards, at defendant's farm, Clarence Town; witness, on the agreement being signed, paid the defendant £100 on account; and in the beginning of August last he received a message from the defendant, that he was ready to deliver the maize; plaintiff accordingly hired a vessel, and went up to Clarence Town, with bags ready to receive the corn, and on going towards defendant's house saw him drying about 50 or 60 bushels of maize in the sun, spread on a tarpaulin; defendant then said that that was some of the maize he was going to give the plaintiff—that it had got a little wet, but would not be at all injured when dried. Defendant then asked plaintiff to come up to his place and inspect the rest of the maize, but plaintiff declined doing so, and at the request of the defendant agreed to wait another fortnight to allow him time to get the maize ready—this time was again extended fortnight more, when defendant wrote to the plaintiff to say that he was ready to deliver the maize—on which plaintiff chartered a small vessel, and sent it to Clarence Town; but when the maize was produced, it was wet and heated, and almost unsaleable—in fact, it was proved by a Mr. Galley, an experienced farmer, that the corn was gathered while yet unripe, and full of sap, and being exposed to rain it heated, and became almost valueless. Plaintiff, therefore, refused to receive it, and wrote to defendant demanding back the £100 paid on account, which defendant refused to pay.

Mr. John Lee, of Morpeth, proved that he was present when the contract for the maize was made between plaintiff and defendant; was a witness to the agreement now shown him, and saw the plaintiff Mr. Jacques pay Johnston £100 on account; the sample of maize shown to plaintiff by defendant was of a very superior quality.

George Curtis proved that he examined the corn left by defendant at Mr. Galley's store for the plaintiff, and found it very inferior; it was heated and unripe corn; at plaintiff's request witness took a sample and sealed it up, the sample now produced is the same.

William Latimer proved that the defendant's maize crop was very poor and inferior, and pulled before it was ripe; in fact witness considered it unmarketable and nearly useless.

This was the plaintiff's case.

Mr. BROADHURST addressed the Jury at some length for the defendant, and called John Newman, who proved that, at the time defendant sold the maize to plaintiff, it was in good sound condition, and in no way injured by wet—that the weather was rainy when defendant was removing the maize from his farm to Clarence Town (a distance of eighteen miles), and might have got wet in the carriage; but that, if it was dried immediately after, it would not be injured. John Johnston was called to prove the same fact, and Thomas Johnston, of Morpeth, was called to prove that defendant offered plaintiff corn to the value of £100, and also the sum of £34, as compensation for any loss sustained before action brought.

His Honor summed up, and the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, damages £110.

Counsel for plaintiff, the Solicitor-General; attorney, Mr. R. B. Minter. For defendant, Mr. Broadhurst; attorney, Mr. O'Meagher.

HICKEY V. NEWMAN.

This was an action on contract. The declaration stated that on the 30th March, 1854, defendant bought of plaintiff a certain quantity of hay at a certain price, to wit, £13 per ton, to be pressed and removed by defendant within a reasonable time; that is, within three months from date of agreement, and to be paid for by defendant, immediately after removal; and that although plaintiff was always ready and willing to allow defendant to weigh, press, and remove the said hay, yet that defendant neglected to remove the same, &c., whereby the plaintiff was compelled to resell the same at a loss of £5 15s. per ton less than the price agreed for between plaintiff and defendant, to the plaintiff's damage of £650, &c., &c. There was a second count for goods sold and delivered to defendant, and for money found to be due to plaintiff by defendant. To this declaration defendant pleaded, 1st, that he did not promise in manner and form as alleged, &c. Secondly, That plaintiff was not ready and willing to allow defendant to press and remove the hay. Thirdly, a plea of set-off to an amount equal to that claimed by the plaintiff; and a fourth plea of payment into Court of the sum of £317 in full, discharge and satisfaction of plaintiff's demand, and upon these pleas issue was joined.

The Solicitor-General appeared for the defendant, Attorney, Mr. Shuttleworth; for the plaintiff, Mr. Broadhurst, Attorney, Mr. O'Meagher.

Although this case occupied the Court for nearly five hours, and a number of witnesses were called on both sides, yet the only substantial question in dispute between the parties was whether the purchaser of hay in stack, and who, by the nature of the contract of sale, was to remove it himself, was allowed to charge for the battens and iron hoops used in packing the hay into trusses in the present case it appeared that the quantity of hay sold was about 54 tons; that it was in stack when sold, and that the weight of the battens and hoops used in packing each truss was, on an average, 38 lbs., and that upon the whole quantity sold the weight of the battens and hoops used in packing the trusses, would be nearly five tons, equal to £60, at £12 per ton; that amount the defendant insisted upon deducting from the price of the hay; but the plaintiff would not allow it. Much evidence was given by plaintiff to show that defendant was bound to pay for the quantity of hay weighed to him, and that he had nothing whatever to do with the packing, nor should any deduction be made on that account; on the contrary, it was contended by the defendant's counsel that such allowance was fair and reasonable, and was customary in such cases.

His HONOR having summed up, and directed the jury as to the issues they had to try, they retired for a short time, and returned with a verdict for plaintiff on the first issue, and for the defendant in all the other issues, which was in effect and substance a verdict for defendant. Counsel for plaintiff, Mr. Broadhurst; for defendant, the Solicitor-General.

The other causes in the civil list having been settled out of Court, this closed the civil business. Court adjourned to ten o'clock on Monday morning, when the criminal business will be resumed. There are yet 8 or 9 cases to be disposed of.

INSOLVENT COURT.

MONDAY.

BEFORE the Chief Commissioner of Insolvent Estates.

In the estate of Rich, Langley, and Butchart, a second meeting. Claims amounting to £1309 1s. 2d. were proved, and insolvents filed a schedule, the balance sheet of which sets out the liabilities of the firm at £8515 1s. 2d. (exclusive of contingent liabilities to the extent of £5574 14s. 9d.); the assets are set down at £7105 13s. 3d. of the real property, being valued at £300, the personal property at £372 13s. 10d., and £6332 19s. 5d. outstanding debts; leaving a deficit of £1409 7s. 11d. Mr. Richard Walton was elected to act with the Official Assignee on behalf of the creditors. The meeting was then adjourned until the 28th instant.

SURRENDER ACCEPTED.

The surrender of the following estate was accepted by Mr. Justice Therry.—Samuel Henry Cohen of George-street, Sydney, wholesale grocer. Liabilities, £11,942 17s. 1d. Assets—value of real property £400; of personal property, £3551 19s. 11d.; outstanding debts, £3641 4s. 4d.; total, £7596 4s. 3d. Balance deficiency, £4346 12s. 10d. Mr. John Morris, Official Assignee.

MEETING TO-DAY.

MEETINGS TO-MORROW.

In the estate of John Fearnley, a special meeting for proof of claims, at 10 o'clock.

In the estate of Rich, Langley, and Butchart, an adjourned second meeting, at 11.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

MONDAY.

Thirteen persons had been taken off the streets for drunkenness, one of whom was discharged from the lock-up on depositing 40s., which by non-appearance he forfeited. The rest were dealt with in the usual manner; those found drunk on Sunday being sentenced in the full penalty of 40s., the alternative being forty-eight hours' incarceration.

The general list consisted of sixteen charges, six of which were dismissed, three were remanded, and one sent for trial at the Quarter Sessions.

Joseph Mugford, a seaman, was charged with an assault upon constable Fitzgerald, who deposed that about midnight of Saturday, being on duty in George-street, he met about a dozen men, Mugford being one, behaving in very disorderly manner, and disturbing the neighbourhood by their ballooing. He spoke to them, and begged that they would proceed quietly on their way. They replied by a general rush at him, by which he was thrown down, and before he could regain his feet he received several kicks upon his body and face; Mugford kicked him once on his back. He succeeded in apprehending and detaining Mugford, the others making off. Sentenced to pay 20s. penalty and 2s. 6d. costs, or to be imprisoned for four days.

James Lannan pleaded guilty to an information under the Police Act, wherein he was charged with assaulting constable Steele, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 20s. with costs, 2s. 6d., or to be imprisoned for three days.

William M'Laughlin, a boy of about thirteen years of age, appeared to answer a charge of disorderly conduct by jostling and annoying two ladies who, on Sunday evening, were enjoying a walk in Hyde-park. The precocious scamp was ordered to be imprisoned for three days, unless his father should earlier enter into recognizances for his good behaviour.

Ann Wyer was charged by Constable Lucas, with having attempted to destroy herself by drowning. On Thursday morning, two lads walking in the Domain, saw the prisoner and an infant in the water, apparently drowning, and with praiseworthy promptitude went out and brought them on shore, after which they reported the circumstance to the constable. He (Lucas) found the child so exhausted that he feared to remove it, with the mother, to a lockup, in which extremity a kindhearted sergeant of the 11th Regiment took charge of the babe, and conveyed it to his own abode, and it is now doing well. The poor woman alleged that, having for three weeks past received no means of subsistance from her husband, who is employed at Dawson's foundry, and for several days having had no sustenance for either the child or herself, she was induced by the cries of her infant to attempt the destruction of both—a step which she now most heartily regretted. In reply to the magistrate, she said that she would thankfully go to the Benevolent Asylum, if she could only be accompanied by her child. Mr. Dowling discharged her with an order for admittance into the Asylum, and directed proceedings to be instituted against the unnatural husband and father.

A young man of gentlemanly appearance, who gave his name Thomson, was found guilty of trespassing on the railway paddock, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 10s.

Elizabeth Fane, found guilty of using obscene language in Durand's alley, was sentenced to pay 40s., or to be imprisoned for fourteen days.

James Hughes and Thomas Roberts were charged with being rogues and vagabonds. Inspector Singleton deposed that he had for several days seen the two prisoners in company, and from his knowledge of Hughes, had kept a look out for them; Hughes about two years since was apprehended with two others (one of whom has been since hanged, and the other tried for murder), for a breach of the Fire Arms Act, of which he was convicted, and received sentence of two years' hard labour; about a week since his sentence expired, and he left Cockatoo for Sydney; he (Singleton) knew nothing of Roberts, excepting the company in which for some days past he invariably saw him; about midnight of Saturday he saw them together in Pitt-street, and suspecting that something was up between them, at once made them prisoners; he felt something drop at his feet from Roberts, which he found was a brickbat slung at one end of a neck-tie, an article of dress of which Roberts was then deficient; on Hughes he found "a grey," and on Roberts a penny. Roberts said that he knew nothing of Hughes, having only made his acquaintance within the last few days; he had not followed any business since he left Maitland, where he was in the employ of a confectioner; he denied having ever had possession of the missile spoken of by Mr. Singleton. Hughes denied the applicability of the Vagrant Act to him, having been yet but nine days in Sydney, after two years of trouble for nothing; and moreover, he had entered into an engagement to proceed this very day with a team to Bathurst. In reply to interrogatories from the bench, Hughes said that he was engaged at a registry-office in George-street, on behalf of a gentleman named Stewart, whose team was to start from the Crooked Billet public-house. Mr. Dowling ordered him to stand back for awhile, and in the meantime inquiries were made by one of the officers, the result of which was unfavourable to the probability of Hughes' story. Both men were found guilty, and received sentence of three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

There were fifty-one cases on the summons list, about a dozen of which were dismissed for want of parties, and about an equal number on their merits, if such trumpery affairs as most of them were may be said to have merits. Michael M'Gurk, a resident at Balmain, was found guilty of a breach of the Licensing Act, in having become unruly through intoxication, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 20s., with 5s. for costs; and three ladies, friends of M'Gurk, for interfering with the constable who attempted to take him into custody, were severally fined in like sums. Samuel Donaldson was prosecuted by Mr. Stubbs, under the Toll Act, for having obstructed the passage of Botany-road by driving on the wrong side, for which offence he was sentenced to pay 40s. penalty, with 26s. costs, or to be imprisoned for seven days. The same person was also prosecuted for having on the same occasion made use of obscene language, for which a further penalty of 20s., with costs, was inflicted, non-payment to be visited with twenty-four hours' of "durance vile." Several persons were fined 10s. for allowing goats to stray about the streets, with 5s. costs in each case. James Regan, of Rushcutter's Bay, was found guilty of having maliciously destroyed a hive of bees, valued at 20s., the property of a neighbour named Hogan, and was ordered to pay the damages, with a like sum for penalty, and 3s. 6d. costs.

THE BOOK OF SUNDAY PICTURES FOR LITTLE CHILDREN.—To pious parents and nurses it has been often a source of anxiety to know how to interest and amuse little children on the sabbath. This desideratum has been well met by the London Tract Society, in the recent publication of a beautiful book, specially prepared for that purpose; and which we strongly recommend to mothers and those who have the care of young children. The object of this book is best stated in the following extract from the address to Parents and Nurses:—"What is needed, especially for Sunday afternoon, is a book which, while it engages the young mind in a pleasant and useful manner, is in harmony with the sacredness of the day; and at the same time is suggestive of pious and useful conversation." That the little volume in question will soon come to be a special favourite amongst our "men and women in miniature," we cannot doubt. The first part is appropriated to illustrations of the "Old Testament."

MORT and Co. request us to direct attention to the sale of the following valuable country properties, shares, &c., this day, at the rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock:—The Prince Albert Inn, Great South Road, near Berrima; 60 acre farm, Dapto; shares in the Australasian Steam Navigation Co., &c.—Adv.

ADELAIDE HAY IN HALF-TRUSSES.—A large quantity, ex Leo, from Adelaide, just landed, will be sold this day, at 10 o'clock, by R. Muriel, at the Circular Quay. Buyers should attend punctually, as the entire shipment, nearly 30 tons, must be sold for cash to the highest bidder.—Adv.

GARDEN ROBBERIES.—Complaints on this subject not unfrequently reach us, particularly from parties living on the outskirts of the city. To state a grievance is one thing—to point out an effectual remedy is a very different matter. Let us give a recent case. "During my absence from home on Friday evening last (writes a correspondent), between 7 and 9 o'clock, I found, to my no little surprise, that my garden had been completely stripped of flowers and roots. My house is situated in ——— street, Surry Hills, within sixty yards of the South Head Road. By inserting these few lines, it might put my neighbours on their guard." So far so good. But our correspondent, evidently vexed at the loss of his "flowers and roots" winds up by a somewhat disingenuous fling at the police, for not detecting, or preventing the plundering match which is the subject of his complaint. We strongly suspect that the best and only police he can look to for the protection of property of this nature—if our correspondent be a family man—is a domestic police: his sons, daughters, or servants.

REPREHENSIBLE CONDUCT.—A correspondent, addressing us from Parramatta-street, says,—"You will confer a great favour upon all the inhabitants of this district by calling the attention of the local authorities to the dangerous and annoying practice of some horsedealers, carriers, &c., driving a drove of horses at full speed from the neighbourhood of the Haymarket along Parramatta-street, Newtown Road, &c. Every morning and evening, these droves pass at full trot or gallop through this crowded thoroughfare, urged on by the blackguard voice and thundering whip of some half-drunk drover. Covering us with dust and dirt, and frightening dogs, ducks, drunkards, and poor old women and young children. Pray, call your own chastising powers to abate, if not to totally remedy this nuisance.

TRADES MEETINGS.—The annual dinner and ball of the tin-plate workers of Sydney was held yesterday evening at the Lighthouse Hotel, Bathurst and Sussex streets. A numerous body of the trade sat down to a well-provided feast; and after the removal of the cloth several loyal toasts were drunk, and concluded with "success to the trade." The wives, daughters, and other female friends were then introduced, and dancing ensued, which was kept up with great hilarity until a late hour.

THE CITY COMMISSIONERS.—We understand that the residents at the north end of Kent-street and its vicinity have brought before the especial notice of the Commissioners the unfinished state of the north end of Kent-street, leading to the water's edge. The gentlemen addressing the Commissioner state that many years have elapsed since the City Council promised to complete this work. That in its present state the approach to it is very dangerous, especially at night, and that it is useless as well as unsightly; the memorialists therefore pray of the Commissioners to direct that the formation of the north end of Kent-street and the approach to the water be commenced at their earliest convenience.

Chatto and Hughes have requested us to direct the particular attention of drapers, buyers for the country, shippers, and others, to the varied and extensive assortment of drapery goods, for sale at their auction rooms, this day.—Adv.

SCENES FROM THE CAR OF A BALLOON.—Mr. J. G. Moon gave the first of his scenes of entertainment, at the Royal Hotel, yesterday evening, entitled Aerial Sketches, or Scenes taken from the Car of a Balloon at home and abroad. The dioramic views, illustrative of the various places and objects of interest alluded to, are exhibited on the same principle as Henry Russell's American Scenes and the views of Albert Smith. The interest in the diorama was enhanced by suitable songs and music on the pianoforte, zither, and guitar. The performance of Herr Veit Rahm on the last mentioned instrument was very warmly and deservedly applauded. The zither is remarkable for the sweetness of its tone; and the expression thrown into it by the Tyrolese minstrel in the execution of some of his native melodies is surprising. He was encored in every performance. Mr. Wilkinson was applauded in several appropriate songs, and the comic composition of Mr. H. T. Craven, "My Thoughts in a Balloon," was sung by Mr. Moon with great success. The descriptive part of the entertainment, like the pictorial and vocal, was varied. Mr. Moon has a very happy method of describing objects, either grave or humorous. The performance was well appreciated by, although not a large, a very respectable assembly.

CORONER'S INQUEST.—Yesterday, an adjourned enquiry was held before Mr. Brenan, at the Butchers' Arms, Sussex-street, into the cause of death of Henry Gadd, aged two years and a half. Thomas Juce had been detained in custody since the adjournment on Saturday. Mary Drew, residing in Sussex-street, deposed: On Thursday last she was standing at her door, and saw two drays pass, loaded with timber and drawn by four horses. The prisoner was driving them. The first that she saw of the deceased was the prisoner laying hold of the child by the frock, and endeavouring to pull him from between the front and hind wheels. After that the prisoner drove on, and the sister of the deceased, who was standing near, took up her little brother, and carried him home. He was bleeding from the thigh to a considerable extent. She (witness) called out for the prisoner to stop, but he paid no attention, and whipping his horses, proceeded onwards; seeing which she gave information to the police, and he was apprehended by Inspector Browne. Harriet Sarah Gadd, sister of the deceased child, deposed: About half-past 11 o'clock, on Thursday forenoon last, she was chopping up some cabbage when her attention was attracted by hearing her brother call out, "Mother, mother," and she saw him lying on the street. The dray in question was passing, and the prisoner was riding on it. He immediately jumped off, and proceeded to take her brother up, but went away towards his dray, and said "that he (the deceased) might go to ———." The end of the long log which was on the dray struck the deceased on the side. John Filserr, residing in Sussex-street, said: On last Thursday forenoon I saw the deceased hanging on a log, which was on two drays and drawn by three horses. He was leaning with his stomach on the log when the drays went into a hollow, giving him a sudden jerk and throwing him off between the two drays, but did not see the hind wheel run over him. Deceased hollowed out and his sister ran and picked him up. The driver went on as if he did not know anything about the occurrence. Inspector Brown said, when I apprehended the prisoner he asserted that he knew nothing of the circumstance. Dr. Roberts deposed that he examined the body of the deceased; there was a severe injury of the upper and anterior portion of the left thigh, extending to the abdomen; there was also a complete laceration of the vessels and nerves of the left leg, the integuments being separated from the muscles of the thigh on the upper and outer portion; such an injury might be produced by the extremity of a log suddenly coming down on a child, or by a cart wheel passing over him. After a short consultation, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was discharged.

MAN MISSING.—Mr. Jonathan Starr, of No. 47, Cleveland-street, Chippendale, has informed the Police that a man named Patrick James Caroline, lodging at his house, has not been seen or heard of since the 21st instant. Description: About 28 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches high, dark complexion, bushy whiskers, wound on the top of his head; dressed in a black shooting coat, brown watered satin vest, black trousers with blue stripe, black hat, &c. Mr. Starr adds that the missing man appears of unsound mind.

RYAN THE HOMICIDE—"HOMICIDAL INSTINCT."

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—A correspondent has addressed himself to this case, and offered his reasons for believing Ryan insane. He observes: "My reasons for believing so are founded upon the circumstances of the case, which did not come before the Court," in this I agree with him. Subsequently he observes "But to return to the particulars; the wife refuses to go home by the way which he wanted her to go; this angered him, &c." This is not proved by the particulars of the case. Their son says "They had no quarrel or angry words," again, "My father gave no reasons for wishing to go by Terry Hughes', he did not speak crossly," &c.

Could it be proved that the commission of the deed arose out of sudden revenge consequent upon this refusal, it would go far in a legal sense towards hanging him. Nor do I discover in the particulars of the case as reported that he is anywhere charged with accusing his "wife of neglect or ill-treatment of her child." I hold other views than those which have been given in this case; and with your permission, Sir, I will submit them, together with some comments upon your own article of the 17th instant, and a few cases in illustration.

In your article you appear to indicate some doubts about the final issue submitted to the Executive Council. I confess I do not participate on those doubts, nor dare I tolerate the idea that the Executive Council will dispose of the case in that haste with with the jury returned their verdict upon the grave question of sanity or insanity, while the life of a fellow-creature virtually hung upon their breath. In extenuation of this haste on the part of the jury it may be suggested that the medical opinions in the case, except those of Mr. Rutter, if accepted by them, left them nothing to deliberate upon.

Mr. Smithwick, as reported, says:—"My opinion of the prisoner's conduct is, that he was perfectly sensible of what he had done, and his reponsibility." Again, in answer to the Attorney-General:—"The previous expressions of the prisoner as to his hating his wife, and his running away, were the acts of a reasonable man." Shall it hereafter be inferred that he who hates his wife most is the most reasonable man. The opinion of Dr. Galbraith was not less emphatic, and I regret to say, in my opinion, not more sound. If the jury acted upon these opinions they may be said to be absolved.

Judging from the following paragraph in your article of the 17th instant, you appear to have judged this unfortunate man's case from a wrong point of view, and may be prejudicial to the impartial consideration of his case. "Upon the evidence in the case of Ryan, as it was given in Court, we entirely agree with the verdict. From all that appears there the prisoner was habitually a violent man." The conclusion at which you have arrived is certainly not sustained by the evidence. In carefully perusing again and again your own report of the case, I find but two instances in which reference is made to a disposition to violence, the one is by Newton, the other by Dr. Galbraith. Now, if it be shown that these instances are exceptionable, it must at once refute the assumption "That he was habitually a violent man." Newton's words are upon this point, "I sent him to gaol for drunkenness, and because I was in bodily fear of him." "I have known him for the last twenty years, and I knew that he was a man who, when he did drink, would not be friendly to his nearest relations." It would be difficult to conceive two sentences more qualified than the foregoing, "I sent him to prison for drunkenness; I knew when he did drink he would not be friendly, &c.," compelling one to the inference that when he did not drink, he was under no such apprehension; and unless it be proved that he was an habitual drunkard, it cannot be inferred from this testimony "that he was habitually a violent man." But, Sir, how are we to reconcile the following sentence in Newton's testimony, with the sweeping allegation, "That he was habitually a violent man; I believe he was as kind a man to his wife and children as any in the world." This is the testimony of a man who had known Ryan for twenty years; who had sent him to a prison for drunkenness; who had been in bodily fear of him when in drink, unhesitatingly pronouncing Ryan to have been to his unfortunate victim and their offspring one of the kindest men in the world. Truth would compel us to denounce, as a flagrant falsehood, this eulogium, if your assertion be true. Besides, their son, an intelligent lad, states that he was generally kind; he never saw him ill-treat his mother; never saw them quarrel. The second instance is the testimony of Dr. G., dispenser, "proved," say you, "that he saw the prisoner when he was received into Gaol; he appeared quite sane, but was a man of violent temper." How and where had Dr. Galbraith gained this experience? Certainly under the most unfavourable circumstances for the prisoner, and entirely exceptionable. And here I will presume that the Doctor's remarks refer to his committal on the 2nd October, since he pronounces him sane, because we have the testimony of Mr. Rutter that on the 11th September he was unquestionably labouring under delusions, from the effects of delirium tremens. That again upon the 2nd October, when brought under his notice, "he was not then labouring from the effects of drink." Although not labouring from the effects of drink in this instance, Mr. Rutter, to his credit, discerned sufficient of this case to induce him to draw the especial attention of Dr. West, the surgeon of the prison, to his condition, and at the same time very properly abstains from coming to an absolute conclusion as to his then state of mind, from the short time he was under his hands. This does not coincide with the opinion Dr. Galbraith expressed, that he was quite sane, and which is positively contradicted by the evidence of Thomas Harrison, who is, I presume, an officer of the prison. He says—"The second committal was on the complaint of Newton; he was suffering from delirium tremens then, but was restored to his senses in a few days." Here we have a man with a fevered brain, kept at a police station, committed thence to a prison, labouring under an impression he was sent there to be "driven mad;" not then labouring from the effects of drink, as Mr. Rutter proves, not committed for any alleged criminal overt act, as it appears. What man would not be liable, under similar circumstances, to manifest some violence of temper. But these ebullitions, nor anything in the evidence as reported, can justify the grave imputation that Ryan was habitually a violent man. To rescue this man's character ftom unmerited obloquy is a duty, and was necessary to a correct estimate of his case. Under the imputation of habitual violence, his motives become tainted, and his actions distorted, and the old adage over again verified, "Give a dog a bad name and hang him!"

The first and most important consideration is, Was this man really insane at the time he committed this dreadful deed? and not the least interesting element in this consideration is, was this condition brought on from what may be considered voluntary acts of intemperance, or was the intemperance at once the result and evidence in his case of disease. Taking his case as it is presented, I should infer the latter. In the first place, the condition of his brother renders it reasonably presumable that he inherits a predisposition to instinctive homicidal monomania. Supposing this to be the case, the fact of his brother's example, and his condition would operate upon him, and perpetually urge him on to the consummation of that fatality, which his brother had attempted.

The influence of this example, would operate upon him as it is known such examples do upon the predisposed; not only in taking the lives of others, but even their own. Witness the effect in London, after the first notorious case of poisoning, by prussic acid, by Bellamy, and after the lucid and scientific views of Dr. Lethby of the London Hospital, had made it patent, that this poison deprived a person of life instantaneously, and deprived them of utterance when once passed into the stomach. We had a number who immediately adopted it; both as a means of murder and of suicide. Within a very short time, two sweethearts in Raven-street, Mile-end, almost within sight of Bellamy's residence, took it, and were found locked in each other's arms. A fashion was established; a whole series of these poisonings occurred, and appear to have been wound up by the notorious John Tawell's case. Look at suicides from the monument, until the authorities have been compelled to protect it with a net-work of iron. So by drowning in the Serpentine, &c. This tendency is now so well known, and established by fact and observation, as to be generally admitted.

So much for hereditary predisposition and the force of example. Now let us see what evidence we can collect from this case to sustain the probability of his intemperance being the result, not the cause of his insanity. In the first place this man is not proved to have been an habitual drunkard, but on the contrary, all the testimony we have agrees in fixing a period to the commencement of these habits. The witness Newton, who had known him twenty years, says, in answer to the Attorney-General,—he was kind in this way until he took to drink, about three months ago. Again he began to drink after a brother-in-law of his came out, which we must presume was about the same period. From the mention of this fact of his brother-in-law, in conjunction with the simultaneous development of his drunken propensities, leaves it to be inferred that this was in some measure attributable to him, or the event of his coming. But from the previous testimony of Newton, in answer to Mr. Darvall, how much more probable that this was merely a coincidence, not the cause. He says—"Sometimes before he was put in gaol, he came to me at Camperdown, and expressed a wish to stop at my house, and send his earnings to his wife and children. He only said he did not like to live with his wife and children, but gave no reasons." Again, in answer to the Attorney-General—"When the prisoner came and wished to stop with me, he said that he hated his wife, because she had rubbed something upon his breast," "I had no reason to believe they lived upon bad terms." To the mind that comprehends the probable condition of this unfortunate man at this juncture, it becomes painfully interesting. Who shall say what a conflict was passing in Ryan's mind at that moment he made this appeal to Newton, to be allowed to stay at his house, away from his wife and children. Did he implore this with a view to abandon them, that he might himself possess more means for the gratification of his drunken propensity? Nay, we are forbidden for a moment entertaining the belief. He desired to stop at his house, but "to send his earnings to his wife and children." In plain language, he desired to be removed from close proximity to one whom this sanguinary impulse was impelling him to destroy, and which, by his own unaided efforts, he felt it impossible to control. It is not surprising that the very request, accompanied with such conditions, did not suggest his insanity, especially when pressed for reasons, he gave one so inadequate and puerile—"Because his wife had put something upon his breast." The fate of his unfortunate brother—the similarity of this man's manifestations—their direction against his wife, whom, as he says, he loved as he loved his life, and I believe him. This fact, so well known to Newton as to justify him in the belief that he was as kind a man to his wife and her children as any in the world—all, all should have suggested that such a perfect change could not have possibly taken place in this man's conduct without being preceded by some decided constitutional change in him, which, call it by what name you please, could be none other than insanity.

What was the answer to his appeal for an asylum? A prison, where he was looked upon as a man of violent passions merely, and doubtless treated as such, every one of which circumstances was calculated to hasten the development of that infirmity, and lead to the more speedy accomplishment of that catastrophe we all so much deplore, and shudder at in contemplation. In support of the views I have advanced, I will offer you a few analagous cases, some within my own experience, and others from indisputable authorities.

First of drunkenness as the result of disease. The widow of an officer, who had left her with a limited income, and who, with a view to economise, had gone to reside in Scotland among the relatives of her late husband, leaving her only son in London just married. One morning she made her appearance at her son's quite unexpectedly, having left her friends in Scotland in a similar manner. There was a strange air of bewilderment about her. She immediately left her son's residence, took lodgings, shut herself up in a room, and commenced to drink spirits in frightful quantities, vomiting came on and continued. The son amazed and alarmed, still anxious to conceal it, had for several days endeavoured by moral means to check this propensity, but gave up in despair. I was sent for and found her in a state of phrenzy. The capillaries of the skin were injected with a muddy bilious secretion, tongue furred, pulse irregular, abominal cavity greatly distended, and considerable irritability in the base of the brain. Means were employed which soon had the effect of staying the propensity, and restoring her to her normal condition. As these effects passed off she felt humiliation and shame more easily to be conceived than described. The vivid consciousness of her degraded situation pressed heavily upon her, which, together with the prostration consequent upon the previous excitement, caused her to express herself often as unfit to live, and gave some uneasiness from suicidal manifestations to rid herself of her own reflections. She could not account for this passion, she spoke of it as an over-whelming impulse, craving to be satisfied, and she supposed she must have taken the spirits in obedience to it. When in health she was robust, active, and remarkably intelligent, and had a loathing of strong drinks. By attention to her general health, she has not had another attack during the last five years.

Mrs. M., age 22, had been exceeding abstemious up to the time of her attack; indeed, she had not known the taste of drink for many years, being under the guardianship of a very worthy man, who had expended large sums, and devoted much time, and talent, to the propagation of total abstinence principles, within whose alls intoxicating beverages never entered. Immediately after the birth of her first child, she gave signs of this craving for drink, and became all at once a most abandoned drunkard. Her infant was taken from her, and herself placed in a lunatic asylum, where I was requested by her guardian and her husband to visit, and first saw her. I observed a fine intellectual, and moral development, and her conduct up to a certain time had been in accordance; but at the base, and in the posterior lobe of the brain, there was a fearful development. I immediately inquired after her father and her mother, in neither of whom had insanity been known to exist; but learned that her only sister was then an inmate of a lunatic asylum in Scotland, and that her derangement had been similarly developed. In this case there was proneness to violence. She had, when I saw her, dreadfully mutilated one of her hands, and subsequently she stabbed a man, but not fatally, and has been kept in confinement ever since. In this case, judging from all the facts, I am of opinion that marriage was the immediate and exciting cause in the development of the latent infirmity; the drunkenness but the evidence and concomitant of its existence.

Pagan, in his Medical Jurisprudence, gives the case of a learned bachelor, who, at regular intervals, was seized with predilections to drink. These fits, he says, were preceded by dryness of skin and tongue, costiveness, slow pulse, unusual irritability, restlessness, sleeplessness, and great debility. After a few days, the pulse became fuller and quicker, the skin hot, the urine scanty, when the uncontrollable desire for wine common. He then shut himself up in a room, to which no one, except an old domestic, was admitted, laid himself down in bed, before which he had placed several dozens of bottles of strong red wine, and drank day and night until he had emptied them. This desire would continue for three or four days, when it was terminated by free vomiting. In the intervals he attended to his labours in a regular manner, had neither the appearance nor the manner of a drunkard, and retained the full enjoyment of his senses till his death, which took place in the 62nd year of his age. Pagan observes:—"This disease (for it deserves no other name), I fear, is not uncommon among learned men." This remark is too true. How few of those men who charm and edify society at this moment with their daily and weekly effusions entirely escape this disease. Of several that are now no more, Whittle, the original "Sensorious" of the Dispatch, was so afflicted. Williams, who wrote those pungent articles signed "Publico," which gave such a feature and a circulation to the Dispatch, wrote many of them in a taproom, and almost lived and died there. The commercial world has its victims, too, especially the railway mania of '45-6, which brought fortune to many of the active and enterprising spirits of that day, whose overwrought brains denies them now the privilege of its rational enjoyment. To sustain their waning energies, artificial stimulants are had recourse to; even king Hudson, with his miraculous powers of endurance, has not escaped this disease.

These cases are analogous to Ryan's, in as far as the sudden and occasional tendency to immoderate drinking is concerned, preceded by unequivocal morbid conditions in the patient, and which, there is good reason to believe, might have been discovered in his case, had a medical man familiar with such instances been called in at the beginning of these manifestations. Or had he been left entirely under the care of Mr. Rutter at the time he saw him, instead of sending him to a prison, we might not now have to deplore the catastrophe which has befallen him and his unfortunate family.

But, Sir, this gluttony for drink is not the only form this brain disease puts on; a ravenous desire for food equally strong, but not so deplorable in its consequences, is not uncommon. The epileptic is either uniformly or occasionally a large feeder. In the following cases you will not fail to recognise the same propensity differently directed, and which are almost always followed by partial or complete dementia—while the former were rendered prominent by mania.

Mr. R., one of the most exemplary of men in regard to indulgence in eating and drinking, had always declined to smoke, lest it should prove prejudicial to his health. In what he did eat and drink he was remarkably choice through life; generally had enjoyed robust health, and, as he believed, in consequence of his abstemiousness. When at the age of 52, a propensity manifested itself, which astonished his family. For about five months and a half he never eat less than nine pounds of solid food per day, and then not satisfied. During this time Sir Alexander Morrison saw him occasionally, and certified it to be an affection o the stomach. At the end of the above period this voracity as suddenly ceased, the copious perspiration, especially of the feet, had also ceased, and he refused all food, and even declined to be where it was being used. For many months his family never saw him partake. He would go out and get it, until it was suggested that food should be regularly placed in a room for him alone. The food was found to be gone, but he would never admit having eaten it. He would insist upon it that he lived without food and existed without sensations of any kind; that he never sneezed, or yawned, or laughed, which was partially true. Thus he lived for some years, cunning but harmless, crawling about town from friend to friend, who failed to detect intellectual aberration, except as to food and sensation. The family found it necessary to warn those he was in the habit of calling upon to watch him closely, for he would purloin any trifles that came in his way, and bring home in his pockets, which were returned by his family, without his making any enquiry about them, or manifesting any scruple at calling the next day to see the friend he had robbed the day before. He died within these two years.

Another, Lieutenant N., whose first symptoms were seizing the food with his hands as it was brought to table, and devouring like a dog. Subsequently settled down into complete dementia.

The case of Feargus O'Connor had the same features. He was had before the police magistrate before he was removed from the House of Commons, for entering an establishment at Hammersmith, and taking the food from the dinner table and devouring it. This condition in him has been followed by dementia.

I have expressed my belief, in a former part of this letter, in the insanity of this man prior to his habitual drunkenness. To argue all the proofs would take up too much of your valuable space. I will therefore cite a few cases of "instinctive homicidal monomania," in which category I place Ryan.

Dr. Davey, while the colleague of the greatly renowned and humane Dr Connolly at the Hanwell, reports two cases, which I remember came under his treatment, and were both cured.

One, a woman living in Westminster, awoke one night beside her husband, to whom she was ardently attached, with an instinctive desire to murder him. In obedience to this impulse she rose up in bed, and was proceeding to procure the poker from the fire place with which to commit the deed, when feeling horrified at her situation, having passed over her husband without his awaking, and feeling this impulse she could not resist, she screamed in order to arouse him. She implored him to protect her against this infirmity, told him her design, begged of him not to let her go for an instant or she must fulfil it. This passion lasted for some time, when she was sent to the Hanwell and cured.

The other is that of a woman also. Her husband was a carpenter, whose place of work was at the rear of his house. Hearing a dreadful screaming, he went in the direction of his house, and found his wife rushing towards him in a paroxysm of agony, urging him to take the baby from her arms, as she felt a fearful impulse to murder it. She was sent to the Hanwell, and cured.

A case is also reported by Wildberg, in 1831, of a literary gentleman who had been subject to prolonged attacks of headache, bilious disorders, haemorrhoids, &c., but still following his literary pursuits. His eldest daughter, a girl of seventeen, to whom he was particularly attached, had hitherto succeeded best in alleviating his anxieties, frequently visited him in his own room, and accompanied him in his walks. She entered his room one day, all at once the terrible idea to murder his girl came across his mind. He was so much terrified at himself that he begged his daughter urgently to leave the room. As soon as she had done so he shed tears, and it was long before he recovered from the emotion into which he was thrown. To distract his mind from this state, he set out next morning on a journey, and was absent about five days. His gloomy ideas were almost completely dissipated during this journey, but he no sooner saw his daughter again than the desire to murder her took possession of his mind, and was renewed whenever she came into his presence. From this time he carefully removed everything beyond his reach which he could have employed to commit the act, and studiously avoided being left alone with her. Notwithstanding these precautions, the deplorable idea was constantly present in his mind, and the contest which he was forced to maintain was most painful to him. This gentleman placed himself under Wildberg, and was ultimately cured.

It will not be difficult for your readers to detect a similarity between the cases I have cited, especially the three last, and that of the unfortunate Ryan, with this difference, that he has fallen a victim to this infirmity, while they were rescued, not by their own unaided efforts, but by the prompt and efficient succour afforded them, and which he sought for in vain. Death to him now becomes an immunity. Those he loved most on earth are gone before him. By his condemnation he escapes greater tortures than any he can have to endure, or than society can inflict.

But suppose it to be insisted upon that drunkenness, in Ryan's case, set up the disease, it would nevertheless be disease, and as positive in fact as that arising from any other cause, and as such however morally guilty, would amount to legal irresponsility. Upon this head, Allison has thus explained the Scotch law. "If the insanity has supervened from drinking without the panel having been aware that such an indulgence in his case leads to such a consequence; or if it arise from a combination of drinking with a half crazy or injured state of mind, or a previous wound, or illness, which rendered spirits fatal to his intellect to a degree unusual in other men, or which could not have been anticipated, it seems to me inhuman to visit him with extreme punishment."

Orfila remarks—"That if a man is seized with delirium tremens, he is not to be held as responsible for his actions; and if he is to be punished for the causes of criminal act, many insane patients would be equally liable to punishment."

The habitual drunkard is in reality a mentally diseased and morally deranged being, for which society has, as yet, made no adequate provision. All experience proves the hopelessness of the unassisted efforts of the person being successful in restraining him from the baneful indulgence. Our confidence in even the best resolution to abstain for any length of time, is so small that there can be no doubt if a cure is to be hoped for, it must be by the public resolution of the patient being invigorated and aided by circumstances which render it impossible for him to return to his bad habits, for a considerable length of time. It would be just as easy, to regulate by law, houses for the reception of this class of drunkenness, as it is to regulate asylums, for the cure of the insane.

Thus far I have abstained from reference to the testimony of his wife. In a husband who had been previously and uniformly kind, the wife would be the first to perceive instinctively the change, even long before any overt act might have demonstrated it. We may fancy her holding the language of the poet, so beautifully and philosophically expressed in the following lines:

> You love me not as once you loved,
> Your face your truth denies,
> And when you speak of faith unchanged,
> I doubt you by your eyes
> A spirit looks from you to me,
> Discovered, though unseen,
> Whose whispers mingle with your vows,
> And tell me what you mean.

I attach the highest importance to the wife's testimony, as she appears to have been a woman of irreproachable character, and to have given no cause for hatred or jealousy; and just in proportion as no adequate or assignable cause can be discovered in her conduct, so may insanity in him be inferred; and it would not be unphilosophical to say, had he loved her less, she had been less the object of his homicidal instinct, prostrate before whose despotic sway, for the time being was, that better nature that cannot be denied him. And even now, while men deliberate on life or death, could that spirit of his victim which watches over decide his fate, William Ryan would be acquitted and absolved. But society has an imperative duty to perform. Let it, for its own sake spare his life, and take, as it possesses the means ample security against a recurrence, by consigning him to an asylum to the end of his days.

I am, Sir, yours very sincerely,
MERCY.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Sir,—Could you or any of your correspondents kindly inform me, and the public generally, whether a Mail will be made up in this colony, to be forwarded per the James Baines from Melbourne, and if so, at about what date the same may be expected to close. By affording the above information, you will greatly oblige the community at large, and

Yours &c.,
A MERCHANT.

[The James Baines will leave Melbourne for Liverpool on 10th March, with the mails. The mails from Sydney, will probably be forwarded by the steamer, on Wednesday the 7th March.—Shipping Reporter.]

VICTORIA.

From the Argus of the 23rd we quote the summary of proceedings in the Legislative Council. Also, the first day's sitting of the Supreme Court, in the matter of the State Trials:—

Friday.—Petitions were yesterday presented by Mr. Greeves against the Yarra Pollution Bill, and against the Medical Practitioners Bill.

A return of customs seizures, and a return of the expenditure for 1854, were laid upon the table.

In reply to Mr. O'Shanassy, the Colonial Secretary said he did not think there would be any objection to laying on the table of the House the dispatch of the Secretary of State, of 22nd November, 1854, on the subject of Crown Lands.

Mr. O'Shanassy having asked if there had been any communication, recently, from the Home Government, on the subject of the New Constitution, the Colonial Secretary preferred leaving that question to be answered next day.

In Committee of Supply, the consideration of the estimates for the Customs department was resumed. On the vote for the salary of a warehouse keeper.

Mr. Strachan, in allusion to what had transpired on the previous day, reiterated his opinion that this, as well as many other departments, had been allowed to grow up to an unmanageable extent, by a system of division into sub-departments, which necessitated the employment of many persons whose services might otherwise be dispensed with. This had arisen (for he felt it better to speak out broadly, rather than to mince the matter) from the incompetency of the heads of these departments; and further, he asserted that the present head of the Customs department was not a man capable of carrying out fully the details of that depatment, or to have with him the confidence of the House. He spoke out fully and freely on the point, and he knew that he should be borne out in his opinion by the report of the Commission now sitting to inquire into the details of the department. The extraordinary and extravagant multiplication of sub-departments had created a confusion of offices, until it was now impossible to say how things were done. The hon. member then detailed the system upon which he proposed the reductions should be made, and staked his reputation upon its working well.

The Collector of Customs assured the House that not one single additional officer to those voted last year without a dissenting voice, had been placed on the present Estimates. True, he had called them by different names, but this had been done solely with the view of showing what were their duties, and how many were employed as revenue officers, and how many were not. He asserted that the efficiency of the department required every officer whose salary was provided by the Estimate.

Mr. Fawkner was inclined to give more credit to the opinion of the hon. member for Geelong, who had been transacting business with the Customs for the last five-and-thirty years, rather than to that of the Collector of Customs, who, until very recently, had known nothing about the subject; and Mr. Mollison felt himself in a dilemma, not knowing which opinion to take, and having nothing on the table of the House to guide him in his decision. He thought, however, that the duties of a Collector of Customs would not require half a life-time to learn, but that any man of ordinary sagacity might surmount them in a comparatively short period.

Mr. Griffith showed the House that, if such were not now the case, they had last session committed a great error in making this one of the responsible offices of the Government from which the office-holder was liable to be removed through political causes.

After some further discussion the vote was carried.

On the vote for the salary of the Inspector of Imports and Exports, Mr. Goodman was rather severe upon the Chamber of Commerce and the mercantile community, for their niggardliness in not coming forward to pay for the weekly Bills of Entry published by the Customs, and recommended the Government to stop the publication if a sufficient number of merchants would not subscribe to and support it. Mr. M'Culloch defended the Chamber of Commerce, and threw the blame on the Government, who had kept "shilly shallying" with the subject for nine months, until the merchants got disgusted. The Colonial Secretary was indignant at this charge, having acceded to the wish of the Chamber of Commerce at once; but was mollified by Mr. M'Culloch casting the blame on the hon. member's predecessor.

The salary of the officer in question was reduced from £500 to £400, and only one clerk instead of two was allowed him.

On a vote for the salary of a superintendent of lockers having been negatived,

Mr. Miller wanted to know whether any person had been appointed to fill this office, and whether any o his salary had been paid; and if so, under what authority had it been paid. The same question would apply to other officers whose salaries had been reduced or refused.

The Auditor-General gave as his authority the vote of the House previous to the recess, by which the Government were authorised to pay the salaries on a scale to be fixed by them, until it could be regulated by the House; but Mr. O'Shanassy reminded the hon. gentleman that that resolution only authorised an expenditure at the rate of £1,300,000 for the year, whereas this amount had been exceeded by the Estimates, and that any excess would be unauthorised. The Auditor-General considered the Government would be justified in taking off from the amount set down for public works; no Government would consent to be bound down in such a way as the hon. member supposed by any resolution. Mr. O'Shanassy, however, showed that the Government had been bound down by the House, despite their unwillingness to consent, and could not legitimately exceed the vote. The Auditor-General hereupon made an appeal to the dignity of the House, and the utter impossibility of their wishing those officers whose salaries had been reduced, to refund the amounts in excess which they had received; and the matter was allowed to drop.

The Williamstown establishment having been voted, with some few reductions, the House resumed.

The bills to amend the Melbourne and Geelong Corporation Loan Acts, and the Loan Bill, were read a first time; and the other orders of the day were postponed.

In answer to Mr. Wills, the Colonial Secretary said that the question of the honourable member was the first the Government had heard about any supply of water for Portarlington being required.

The House rose at twenty minutes to seven.

SUPREME COURT.—Criminal Sessions.

Thursday, 22nd February, 1855.

Before His Honor the Chief Justice, sitting in the Old Court.

THE STATE TRIALS.

The court sat at ten o'clock. It being known that the Ballaarat prisoners, committed on a charge of high treason, would be tried to-day, long before the usual hour of the opening of the Court-house it was thronged outside by numbers eager to gain admittance. One hundred and eighty persons had been summoned as jurors. These had been admitted by the police, along with the several witnesses, through a side gate, and they speedily filled the body and one of the galleries of the court. At ten punctually the front doors of the court-house were thrown open, and a strong rush of the public took place. As soon as the Court was crowded, the Sheriff ordered the doors to be shut, and no further number admitted; but still, during nearly the whole of the day, a large assemblage of persons were waiting outside the gates.

The Attorney-General and Solicitor-General prosecuted for the Crown. Messrs. Ireland, Chapman, Aspinall, and Dunne appeared for the prisoners.

Three-quarters of an hour was occupied in calling over the immense roll of jurymen. The prisoners were then placed in the dock; the majority of them were well dressed, and bore the impress of respectability.

An indictment, of which the following is a copy, was then exhibited against them:—

In the eighteenth year of the reign of our Sovereign Lady Victoria, by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain, and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith, &c.

Colony of Victoria, to wit.—Be it remembered, that William Foster Stawell, Esquire, Attorney-General of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, for the colony of Victoria, informs the Supreme Court of General Gaol Delivery, now holden here on the fifteenth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, at Melbourne, in the colony aforesaid, that Timothy Hayes, Charles Raphelo, John Manning, John Joseph, Jan Vennik, James Beattie, Henry Reed, Michael Tuohy, James Macfie Campbell, William Molloy, Jacob Soranson, Thomas Dignam, and John Phelan on the 3rd day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four, together with divers other false traitors, to the said Attorney-General unknown, armed and arrayed in a warlike manner, that is to say, with guns, muskets, blunderbusses, pistols, swords, bayonets, pikes, and other weapons, being then unlawfully, maliciously, and traitorously assembled and gathered together against our Lady the Queen, most wickedly, maliciously, and traitorously did levy and make war against our said Lady the Queen, within that part of her dominions called Victoria; and did then maliciously and traitorously attempt and endeavour by force of arms to subvert and destroy the constitution and government of the said part of her dominions as by law established, and deprive and depose our said Lady the Queen of and from the style, honour, and kingly name of the imperial crown of the said part of her dominions, in contempt of our said Lady the Queen, and her laws, to the evil example of all others in the like case offending, contrary to the duty of the allegiance of them the said Timothy Hayes, Charles Raphelo, John Manning, John Joseph, Jan Vennik, James Beattie, Henry Reed, Michael Tuohy, James Macfie Campbell, William Molloy, Jacob Soranson, Thomas Dignam, and Jacob Phelan, against the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace of our Lady the Queen, her crown and dignity.

2nd Count.—And the said Attorney-General further informs the said Court here, that the said Timothy Hayes, Charles Raphelo, John Manning, John Joseph, Jan Vennik, James Beattie, Henry Reed, Michael Tuohy, James Macfie Campbell, William Molloy, Jacob Soranson, Thomas Dignam, and John Phelan, afterwards to wit on the day and year last aforesaid, together with divers others false traitors, to the said Attorney-General unknown, armed and arrayed in a warlike manner, that is to say, with guns, muskets, blunderbusses, pistols, swords, bayonets, pikes, and other weapons, being then unlawfully, maliciously, and traitorously assembled and gathered together against our said Lady the Queen, most wickedly, maliciously, and traitorously did levy and make war against our said Lady the Queen, within that part of her dominions called Victoria, and did then maliciously and traitorously attempt and endeavour by force and constraint to compel our said Lady the Queen to change her measures and counsels in contempt of our said Lady the Queen and her laws, to the evil example of all others in the like case offending, contrary to the duty of the allegiance of them the said Timothy Hayes, Charles Raphelo, John Manning, John Joseph, Jan Vennik, James Beattie, Henry Reed, Michael Tuohy, James Macfie Campbell, William Molloy, Jacob Soranson, Thomas Dignam, and John Phelan, against the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace of our lady the Queen, her crown and dignity.

The indictment consisted of four separate counts, only two of which we think it necessary to give: the frequent repetition of the same charges, only varying the set or form of making them, tending more to mystify than to make things plain.

(Signed) WILLIAM F. STAWELL,
Attorney-General.

Mr. Ireland, with whom was Mr. Dunne, for the prisoner Hayes, tendered a plea of abatement, which plea set forth that the prisoner had only been described as Timothy Hayes; the indictment ought therefore to be quashed, as it did not set forth the calling of the prisoner, who was a miner, nor the place of his abode, which was Ballaarat.

The Chief Justice said the other prisoners had better be called on to plead, if the same objection was not taken in their case.

All the other prisoners then severally pleaded not guilty.

The plea of abatement was then considered.

The Attorney-General said the so called plea of abatement was in nature and fact a demurrer. It admitted that the information and indictment was good in the face of it. He would be very happy to join issue and plead to the demurrer, which it substantially was.

The Chief Justice: It professes to be a plea of abatement. I cannot advise you how to consider it. If it is a plea of abatement, it goes as a motion to quash the indictment.

The Attorney-General: It is difficult to say what it is. It partakes of the nature of a plea of abatement and a demurrer. If you consider it the former, which I do not, I demur to it on the ground that it states as a plea what in fact is a demurrer. The objection is provided for by the local act of Council, 16 Victoria, No. 7, based on the English statute known as Lord Campbell's Act, wherein it is held that no information shall be invalid by reason of the non-statement of matter which is mere verbiage, or not necessary to be proved; the plea itself does not say what the man is, or the town or hamlet to which he belongs.

Mr. Ireland; By the 1st Henry, chapter 5, it is provided that the calling and residence of a party tried for high treason shall be defined on the face of the indictment.

The Attorney-General contended that Lord Campbell's Act had repealed that very ancient and obscure statute. He also quoted from Archbold's Criminal Law to show that since Lord Campbell's Act had become law the calling or place of residence of the accused was always omitted. The objection would be altogether untenable in England, and reasoning a fortiori by the provisions of the local act, it could not be entertained here.

The learned Judge agreed with the Attorney-General, that Lord Campbell's Act had repealed the former statute, and this was still further enforced by the local enactment. Was it necessary for the fair trial of the prisoner to prove he was a miner, and late of Ballaarat? Why, it was ridiculous to ask such a question, or suppose it was necessary; consequently the plea of abatement would be overruled, or rather the demurrer to it would be allowed.

The prisoner Hayes then pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Ireland made an application to postpone the trial of the accused Vennick, on an affidavit filed by his solicitor, Mr. M'Farland, showing the absence of material and necessary witnesses, without which he could not safely go trial.

The Attorney-General did not object, but would like to know if the prisoners would exercise their right of challenge; if so, they must be tried separately? Would they join or sever in their challenge?

Mr. Ireland said they would sever.

The court thereupon remanded all the prisoners with the exception of Timothy Hayes.

Mr. Chapman would like to explain why they severed.

The Court did not wish to hear the learned gentleman's reasons. They could exercise their right, of course, without any question.

The trial of Hayes was about to be proceeded with when Mr. Dunne moved for a postponement, on the affidavit of the solicitor for the prisoner that several material witnesses were absent. They had been in attendance, the affidavit said, twice before, and would probably be in town on Monday next.

The Attorney-General said: The affidavit of Mr. Grant, the solicitor, had been most loosely drawn, although it had been made by an attorney, who ought to be conversant with the forms the law required. It did not either state that the subpœnas on the witnesses had been served, or what evidence they could give, if present. The affidavit ought also to be sworn to by the prisoner himself, and not by his attorney. After a considerable delay, and waste of time, an amended affidavit was put in, and the trial of Hayes was postponed.

Charles Raphelo, a foreigner, was then put on his trial. The prisoner looked very unwell.

Mr. Dunne, on his behalf, put in a similar affidavit to the last, stating it was not safe to go to trial in the absence of several necessary witnesses.

The prisoner wished to address the court himself, although his friends persuaded him to the contrary. He said he was a native of Rome, and if Dr. Carr, a witness, was here, he would not have to stay long in that box. It was very inconvenient to himself to be obliged to go back to gaol again.

The learned Judge said it was equally inconvenient to the Crown officers, who were as anxious to get on with the trial as he was.

The prisoner: Will your Honor subpœna these witnesses for me?

His Honor: That is the duty of your attorney, who ought to have done it. I have nothing whatever to do with subpœnaing your witnesses.

John Manning was then placed in the dock.

Mr. Chapman said that he appeared for Mr. Michie, who was very unwell and could not attend. He was only prepared to watch the case. He put it as an act of courtesy to the Attorney-General to postpone this trial also.

The Attorney-General said there were two counsel engaged for the accused. Mr. Dunne was present—he would not do him the slight to suppose he could not defend the prisoner in the absence of Mr. Michie.

Mr. Dunne, however, would rather not conduct the prisoner's case unaided.

The trial was also postponed in the absence of the leading counsel.

John Josephs, a man of colour, was then placed in the dock.

Mr. Chapman and Mr. Aspinall defended the prisoner, a man of athletic form.

A jury was then called: it took, however, three-quarters of an hour before they were finally sworn, the Crown and the prisoner exercising their right of challenge to three out of four persons. The Crown appeared to challenge all the publicans, of whom there seemed to be a legion, and also men of doubtful exterior. The prisoner challenged nearly every one bearing the name or title of merchant, gentleman, or agent. When a juror's name was called, a watchword was given through the court of "challenge." This the prisoner caught up and repeated. Vociferous and repeated laughter, in which the learned Judge joined, now took place, as the several jurors, on their names being called, passed from one gallery to another, and as they were under the clock stayed to have their physiognomy and bearing scanned.

The Attorney-General, however, put a stop to this unstately way of conducting the state trials, by saying the prisoner was not entitled under the Local Jury Act to exercise the right of challenge in more than twenty cases: twenty-three persons had been already objected to by the prisoner. The local act expressed this in all cases of murder of other felony. High treason was not specially named: but high treason, although more than felony, was felony also.

Mr. Chapman was about to reply, but the learned Judge thought it was needless for him to do so. High treason, he thought, ought to have been expressly named in the local act.

The challenging then continued, and altogether about fifty jurors were objected to, amid the continued unseemly laughter of the court.

A jury was ultimately sworn.

The court adjourned at a quarter to two, for half an hour.

On the court resuming, the trial of Josephs was proceeded with. Several witnesses were examined, and at six p.m. the Attorney-General applied for the jury to be allowed to retire, and his Honor determined to adjourn the court until the following day.

The Attorney-General asked his Honor to intimate to the gentlemen of the press who were present tha necessity there existed for their surpressing any account of the trial until its completion.

His Honor said that, as this was requisite to meet the ends of justice, the gentlemen of the Press would be kind enough to take that intimation.

The Attorney-General said that, after that intimation it was scarcely necessary in the present instance to mention that, should the account be published, it would be direct contempt of Court.

His Honor said that such would be the case, but had no fear of its being violated.

Mr. Chapman said so far as the prisoner was concerned, they did not object to the jury being disbanded and re-assembled on the following day, and trusted his Honor would allow it.

The Attorney-General did not wish unnecessarily to inconvenience the jury, but, at the same time, must object to such a proceeding, as it would establish a dangerous precedent. There had never been any instance of the kind in criminal trials.

His Honor did not consider that it would be right for the jury to separate, but charged the Sheriff to furnish them with every thing they might require. He trusted that would be the only night on which they would have to be kept from their homes.

The Court then rose at 25 minutes past six until ten o'clock the following day.

CONVICTION FOR WILFUL FIRE RAISING.

The frequent recurrence of late, in Melbourne, of fires of a most alarming and destructive nature, have led to the suspicion that a screw was loose somewhere; and the conviction, on Friday, of the foreigner Roehner, for the malicious burning of his house and premises in Little Collins-street will, we hope, operate as a powerful check upon the commission of such dastardly crimes; for it cannot be doubted that several glaring, though as yet unproven, cases of incendiarism have occurred within Melbourne during the last twelve months. His sentence of ten years' hard labour on the roads is considered by many to be too heavy. On looking through some late London papers, however, we find that the English judges have but very recently sentenced similar offenders to 20 years' transportation.

John Conrad Roehner was indicted for having set fire to his store in Little Collins-street, with intent to defraud the Alliance Assurance Company, in whose office he had effected an insurance on his goods to the amount of £700. From the evidence called in support of the charge it was made to appear, that although the goods in the prisoner's store were not worth more than £100, he had taken out a policy of insurance to the amount of £700. Twenty-one days after that arrangement had been completed, a fire was discovered in the place, and suspicion was aroused against Roehner, in consequence of his being found outside the house completly dressed (although it was late at night), holding in his hand a large portmanteau, packed with clothes and other articles, together with an umbrella. Further suspicions were awakened by the prisoner showing the greatest disinclination to assist in extinguishing the conflagration, by his having carefully preserved the receipt he had received at the Alliance office, by the discovery of a blazing barrel full of paper, saturated with oil, near the stairs, and the eliciting of the fact that the fire had broken out simultaneously in three different places, and had even been discovered under the oilcloth on the floor. His Honor then summed up the evidence, and the jury, after consulting together, returned a verdict of guilty. The prisoner was sentenced to ten years' hard labour on the public roads. In passing sentence, his Honor strongly animadverted on the heinousness of the offence of which the prisoner was guilty, and dwelt forcibly and eloquently on the dangers that always attended fires, which he regretted were of such frequent occurrence.

THE WAR COLLECTION.

(From the United Service Gazette.)

The spirit of benevolence has not been evoked in vain. In every town, in every village in England, the people have gathered together, and listening to the eloquent exhortations of their leading men, among whom the clergy of all denominations are most honourably conspicuous, have cheerfully given the fruits of their toil to succour the poor, friendless, helpless widows and children, and the gallant wounded men, on whose behalf the appeals are made. Never, perhaps, was the national heart more profoundly stirred. Sympathy is not merely excited by the details of war as we read them in the despatches and the private correspondence. In too many cities and hamlets there is much individual mourning for calamities already experienced, and there is not one in which fathers, mothers, and sisters do not before they place their head upon the pillow offer up a prayer for the safety of some poor fellow enduring, with patience and noble fortitude, the bitter cold, the drizzling rain, and the daring and continuous assaults of a too powerful enemy. The country knows not yet how much may be required at its hands—many thousands, we fear, must yet fall, and many tens of thousands will be rendered destitute but for the timely bounty of the nation. The Officer's widow and children are provided for by the State, but in a true aristocratic spirit, nothing is done by the Legislature for the humbler ranks. Let this fact be ever present to the minds of Englishmen, at least until Parliament does its duty by the poor soldier—for there can be no doubt that, in the conviction that his family will be cared for when he has fallen, lies the consolation of the soldier and his inducement to give his mite when now they are so much needed.

We cannot, while upon this subject, avoid giving expression to the intense disgust with which we, in common with a vast majority of our countrymen, view the wretched attempt made by Mr. Bright to damp popular fervor and curb the generosity of the nation at this juncture. It is felt that whatever differences of opinion may prevail regarding the original policy of the war, the British people ought to be firmly united in their andeavours to allay the sufferings of the gallant troops who may be wounded in the various conflicts, and to maintain those objects of their dearest solicitude whom they may bequeath to their country. Mr. Bright's letter has made a great sensation—but a still greater has been produced by the eloquent reply of Mr. Absalom Watkin. We wish we could find room for the whole of this overwhelming expose of the contemptible conduct of the soi disant man of Peace—the broad-brimmed representative of his own warehouses and cotton mills. But our limits compel us to be content with two short paragraphs—bold, forcible, humane—which, if Bright can blush, must make him deeply repent of his cruel and untimely obtrusiveness. Says Mr. W.:—

"If there be a deeper dye of complicity, it is, in a conscientious opinion, that of the man who, being the citizen of a free country, and a member of her legislature, claiming to be an ardent lover of liberty, of knowledge, of progress, and the general welfare of mankind, from some unaccountable wrongheadedness, prostitutes the ability which was given him for the noblest purposes, to become the apologist of one of the most flagitious despots whose existence ever cursed the earth. To such a man we may warrantably apply the words we have employed, and tell him that 'his utmost generosity to the widows and orphans of our brave soldiers will, in our opinion, make but a wretched return for the misery he has assisted to bring upon hundreds of families.'

"When I think of those brave and devoted men who have fallen so heroically at the bidding of their country, I am not ashamed to confess my eyes fill with involuntary tears of mingled admiration and sorrow. I admire their gallantry, I mourn for their loss, but I do not pity them for the manner of their death; for no man can be an object of pity, or be accounted 'miserable,' who dies in the performance of his duty. The memory of these true sons of this great country will be embalmed in her grateful remembrance, and held up to the emulation of succeeding times. Impartial history will testify to their unrivalled valour, and account them worthy of their ancestors, by whom our liberties were won in many a bloody field. It is impossible not to exult in the valour of our countrymen, or to avoid a feeling of contempt for those who, from whatever motive, would seek to lessen its merit, or to deprive it of any portion of the admiration it so entirely deserves."

William John O'Connell, formerly clerk in the Scottish Australian Land Investment Company, has been committed by the Marlborough-street magistrate for forging and uttering a warrant for £41 5s. While employed by the company, he got possession of a warrant made out for Mr. Bromfield; he forged Mr. Bromfield's name, and got the money of the Union Bank. A policeman found him living in luxury: he confessed the forgery, and that he had committed others of a similar kind.

MERCANTILE AND MONEY ARTICLE.

Monday Evening.

We take the following from the Commercial Report of the Melbourne Argus, February 23rd:—

Two numbers of the forthcoming Bill of Entry, to be published at the Government Printing Office, were placed in our hands for inspection yesterday. We had intended to bring this matter before our commercial readers; but as the subject has been taken into consideration by the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, we may safely assume that steps will be taken to ensure a continuance of the publication of this most valuable mercantile serial. This the Chamber of Commerce has it in its power to effect, by inducing its members to come freely forward to enrol themselves among the subscribers.

We have advices from the Cape of Good Hope to the 11th of January. In commercial affairs there is little to report of interest to this colony. The fear that another Kaffir War was about to take place was interfering with agricultural pursuits, and, as a consequence, with trade, in the Graham's Town district.

The reports from Namequaland published in the papers are still highly satisfactory so far as regards the evidences of the existence of a great mineral field in that district.

From the commercial article in the Liverpool Standard of the 5th December we take the following carefully considered remarks upon European commercial relations:—

The unsatisfactory state of affairs in the East, owing to the war being protracted longer than was anticipated, and the uncertainty which prevails as to the future requirements of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, as well as to the intentions of the German powers, have led to a gradual decline in the value of public securities, but not to any very great extent. Towards the close of the week, however, there was an evident improvement, attributed by some to the reports of Austria having at length definitely agreed to co-operate with the Western Powers, while others again state that it was owing to purchases on the part of the public in order to receive the dividend which is payable next month. Perhaps both causes may have had some slight influence, but it is satisfactory to observe that, notwithstanding the heavy expenses of the war, the Public Funds are at so comparatively high a rate, a proof of the large amount of capital invested. The returns of the Bank of England show an increase in the stock of bullion to the extent of £215,010, a result rather unexpected, as it was said that the exports had exceeded the receipts. The other changes are unimportant, there being the proportionate increase in the public deposits, and money for commercial purposes being comparatively easy, very little alteration has taken place in the amount of "other securities."

The Turkish loan, which had lately become much depressed on account of the uncertainty respecting the security for repayment, has slightly improved, owing to the declaration being published of certain documents authorising the loan and the allocation of the Egyptian tribute being deposited in the Bank of England.

The reports from the cotton manufacturing markets are of a gloomy character, but there are evident symptoms of improvement, and towards the close of the week goods were bought more freely, but without any improvement in price. The accounts from Australia are discouraging, but those from Calcutta are better than were anticipated, while the home trade, it is hoped, is showing signs of revival. The woollen trade is still inactive, but the stocks being low, there is no decline in the value of manufactured goods. The hosiery trade is more active, owing to the orders from Government for the army.

The corn markets during the week have been very dull, and the trade confined to the demands for immediate consumption, owing to the general expectation of a considerable decline in value. Prices, however, are nominally not much lower, but it would be impossible to effect sales to any amount without a great reduction. The abundant supply of last harvest is only kept from consumption through the bettered condition of the farmers, but present rates cannot fail to stimulate importation, which would speedily have the effect of giving the consumers the benefit which has been so long withheld from them. Our agriculturists may then find that they have overstood their market.

Preliminary Notice.
The Splendid Dutch Barque SUSANNAH CHRISTINA.

MORT and CO. have been instructed by the Marshal of the Vice-Admiralty Court of New South Wales to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on TUESDAY, 6th March, at 11 o'clock precisely,
The fine, powerful, fast sailing barque SUSANNAH CHRISTINA, about 700 tons burthen, newly coppered, in thorough repair, and unusually well found in ground tackle, sails, stores, boats, and every requisite, and may be sent to sea without the least delay.
She now lies off Botts' Wharf, where she may be inspected on application to the officer in charge on board.
An inventory of the ship's stores, gear, &c., is in course of preparation, and will be found to contain a most complete and valuable list of everything requisite for a first-class ship.
For further particulars apply at the Marshal's Office, George-street, and at the Rooms, Pitt-street.

DOWLING AND DUKE STREETS.
TWO-STORY HOUSE, Dowling-street.
BUILDING ALLOTMENT, Dowling-street.
NEAT BRICK COTTAGE, Duke-street.

MORT and CO. have been instructed by the proprietor to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 14th March,
The undermentioned properties, in Dowling and Duke streets, Woolloomooloo.

DOWLING-STREET.—LOT 1.
TWO STORY BRICK HOUSE, in Dowling-street, being No. 47.
It contains two rooms, stands nearly 14 feet back from the line of street, and two additional rooms might easily be added to the present building, which is only the back portion of what was intended to be a much larger house.

LOT 2.
BUILDING ALLOTMENT in Dowling street, immediately adjoining Lot 1, on the north side. It has 17 feet 9 inches to Dowling-street, and
71½ feet in depth, and
Back entrance from Duke-street,
by a reserved way.

LOT 3.
NEAT BRICK-BUILT COTTAGE in Duke-street, immediately in rear of Lot 2. It contains three rooms, a good yard (in which is a shed and other offices), and side entrance to the yard from the street, by a reserved way. There is also an EXCELLENT WELL OF WATER AND PUMP.
It stands on an allotment, having
31 feet frontage to Duke-street, and 43½ feet in depth.

☞ Dowling-street is now fast becoming what it ought long since to have been,
THE PRINCIPAL THOROUGHFARE at Woolloomooloo. There can be no doubt that had the properties on the shores of that Bay been in the hands of enterprising men, it would ere this have been begirt with WHARVES and QUAYS, and have been the outlet for A CONSIDERABLE COASTING TRADE which now finds its way towards the head of Darling Harbour. This is particularly the case with reference to TIMBER, BUILDING MATERIALS, AND COALS, nearly all of which are now landed at the wharves in the latter, and carted from thence back again to Woolloomooloo and the surrounding neighbourhood—where the principal improvements to the city for some time past have been going on. Attention is at last, however, being directed to the formation of WHARVES IN WOOLLOOMOOLOO BAY, and the result must be to give an increased value of one hundredfold to all property in the immediate vicinity.
Plans on view at the Rooms.
Terms at sale.

Immigration Office, Sydney, 26th February, 1855.

LABOURING IMMIGRANTS FROM THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.—Arrangements having been completed to introduce a continued influx of a most desirable class of strong, healthy, able-bodied labourers, mechanics, and domestic servants from the United States of America to this colony, under section 9 of the Assisted Emigration Act, the TROPIC being the first vessel despatched, with about 160 immigrants, may now be daily expected.

These immigrants are under engagement to take service at the current rate of wages, within a week after arrival, with approved employers, who will advance the balance of passage-money due from them to the ship, which in no case exceeds £10.

Early applications from respectable employers, stating the description of servants, labourers, or mechanics required and the wages to be offered, will be received by G. WILKINSON, BROTHERS, and CO.; and BEIT and SONS, Macquarie-place.

SAMUEL DAVIS' noted Establishment for the Sale of first-class Watches, at London prices. Silver hunting double-cased patent lever watches, capped and jewelled, by first-rate makers, £5 5s. A warranty in writing given for two years not to vary more than a minute a week. The largest stock in the colony of gold and silver watches. Established 1835. SAMUEL DAVIS, next to Cohen and Harbottle's Bank Auction Rooms, 191, George-street, Sydney.

AUX FRERES PROVENCEAUX RESTAURANT FRANCAIS.—The proprietors of this establishment have the honour to inform the public that they have secured the services of a first-rate cook, also a glacier, both having been attached for years to the most celebrated cafés de Paris. The amateurs will find Aux Freres Provenceaux all the desirable preparations of the cuisine Parisienne; also, iced refreshments under the various forms so delightfully remembered by those who have once visited Paris. Private dinners and town orders attended to; ices, sherbets, fromages glacés for private soirées. George-street, No. 220.

MADAME ERNEST BUDIN, late PROTOIS, begs to inform the ladies of New South Wales she has received a large stock of goods from Paris, consequently has removed the French Stay Warehouse, from George-street, to 169, Pitt-street, nearly opposite the School of Arts, where Madame Budin hopes by her attention still to receive the favours of those ladies whom she thanks for their kind patronage the last fourteen years. ERNEST BUDIN, 169, Pitt street.

IRON HOUSES and Stores erected by a man of experience. Address to PRESTAGE, 338, George-street, opposite Wright's Brewery.

WOOLLOOMOOLOO BAY WHARF.—Manufactory for MOULDINGS and JOINERS' WORK, by Steam Power Machinery.—W. FAIRFAX begs respectfully to call the attention of the architectural profession, merchants, and builders, to the very important fact that his machinery stands unrivalled, having obtained the first prize at the Great Exhibition, for quality and economy in the execution of mouldings, tenoning, mortising, &c., and further, that the same machinery was used in carrying out the whole of the joiners' work in the New Houses of Parliament.

Observe!—At the bottom of Dowling-street, Woolloomooloo.

A. TORNING and SON, Plumbers, Painters, and Glaziers, Oil and Colourmen, Lower George-street, opposite Campbell's Wharf, and Macquarie-place, Sydney. Force, lift, bilge, and main pumps made and repaired; water-closets for ships and private houses supp... and fitted; ships supplied with oil, turps, white lead, and colours, on moderate terms. Old fittings purchased. Licensed Plumbers to the City Corporation.

£15,000 (FIFTEEN THOUSAND POUND'S) worth of useful Household Furniture, to be disposed of by the First of May.

Messrs. P. and W. DEAN, Cabinetmakers and Upholsterers, respectfully inform the public that they have had their immense stock of Furniture, Bedding, &c., marked down below cost price, in order to induce purchasers to make a selection of any article in their Warehouse at a lower rate than can be procured at any Auction Sale in the colony.

P. and W. D. particularly invite those who have already inspected their varied stock, to pay another visit to their Establishment and observe the manifest reduction in the prices of every item. They pledge themselves that a difference of at least 20 per cent. has been made within the last week, and it is their intention to offer their goods at the same low rate for the next two months. To parties in search of good and substantial furniture, they would specially recommend attention, as their stock comprises a large assortment of the very best manufacture, from Messrs. Gillow, Dawbiggin, and Seddons, houses of the highest celebrity in England, both for workmanship and design. These goods have been cut down to sell. The many varieties in furniture, of colonial manufacture, have also been reduced to such a figure as to carry every thing before it—at foot a few of the principal items are submitted, viz.—Colonial four-post bedsteads; iron bedsteads, in endless variety; bedding, in horsehair, cocoanut fibre, flax, wool, &c.; wardrobes; chest drawers; dining tables; couches, in hair-cloth; sofas, in Spanish morocco leather; suites of drawing-room furniture, in hair-cloth, damask, and tabouret, &c.

Country orders promptly executed.

HOUSEHOLDERS, House-seekers, and Housekeepers! Call and inspect the assorted stock of Bedsteads and Bedding, at DEAN'S, Market-street.

SIXTY DAYS SALE, at DEAN'S Furniture Warehouse, City Theatre, Market-street. Every article at less than present auction prices.

THE MAMMOTH SALE in Market-street.—P. and W. DEAN respectfully assure the public, that they do not wish to adopt the commonplace system of useless puffing, their object is to sell at prices consistent with the present hard times.

MONSTER FURNITURE SALE.—The whole of the stock comprised in DEAN'S Furniture Warehouse must be cleared out by the 1st of May. For bargains, apply early to PETER and WILLIAM DEAN, Market street, Sydney.

TO PERSONS FURNISHING, Cabinetmakers, Upholsterers, and others.—JOHN W. BARRETT begs to inform those persons who are about furnishing and the public generally, that they can be supplied with outside and inside venetian shade blinds, gauze wire blinds, in gold or colour, holland blinds, Spanish projecting blinds, in cases, &c., &c., at such prices and quality that cannot fail to give the greatest satisfaction.

Please note the address—JOHN W. BARRETT, window blind manufacturer, Park and Elizabeth streets.

N.B.—Just opened, four cases of English-made Venetian shade blinds, gauze wire blinds, with gold line and corner, ditto holland blinds, on rollers complete. Early application is necessary.

TO ARCHITECTS, BUILDERS, CONTRACTORS.—The undersigned are landing, ex Amiral Baudin, 80 tons of bitumen, and 6 tons of mineral-pitch, ingredients used, in France, for the preparation of pavements for churches, stores, cellars, &c. For particulars respecting the use and application of this valuable composition, apply to J. DHANIS and CO., 177, George-street.

IMPORTANT to the INHABITANTS of NEWCASTLE and its vicinity.—JOHN B. NORTH, late of Sydney, importer and general warehouseman, having taken the premises lately occupied by Mr. J. Anderson, of Bolton-street, begs to announce that he is now making arrangements with the first houses of Sydney, for an entirely new, cheap, and well selected stock of all kinds of goods, comprising—grocery, drapery, wines and spirits, and every article suitable for family use. Long acquaintance with the English and Sydney markets gives him confidence in asserting that he can and will sell upon such terms as shall defy competition,—it having been his experience that to establish a business upon a firm and lasting basis it is necessary to sell at small profits, thereby ensuring a large return. Large shipments expected shortly from England, of which due notice will be given. NORTH'S Store, Newcastle.

LAVERS and CO.'S GINGER WINE.—

Noyeau	Ginger Cordial
Cherry Brandy	Ginger Wine
Brandy Bitters	Lemon Syrup
Gin ditto	Peppermint
Rich Rum Shrub	Cloves.

J. V. LAVERS and CO. respectfully invite public attention to the very superior quality of their ginger wine, more particularly as, in 1853, owing to the excess of orders, they were subjected to heavy losses from the wine being sent from their establishment too new. To remedy this they have considerably augmented their stock, and can, for the future, supply the demand, without risk of fermentation, and at the same time send an article of superior quality.

To facilitate the manufactory of cordials they have lately, at a heavy expense, caused a steam engine to be erected on the premises, and they assure their supporters no cost or trouble is spared to maintain the superiority of their establishment.

J. V. L. and Co. particularly recommend their ginger wine mixed with water, as a beverage far more nutritious, cheaper, more wholesome, and agreeable than English ale. This article, as well as all the cordials above enumerated, can be obtained of the undersigned, or of any spirit merchant, bottled or in draught, in hogsheads, quarters, octaves, or kegs.
J. V. LAVERS and CO.
Sydney, 12th December, 1854.

FIRST-CLASS JEWELLERY.—A very superior assortment has just been received (manufactured to order in London), consisting of bracelets, brooches, lockets, diamond and fancy stone rings, onyx, ruby and diamond studs, Mordan's gold pencil cases, silver card cases, and an endless variety of jewellery. THE BARQUE TRIDENT.
Registered 354 Tons.
THURSDAY, 1st March.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have received instructions to sell by auction, at the Australian Auction Mart, at 12 o'clock, on THURSDAY, 1st March,
The very superior, faithfully built, and fast-sailing barque TRIDENT, of 354 tons register, well fastened, and combines great strength, with fast-sailing qualities, and is most eligible as a mercantile ship for any description of cargo.
This beautiful first-class barque has recently had new deck and topsides, with felt and yellow metal, and been thoroughly caulked and overhauled at Melbourne, whence she brings surveyor's report as fit to carry dry and perishable cargo to any part of the world.
Her length is 101 feet, with 23 feet beam, and 17 feet depth of hold.
She has spacious and convenient cabin accommodation, stows large cargo, well found in stores and materials, and ready for immediate employment—after the discharge of her present cargo, without any expense.
Inventory of her stores may be seen, and all necessary information obtained, at the Office of the Auctioneers, 282, George-street.
Terms at sale.

THE GLEBE.
Very Eligible Suburban Property.
Four New DWELLING-HOUSES, a Compact little Freehold.
For Auction Sale MONDAY, 5th March.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have received instructions to sell by auction, at the Australian Auction Mart, at half-past 12 o'clock on MONDAY, 5th March,
All those new and very substantially brick-built FOUR DWELLING HOUSES, in Frances-street, Glebe, being an allotment, No. 11 of Section 3, of the Original Grant from the Crown, having a frontage of 33 feet to FRANCES-STREET, with a depth of 80 feet, each containing sitting-room and bedroom, and occupied by good tenants.
These HOUSES are situated near Mr. Lazarus' brick buildings, in Frances-street, Glebe, and within 100 yards of the City boundary, with an abundant supply of good water, and other essentials calculated to promote the health and convenience of parties seeking a snug and comfortable home contiguous to the CITY.
This PROPERTY is peculiarly adapted for mechanics, handicraftsmen, or other parties of moderate means; and the opportunity for securing a compact little freehold should not be lost sight of, as it cannot often occur in a locality so rapidly improving, and almost forming a portion of the City, and in the immediate vicinity of the RAILWAY TERMINUS. A visit must satisfy any one as to the eligibility of the position for a comfortable home and a most secure and lucrative investment for capital.
Title unquestionable.
Terms liberal, and no reserve.
Plan on view at the rooms of the Auctioneers, 282, George-street.

MARRICKVILLE.
The GARDEN of PETERSHAM, near NEWTOWN and ENMORE, and within a short distance of the NEWTOWN RAILWAY STATION, arranged for VILLA SITES, SMALL FARMS, or MARKET GARDENS.
For Auction Sale, on the Ground, SATURDAY, 3rd March.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have the pleasure to announce to Capitalists, Market Gardeners, Mechanics, Speculators, and others, that they have been favoured with instructions from Thomas Chalder, Esq., to submit for sale by public auction, on the Ground, at MARRICKVILLE, at 2 o'clock, on SATURDAY, 3rd March,
All that piece or parcel of Land, consisting of about 60 acres, more or less, being a portion of the celebrated PETERSHAM ESTATE, situated near to Newtown and Enmore, about two miles from the CITY OF SYDNEY, and half a mile from the Newtown Railway Station, having a considerable frontage to the Newtown and Cook's River Swamp-road, the new line of Railway Road to Cook's River and Wollongong, and the property of Archibald Mitchell, Esq.
MARRICKVILLE has been carefully surveyed, and apportioned into Three Distinct sections, comprising fifty-one and a half CHOICE ALLOTMENTS, as hereunder consecutively set forth, being well adapted for COTTAGES, VILLA SITES, and MARKET GARDENS.

SECTION 1.—THE NORTHERN PORTION.
Divided into Eighteen Allotments.
Nos. 1 to 6 contain respectively half an acre each, with frontages of 66 feet to the Railway road, by a depth of 330 feet.
Nos. 7 to 13 contain respectively 2 roods 16 perches, with frontages of 66 feet to a new road 50 feet wide, by a depth of 396 feet, extending to Mr. J. Handley's ground.
No. 14, subdivided into Three Allotments, measuring respectively 2 roods 8 perches, 2 roods 7 perches, 2 roods 21 perches, and each 132 feet wide.
No. 15 contains 2 acres 2 roods 38 perches, with 308 feet frontage, by a depth of 390 feet, and is divided by a road 50 feet wide, being a continuation of the running south to north.
Nos. 16, 17, and 18 contain respectively 2 acres 22 perches each, with a frontage of 264 feet on the south to a road 50 feet wide, by a depth of 368 feet to the land of Archibald Mitchell, Esq., on the north.

SECTION 2.—THE SOUTHERN PORTION,
Divided into Twenty-two Allotments.
Nos. 1 to 13 are each respectively similar in contents to lots 1 to 13 of section 1, bounded on the south by Messrs. Thompson and Thornthwaite's land.
Nos. 14 and 15 contain respectively 1 acre 32 perches, and 1 acre 36 perches; lot 15 being at the junction of the two New Roads, with frontage of 163 feet, by depths of 325 feet.
Nos. 16 to 20 contain respectively 1 acre each, with frontages of 132 feet to the New Road, by a depth of 330 feet, and extending to the land of Mr. Thornthwaite.
Nos. 21 and 22 contain respectively 3 roods 18 perches, 3 roods 9 perches, with frontages of 165 feet each to the Newtown and Cook's River Railway Road, and leading to the Petersham Railway Station, with depths of 200 to 212 feet.

SECTION 3.—THE SOUTH-EASTERN PORTION.
Divided into eleven allotments.
Nos. 1, 2, and 3 contain respectively, 2a. 3r. 7p., 1a. 2r. 4p., and a. 3r. Lot 1 having 198 feet. Lot 2, 232 feet. And lot 3, 430 feet frontage to the New Road, and to the No. 1 New Road, 379 feet—varying in Nos. 1, and 2, 264 feet.
Nos. 4 and 5 contain respectively, 2a. 1r. 30p., and 2a. 35p., with frontages of 261 feet, a road running South and North with a depth of 380p.
Nos. 6, 7, 8, and 9, contain from 1a. 12p. to 1a. 1r. 14p.; with frontages of 165 feet to 180 feet to the Newtown and Cook's River Swamp Roads, by a depth of 325 feet to 200 feet.
Nos. 10 and 11 contain respectively 2a. 0r. 38p., and 2a. 1r. 24p., with frontages of 264 feet to the New Roads, and an average depth of 355 feet.
In the proprietor's most judicious arrangement of this

VERY ELIGIBLE PROPERTY,
the absence of every dwarfish, sectarian, or selfish consideration is very apparent, in the largeness of the various allotments, exceeding in size anything hitherto offered in the neighbourhood—affording scope for the industrious and wealth-seeking, to turn the opportunity to various profitable accounts; the mechanic or handicraftsman to secure his snug cottage, kitchen garden, &c.; the Market Gardener quickly to realise an independence.
The Merchant or Retired Tradesman to arrange his COUNTRY HOUSE in the midst of his garden, orchard, pleasure grounds, &c., and at a most convenient distance from the CITY. Nor has he been unmindful of CHURCH, CHAPEL, and SCHOOL accommodation, there being suitable RESERVES for appropriation to these purposes.
This beautiful property forms that portion of the NOTED PETERSHAM ESTATE, nearest to the CITY OF SYDNEY, and the neighbourhood has long been famed for its excellent supply of vegetables, &c., to the Sydney Markets, from the gardens of Messrs. Smidmore, Purdy, and others, and immediately adjoins the properties of Archibald Mitchell, Esq., Lieutenant Sadleir, R. N., and other highly respectable families.
Omnibusses are passing almost every hour of the day near this property.
Allusion to the healthful nature of the climate, or the great value of its loamy alluvial soil, so very favourable for production, would seem needless. Parties may however be fully satisfied on these points, by a visit to Mr. Thompson, who occupies an adjoining portion of this identical property, where maize, pumpkins, potatoes, and other vegetables give evidence of what may be here accomplished by a little industrious attention, and his words will echo in their ears, "There is not a better bit of land in the colony."
Number of Cottages and other Buildings are daily in course of erection, and, doubtless, will continue to spring up with MAGIC SPEED in this truly desirable neighbourhood, where purchases of land have been recently made, and even at MARRICKVILLE two houses are being erected on allotments, lately secured, one of which is destined for an Inn, or some other Public Business, which will be of much convenience and advantage in this rapidly rising locality. Nor can the day be very distant, when, amidst "the sons of the soil," in this heretofore comparative isolation will be found a HAPPY, WEALTHY, and CONTENTED COMMUNITY.
Title, first-class.
Terms, exceedingly liberal.
Plans on view, and lithographs obtainable at the Office of the Auctioneer, 282, George-street.

PRODUCE SALE.
At the New Stores, Pitt-street North, THIS DAY, 27th February.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO., will sell by auction, at their New Stores, Pitt-street North, near the Circular Wharf, at half-past 2 o'clock,

Maize
Flour
Hay
Oats
Bran, &c.
New Zealand potatoes.
Terms at sale.

VICTORIA TERRACE, WOOLLOOMOOLOO.
TWO THREE-STORY HOUSES, capacious, airy, elegant, and of a very superior class.
Most delightfully situated, and adapted for GENTEEL FAMILIES.
For Sale by Auction on MONDAY, 5th March, at 12 o'clock.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have been favoured with instructions to sell by auction, at the Australian Auction Mart, at 12 o'clock, on MONDAY, 5th March,
Those TWO substantially-erected and elegantly finished THREE-STORY HOUSES, with ornamental, useful, and beautiful verandahs and covered balconies, in Victoria-street, WOOLLOOMOOLOO, and forming a portion of that magnificent range of buildings very appropriately designated the VICTORIA-TERRACE, which is beautifully situated on a gentle eminence, having a most desirable exposure from the very summit of this attractive portion of our interesting and rapidly progressing NOBLE CITY, commanding most alluring and extensive views of the LOVELY BAY, the famed DOMAIN and its MANSION, the picturesque and enchanting suburbs, and the SEAT OF GOVERNMENT.
These very DESIRABLE FAMILY RESIDENCES are distinct and independent of each other, and contain entrance hall, with six spacious and lofty rooms, viz.:
Drawing-room, 18 feet x 13 feet 6 inches
Dining-room, 14 feet x 13 feet 6 inches
Parlour, 13 feet x 12 feet 6 inches, with three very airy and well arranged bedrooms. Together with kitchen, 11 x 10 feet 6 inches, and servants' rooms, having a back entrance through the yard, extending 110 feet, enclosed by a good fence, with an excellent well of spring water. Are composed throughout of carefully selected and expensive materials, strongly built and handsomely finished, with ornamental cornices, venetian shutters, &c., and replete with every kind of modern accommodation and conveniences.
Connected with these two Houses are laid STONE FOUNDATIONS for other THREE HOUSES, which are to be erected on precisely the same principle and size, and when completed will form the VICTORIA-TERRACE, the ground appropriated for which occupies a frontage of 100 feet 6 inches to Victoria-street, by a depth of 164 feet to Albert-street, from which there is a street running south and north.
The position of this SPLENDID PROPERTY, its contiguity to, and connection with the CITY, its quiet and healthy retirement, rendered the more attractive, if possible, by the residence in its immediate vicinity of many of the most wealthy, influential, and leading families connected with SYDNEY, amongst whom are Sir C. Nicholson, J. L. Montefiore, E. Manning, J. Martin, — Donaldson, T. W. Campbell, and S. K. Salting, Esquires, Mrs. Stephen, &c., &c., will ever ensure its growing importance and increasing value, and commend it most strongly to the attention of CAPITALISTS, MERCHANTS, SPECULATORS, and others, as a profitable source for the employment of capital.
Title, good. Terms, easy.
Plan on view, and all necessary information obtainable, at the Auctioneers' Office, 282, George-street, Sydney.

SECTION 10.
Lots 1 to 30 inclusive, having respectively frontages of about 40 feet each to Audley-street, Addison-road, New Cook's River Road and Oxford-street.

SECTION 11.
Lots 1 to 11 inclusive, having respectively frontages of about 40 feet each, to the New Cook's River Road, Chester-place, Audley-street, and Oxford-street.

SECTION 12.
Lots 13 to 16 inclusive, having respectively frontages of about 40 feet each to the New Cook's River Road, Chester-place, Audley-street, and the New Canterbury Road.
The proprietor had determined to defer the disposal of the unsold portion of this EXCELLENT PROPERTY until the railway shall have been opened, but yielding to the request of some who have already secured a portion, and others who are anxious to be thus favoured and commence building operations at once, he has consented to submit the entire thereof for unreserved sale, so that all may have a chance to gratify their wishes, and thus secure an independence, as it cannot be doubted that an investment now made must at no very distant day yield a HUNDRED FOLD PERCENTAGE; and it is confidently hoped that his compliance in this respect will meet a just appreciation—and the more especially, as timber and other building materials are now much reduced in price and labour become much more plentiful.
The position of this FINE TOWNSHIP is the most eligible for VILLAS, private residences, of a SUPERIOR CLASS, and general purposes of business that can well be conceived, being only about four miles from THE METROPOLIS; on the PARRAMATTA turnpike road, and three and a half miles by the railway, bounded on every side by magnificent roads of 66 feet wide, and approached from the Parramatta road by no less than three distinct roads or leading thoroughfares to NEWTOWN, COOK'S RIVER, CANTERBURY, and other most thriving and important places. And its proximity to the RAILWAY STATION (no portion of the town exceeding five minutes' walk therefrom) renders it more easy of access than even the more immediate suburbs of SYDNEY—such as Woolloomooloo, Surry Hills, Darlinghurst, &c., &c.
NORWOOD, situated as it is on that natural and beautiful elevation, the HILL OF PETERSHAM, whence scenery the most diversified and delightful flashes upon the vision from every direction, both of LAND and SEA. The more distant, the MAJESTIC MOUNTAIN RANGE, BOTANY and its BEAUTIFUL BAY, nursed by the GREAT PACIFIC, the towering SYDNEY HEADS, the still waters of PORT JACKSON, the ever interesting HARBOUR, and the SHIPPING from every country, with their floating emblems, interspersed by a host of cheerful little ISLANDS and BAYS, and the more local, rural, and homely VILLAGE OF PETERSHAM, the RAILWAY and its STATION, PARRAMATTA ROAD and RIVER, PROSPECT HILL, NEWTOWN and SURRY HILLS, with other occasional hill and dale, VILLAS and GENTLEMEN'S COUNTRY SEATS, and the fine open country with which it is immediately surrounded, forming most picturesque, extensive, and GORGEOUS LANDSCAPES, must ever prove the object of attention to those who are intently seeking "health, happiness, and prosperity."
Plan on view, and lithographs procurable at the Mart, 282, George-street.
Title unexceptionable.

Burrows and Co.'s Patent Portable Corn Mills, which may be attached to Horse, Steam, or Water Power.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD have received instructions to sell by auction, at the City Mart, 211, George-street, THIS DAY, the 27th instant, at 11 o'clock,
Burrows and Co.'s patent portable corn mills, which may be attached to horse, steam, or water power. These mills are of most simple construction, possessing many advantages which do not belong to the mills commonly in use, and entirely divested of all their disadvantages.
Their being portable and occupying so small a compass, six feet being ample space for their erection, renders them peculiarly adapted to up-country folks or small farmers, desirous of realising large profits on the corn they are obliged to dispose of for want of the means (afforded by these mills) to grind their own flour. With the necessary power the above mills are warranted to grind from 8 to 10 bushels per hour.
Terms at sale.

Household Furniture and Effects of R. Uther, Esq., who has just left the colony, with his family, for England.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD will sell by auction, on the premises, Crown-street, Surry Hills, lately occupied by R. Uther, Esq., on WEDNESDAY next, the 28th day of February, at 11 o'clock,
The whole of the household furniture contained in the large house lately occupied by R. Uther, Esq., comprising every requisite for a large family.
Terms, at sale.

Bathing. Sea Air. Watering Place. Health.
WOLLONGONG.
Positive Sale, owner leaving the colony.
A valuable piece of Land, on the seaside, close to Wollongong Pier, to be sold in one lot, or in nine allotments, each about a quarter of an acre.
These are the only seaside allotments not taken up, and to any one shipping by the steamers or coasting craft iron or wooden houses, and fixing them on the allotments for the use of visitors in search of health, as at Dover, Ramsgate, Margate, or Brighton, the speculation would be first-rate.
Day of Sale—TUESDAY, 5th March.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD have received instructions to sell by auction, at the City Mart, 211, George-street, on TUESDAY, the 6th March, at 11 o'clock,
The above valuable property.
Terms, liberal, at sale.

WOLLONGONG! WOLLONGONG; WOLLONGONG!
A valuable DAIRY or AGRICULTURAL FARM, with Cottage, Barn, Cow-house, Dairy, &c., all fenced in, desirably situate at Fairy Meadows, only a mile and a half from the town of Wollongong, one of the most favourite districts for the production of colonial produce in the colony.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD have received instructions to submit for public sale, at their enlarged Rooms, City Mart, 211, George-street, on TUESDAY, 6th March, at 11 o'clock,
A valuable dairy or agricultural farm, comprising 24 acres, with cottage, barn, cow-house, dairy, &c., at Fairy Meadows, about a mile and a half from the town of Wollongong, twelve acres of which are fenced in, two paddocks, cleared and stumped. The other twelve are in one paddock, partly cleared and stumped—all level land, suitable for the residence of a gentleman.
 The extreme fertility of the soil in this favoured spot is now so thoroughly established as to require no comment. The advantages of steam communication in bringing the produce into our markets with some degree of certainty must add materially to the value of this property.
Terms, liberal. Title first-rate.

Desirable Market Garden, Farms, Botany Swamp.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD have received instructions to sell by auction, at their Enlarged Rooms, City Mart, 211, George-street, on THURSDAY next, the 1st March, at 11 o'clock,
SEVEN DESIRABLE FARMS, having frontages to the Botany Swamps, admirably adapted for Market Gardening purposes, on account of the richness of the soil, and the short distance from the Sydney Markets.
These Farms contain about 10 acres each, and are situate between the Botany Swamp and Botany Bay, having double frontages to both.
A plan on view at the Rooms.
Terms, liberal, at sale.

FAREWELL SALE of CANTERBURY, COOK'S RIVER, SWAMP ROAD, and BOTANY FARMS, at the GREAT SYDENHAM RAILWAY STATION, opposite the Bald Faced Stag, PARRAMATTA ROAD.
Luncheon on the Ground.
1. Swamp-road and Unwin's Bridge-road Farms, No. 1; remaining One Hundred Acres.
2. Cook's River Farms, No. 2; remaining Sixty Acres.
3. Cook's River Farms, No. 3; remaining Seventy Acres.
4. Canterbury Sugar Works Road Farms, No. 4; remaining Thirty Acres.
5. Remaining Garden Ground, at Botany, next to Saxby's market garden; remaining One Hundred Acres.
6. Allotments alongside the Parramatta-road and the Sydenham Railway Station, and the New Houses erected there.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD have great pleasure in announcing that all the above properties will be submitted for sale by public auction, on MONDAY, the 5th of March next, at 11 sharp, at the Sydenham Railway Station, opposite the Bald Faced Stag, Parramatta Road.
The proprietor has been induced to take this step in consequence of numerous applicants desiring it, and in consequence of several of the farms having been re-sold at large profits—in one instance, that of Mr. Clarke, of the Parramatta Road, at a profit of ONE HUNDRED PER CENT.

BURWOOD ALLOTMENTS!!! The few remaining Allotments not disposed of at the Sale on MONDAY last, of that valuable estate on the Parramatta Road, adjoining the Great Central Railway Station, and known as BURWOOD, are now for private sale, at the City Mart. A plan may be seen, and full particulars ascertained by applying to the auctioneers, BOWDEN and THRELKELD.
City Mart, 211, George-street, Thursday, 22nd February.

CANTERBURY ROAD FARMS.
To meet the wishes of the many purchasers of the Small Farms on the Canterbury Road, who in receiving possession of their several purchases, expressed a desire to obtain adjoining allotments,

BOWDEN and THRELKELD have received further instructions to sell by auction (without reserve on the same liberal terms as at the last public sale), on MONDAY, the 5th of March next, at 11 o'clock sharp, at the Great Sydenham Railway Station, opposite to the Bald Faced Stag, Parramatta-road,
The few remaining allotments.

These farms are some of the best of the whole property, having frontages to the Old or New Canterbury roads, and most of them falling back upon the Creek, which runs nearly through the centre of the property.
Plan on view at the Rooms, where lithographs can be obtained.
Terms:—One-fourth, cash; one-fourth six months; residue, credit of 7 years, at 6 per cent. per annum. Discount of 6 per cent. to cash buyers.
Title, guaranteed.

Horse Bazaar, 155, Pitt and 134, Castlereagh streets, Sydney.
Established, 1847.
Sale Days, Wednesday and Saturday, at 11 o'clock.

BURT, HASSALL, and CO. hold a regular sale by auction every Wednesday and Saturday at 11 o'clock.
Horses intended for either sales should arrive at the Bazaar, accompanied with instructions, one day previous, in order to be properly dressed, tried, and shown.
The usual cash advances on invoices of saddlery, gigs, carriages, and other vehicles intended for unreserved sale, for which there is ample room under cover.
The private livery stables (newly erected) adjoin the Castlereagh-street entrance, and are wholly distinct from the sale stables.

Preliminary Notice.
Berry's Shoalhaven Horses.

BURT, HASSALL, and CO. have received instructions from A. Berry, Esq., M.L.C., to sell by auction, at the Bazaar, Pitt and Castlereagh streets, on an early date,
A batch of 25 young horses, from his well-known stud, all broken to dray, and will be sold subject to the usual trials. For dray work the breed of A. Berry's horses has long been noted; they invariably take to the collar without difficulty.

MAGNIFICENT BUILDING SITES.
Situated at the head of William-street, Woolloomooloo, commanding a panoramic view of that street throughout its whole extent; having frontages to Darlinghurst-road, Upper William-street North, and Victoria street, immediately opposite that beautiful terrace erected two or three years since by J. W. Smart, Esq., at the corner of Victoria-street, and separated by the main road from the mansion of Stewart Donaldson, Esq. A reserved road at the rear of the allotments separates them from the residence of Mr. Charles Scott, formerly the property of the late Mr. Carr, Solicitor.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD have been favoured with instructions to sell by auction, at the City Mart, 211, George-street, on MONDAY, the 5th day of March next, at 11 o'clock precisely,
The whole of that valuable and beautiful block of land, situated as above described, subdivided into 8 building sites, as per plan now on view at the Mart.
LOT 1.—The corner allotment, with 21 feet frontage to Darlinghurst-road, directly opposite Mr. Smart's Terrace; 84 feet 4 inches frontage to Upper William-street, in front of Mr. Donaldson's garden.
The eastern boundary is 58½ feet, and the southern line 77 feet.
This allotment stands unrivalled as a business site, from its elevated position and being situated at the junction of the principal roads in Darlinghurst.
LOTS 2, 3, and 4 have frontages to Darlinghurst-road of 30 feet each, by 112 feet deep to a reserved road.
LOTS 5 and 6 have each 30 feet to the large open space formed by the union of Victoria-street with Darlinghurst-road, at the head of William-street. The depth of each being 112 feet, with back entrance.
LOT 7 is exactly at the head of William-street, at the intersection of the Darlinghurst-road with Victoria-street. The frontage is sufficient for the erection of a large house, say 31 feet 2 inches, the northern boundary 112 feet; the southern one 106 feet 10 inches.
LOT 8 is bounded in the north by Lot 7 for 106 feet 10 inches; the frontage is 33 feet to Victoria-street, close to William-street.
The whole of the allotments, from 2 to 8, inclusive, have a reserved road at the rear, the entrances being from Upper William-street North and South.
The lovely scenery around these allotments is so well known, and must be sufficiently appreciated by all in search of a delightful spot on which to erect a first-class residence, that the auctioneers deem it quite unnecessary to do more than give this very brief description of the locality.
Title satisfactory.
Terms liberal.
A plan with one or two views of the scenery around, taken on the spot, may be inspected at the mart.
 Day of sale MONDAY, March 5th, 1855.

FREEHOLD LAND at WAVERLEY, immediately adjoining the Waverley Tea Gardens on the eastern side, between Mr. Grey's Property and Waverley House.
SIX BUILDING ALLOTMENTS.
Day of Sale, THURSDAY, 1st March.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD will sell by auction, at the City Mart, 211, George-street, on THURSDAY next, the 1st March, at 11 o'clock,
A Block of Land, subdivided into six choice and roomy building sites, beautifully situated on the south side of the South Head Road, adjoining Mr. Gray's premises, known as the Waverley Tea Gardens, opposite to that portion of the Point Piper estate which embraces the whole view of the beautiful valley at the head of Double Bay, and the waters of the harbour in front, to the North Shore. In the distance a large portion of the city is distinctly seen, while the numerous country seats of our wealthy citizens at Darling Point and Double Bay are more immediately recognised; and with the village at the head of the Bay, the cultivated lands around, and the shipping (always moored near Clark's Island, together with the rich foliage of the ever-green shrubs and plants on the surrounding hills, form a most charming scene.
WAVERLEY is acknowledged to be one of the healthiest parts of the colony; the purity and abundance of the water is also well known. Two omnibusses now run regularly, morning and evening, right up to Mr. Gray's, now known as the "Tea Gardens."
The limits of an advertisement prevent the auctioneers from doing more than barely allude to the chief points which make a residence desirable.
Lots 1, 2, and 3 have each a frontage of 31 feet to a Government road a chain wide, and depths of three hundred and forty-nine feet, the northern boundary of which runs near the summit of the hill.
Lots 4, 5, and 6 have each a frontage to the South Head Road of 31 feet, by depths varying from 309 feet to 356 feet, rising gradually from the level of the road towards the hill, until they form the northern boundary of Lots 1, 2, and 3.
Plan on view at the Rooms.

YABTREE STATION, Murrumbidgee District, distant about 10 miles from Tarcutta Post Office, and about midway between Sydney and Port Phillip; together with about 11,000 FINE WOOLLED SHEEP.
TERMS—One-half cash; the residue by approved bills, at 6 and 9 months (secured upon the Stock and Station if required) with interest added equal to cash.
GRAZING CAPABILITIES 3000 HEAD OF CATTLE.

MORT and CO. have received instructions from the proprietor, to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on TUESDAY, the 27th March,
That first-class fattening Run, situate in the Murrumbidgee District, known as YABTREE.
This far-famed station may be fairly stated as the best fattening run in the district, and capable of carrying from 15,000 to 18,000 SHEEP.
It is magnificently grassed, and most abundantly watered. It has 12 MILES of FRONTAGE to the MURRUMBIDGEE RIVER, and, in addition, is watered by a never-failing stream, known as SILAS' CREEK, which runs through the centre of the run for 12 miles. The country consists of box and apple tree ridges and extensive luxuriant Flats, and sheep do well in flocks from 1500 to 2000.
Yabtree is only 10 miles from Tarcutta Post-office, and equidistant from Port Phillip and Sydney, both of which markets it of course commands, besides having the advantages of the Adelong gold fields as a market where fat sheep always command remunerative prices.
The IMPROVEMENTS comprise—
A four roomed cottage with verandah
Store and kitchen
Three paddocks
Sheep station huts
Sheep yards
Stockyard of a very superior description.
With the Yabtree station will be sold about 11,000 SHEEP, WARRANTED SOUND and NEVER DISEASED.
 They are really fine-woolled, well-bred sheep, and at least 3000 of them are good store sheep.
Full particulars will be published in a few days.

Shares, Australasian Steam Navigation Company.

MORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, THIS DAY, 27th February, at 11 o'clock,
34 shares in the Australasian Steam Navigation Company (£15 paid up.)

A CERTAIN INDEPENDENCE.
PRINCE ALBERT INN, GREAT SOUTH ROAD.
12 Miles from Berrima.
TERMS—One half Cash. The residue may remain on mortgage of the property for a term of years at 5 per cent. per annum.

MORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, THIS DAY, 27th February, at 11 o'clock,
That well-known first-class Hotel, THE PRINCE ALBERT INN, situated about 12 miles on THE SYDNEY SIDE OF BERRIMA, and close to the junction of the Berrima and Mittagong roads.
The house is stone-built, containing every accommodation and convenience for a FIRST-RATE HOTEL. It stands upon an elevated foundation, and has a verandah running along the front. It has a capacious entrance hall, with private apartments on one side, and a bar and bar accommodation on the other. The bedrooms are large and airy, and the whole establishment replete with comfort. The house is SUBSTANTIALLY BUILT AND WELL FINISHED in every particular. The out-offices consist of detached kitchen, with servants' room, capital extensive yard, containing stabling for 17 horses; a portion of the stables are at present used for the coach horses which change at this spot. There are also a large coach-house, sheep yards paled in, cow shed, piggery, fowl house, and yard paled in securely, also slaughtering yard.
The land attached to the property consists of 100 ACRES, more or less, the whole of which is fenced in with a substantial three-rail fence, and sub-divided into three paddocks, all of which are well watered. There are also two gardens, and an excellent orchard of the choicest fruit trees, and containing A NEVER-FAILING WELL OF WATER.
Two of the paddocks have been under cultivation, and yielded fine crops.
Mort and Co. have no hesitation in stating that this is one of the very BEST ESTABLISHMENTS ON THE GREAT SOUTHERN ROAD.
It is situated in a locality where the numerous teams or p on their way up and down the country, and a ready market is always at hand for agricultural and farm produce, which may be grown upon the land. The house is a splendid building, well adapted for a first-class hotel, and the property is now disposed of only in consequence of the wish of the proprietor to leave the colony. A careful man would speedily realise a fortune, and the position being one always sure of a tenant, capitalists would do well in watching the sale.
The house is fully furnished throughout, AND THE WHOLE OF THE FURNITURE (particulars of which may be seen at the Rooms), will be GIVEN IN.
 STOCK IN TRADE taken at a valuation.

2580 ewes, 3 to 6 years old
710 lambs
20 rams
6800 more or less.
These sheep are sound, have never been diseased, and about 3000 will be fit for the market in February next.
With the sheep will be given in the right of brand to about 500 head of cattle, branded C.O.W.—WR—KR—AD—of which about 50 cows are broken to bail.
200 very quiet, running about home station, and the rest fair average cattle.
Also, to be taken at a valuation,
2 draught mares
1 draught horse
4 saddle horses
1 powerful entire, three years old, by a Suffolk punch
20 head of bush horses; about
19 working bullocks
2 first-rate bullock drays, with yokes, bows, chains, tarpaulins, &c.
Horse cart, shaft, trace and plough harness.
A quantity of station tools, including a wind and water mill, a good winch, wheel barrow, 2 ploughs, harrow, scythes, saws, &c., &c., will be given in.
The Wallendibby run adjoins the station of Messrs. Stainton and O'Hara, and is known to be one of the MOST FATTENING STATIONS ON MANEROO.

CITY AND SUBURBAN PROPERTIES.
Titles Unexceptionable.
CLARENDON HOUSE, Cumberland-street, City of Sydney.
THREE COTTAGES at Waverley, with Half-an-acre of Garden Ground to each.
SEVEN AND A-HALF ACRES OF LAND at Waverley, adjoining Nelson's Bay.

MORT and CO. have received instructions from John Copland, Esq., in consequence of that gentleman's departure for England, to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on TUESDAY, 6th March,
The following very valuable properties, situate in the City and its suburbs.

FIRST,
That splendid Family Mansion, CLARENDON HOUSE, situate in Cumberland-place, nearly opposite to Campbell's Wharf and containing
ON THE GROUND FLOOR—Spacious entrance hall, dining-room 30 feet x 18 feet, and one large bedroom.
FIRST FLOOR—Large landing, drawing-room 30 feet x 18 feet, and one large bedroom.
SECOND FLOOR—Three large sized bedrooms.
BASEMENT—Spacious kitchen, opening out to Lower George-street; servants' room, coal cellar, and wine cellar.
DETACHED RANGE—Consisting of two-stall stable and coach-house, stableyard walled in, with a good well and pump in it. Water laid on.
THE HOUSE is built of brick on stone foundation, with stone basement story, roof slated.
THE STABLING and COACH-HOUSE—a brick building, with slated roof.
CLARENDON HOUSE is a very beautiful Family Residence, at the northern end of Cumberland-street, and near the extremity of New George-street; it commands on every side MAGNIFICENT VIEWS OF THE WATERS OF THE HARBOUR, while its elevated position precludes the possibility of its ever being built out. It is replete with every comfort; the rooms are large and lofty; the dining and drawing-rooms handsomely painted, with gilded mouldings and centre-pieces, and the whole of the doors and window frames, skirtings, &c., throughout the house, are of cedar. From situation it enjoys all the ADVANTAGES OF A SUBURBAN RESIDENCE, while it is close to the busiest parts of the city.

SECOND.
THREE COTTAGES, AT WAVERLEY. No. 1.—A newly erected timber and iron Cottage, containing 7 rooms, kitchen, &c., and about half an acre of garden ground.
No. 2.—An iron Cottage of 2 rooms, and kitchen, with half an acre of garden ground.
No. 3.—A newly erected timber-built VERANDAH COTTAGE of 7 rooms, kitchen, servant's room, fowl-houses, stable and coach-house, &c., and about half an acre of garden ground.
These cottages are all erected on substantial brick foundations, and are thoroughly and tightly built. The walls are cross-lathed, canvased, and papered, and are well braced on the outside. The roofs have a lining of wood underneath, besides a vacuum between that and the canvas, thus keeping them COOL IN SUMMER, while the manner in which they are bound closely together renders them COMFORTABLE IN WINTER. There galvanised spouts and gutterings round them, and a drain in connection therewith. They almost adjoin the properties of S. Raymond, Esq., Prothonotory, J. Falconer, Esq., Robert Massie, Esq., and Mrs. M'Pherson; and the situation commands a fine VIEW OF THE OCEAN, LIGHTHOUSE, &c., &c.
There is abundance of firewood on the ground, and a NEVER-FAILING SUPPLY of PURE WATER.

THIRD.
7 acres 1 rood 28 perches at WAVERLEY, in the Parish of Alexandria, near Nelson's Bay.
 The situation of this land is very beautiful. It has a frontage to the sea, and commands a splendid view of the coast, Nelson's, and the adjoining Bays. It adjoins the properties of Mr. J. B. Hatfield and of J. Falconer, Esq., formerly belonging to R. Lowe, Esq. It is admirably adapted as a site for a marine villa, the extent of land leaving ample room for ornamental grounds, shrubberies, &c.
Plan on view at the Rooms.
Terms at sale.

TO GROWERS OF GARDEN AND GREEN STUFF FOR THE SYDNEY MARKETS.
PARISH OF BANKSTOWN.
12 Miles from Sydney.
Choice farms of from 23 to 31 acres each.
Title, unexceptionable.

MORT and CO. have been instructed to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 9th MARCH, at 11 o'clock,
13 CHOICE FARMS, containing from 23 to 31 acres each, situate on the Punchbowl road, in the Parish of Bankstown, about one mile from Irishtown, adjoining the property of Messrs. Johnston, Meredith, and Ryan, and distant about 12 MILES FROM SYDNEY.
To the labouring classes and small capitalists the above sale affords an opportunity of becoming possessed of good agricultural land in the neighbourhood of the city, on which there is abundance of GOOD TIMBER, suitable for splitting, sawing, firewood, and charcoal.
The sale of the timber alone will pay for the land, and its proximity to the city would then render the farms invaluable for the GROWTH OF GARDEN STUFF.
There are WELLS and WATERHOLES on several of the farms, and they are ALL CLOSE to the GOVERNMENT WATER RESERVE.
Plan on view at the Rooms.
Terms at sale.

1000 HEAD OF MIXED CATTLE.
1000 BULLOCKS.
In one or two lots, deliverable at a Station in Gwydir District, on on the borders of the Darling Downs District.

MORT and CO. have the above for private sale.
They are a choice lot, from herds of a well-known favourite brand, and are worthy the special attention of purchasers of stock.
For particulars apply at the Rooms, Pitt-street.

M'LEARY'S FLAT—MANEROO DISTRICT.
Being one of the Border Stations within about 40 MILES OF MORETON BAY, together with a splendid herd of CATTLE, of from 1200 to 1400 HEAD.

MORT and CO. have received instructions from Henry Badgery, Esq., to sell by public auction at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on WEDNESDAY, the 28th February, at 11 o'clock,
That well known fattening Station, M'LEARY'S FLAT, situate in the district of Maneroo, at the entrance into that district from Twofold Bay side, and distant about 40 miles from that port. From its position it in a particular manner commands the advantages of that SHIPPING PORT AND THE MARKETS supplied from thence. It is equally adapted for depasturing sheep, and will carry 2000 HEAD OF CATTLE IN ALL SEASONS, or a corresponding number of sheep, which may run in good-sized flocks.
THE IMPROVEMENTS comprise—
A comfortable four room Hut
Stockyard
Cultivation Paddock
Grass Paddock of about 40 acres
Together with the M'Leary's Flat Station will be sold a CHOICE HERD OF CATTLE of from 1200 to 1400 head.
This herd can be recommended as very superior, no expence having been spared to introduce the best blood from the HERDS OF THE MESSRS. IMLAY, HILL, and others noted for the breed of their cattle. They are very quiet, and there is a fair proportion of heavy aged cattle among them.
The fattening qualities of the M'Leary Flat Station are acknowledged to be first-rate. It adjoins the well known station Taylor's Flat, and it is not only a good sheep or cattle run, but also PARTICULARLY VALUABLE FOR DAIRY PURPOSES, its proximity to an extensive shipping port, like Twofold Bay, securing to it a market for all kinds of produce.
Five stock horses, one dray, and four bullocks GIVEN IN.
Terms at sale.

In the Insolvent Estate of Messrs. R. and H. Scott, of Glendon.

MORT and CO. will sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on THURSDAY, 1st March, at 12 o'clock.
The right, titles, and interest of the official assignee in and to the remaining assets, of whatsoever nature or kind, in the insolvent estate of Messrs. R. and H. Scott, of Glendon.

TO CAPITALISTS AND OTHERS desirous to invest in the purchase of FIRST-CLASS CITY FREEHOLD PREMISES.
That extensive Range of Buildings, situated on the west side of Castlereagh-street North, near King-street, comprising those THREE LARGE AND COMMODIOUS RESIDENCES, at present in the occupation of Messrs. Dunsmure and Stafford, Dr. O'Brien, and Mr. Moses Moses.

MORT and CO. have received instructions from the proprietors to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Pitt-street, on TUESDAY, the 6th of March, at 11 o'clock,
All that fine BLOCK of BUILDINGS, situated as above, having a frontage to Castlereagh-street of 113 feet, by a depth (as regards the houses occupied by Dr. O'Brien and Mr. Moses) of 173 feet, or thereabouts, and as regards the house occupied by Messrs. Dunsmure and Stafford, of 66 feet, or thereabouts,—having a good access by a lane from Brougham-place.
The buildings standing upon this extensive area of ground consist of THREE LARGE and SUBSTANTIALLY ERECTED FRONT RESIDENCES, built of stone and brick, and now in excellent repair—Nos. 38, 40, and 42, Castlereagh-street North, having broad, raised, paved verandahs, running along the whole frontage. The accommodation of each premises may be described as follows but this will be more distinctly shown by the plans and elevations which will be on view at the Rooms in the course of a few days.
No. 38, occupied by Mr. Moses, contains a good entrance hall, and four large rooms on the ground floor; two bedrooms, and closet on the attic floor; an excellent kitchen, laundry and cellar in the basement story; detached stone-built two-stalled stable, coach-house, and loft over them, with a roomy yard, and water laid on.
No. 40, occupied by Dr. O'Brien, contains good entrance-hall and six rooms on the ground floor; two large rooms on the attic floor; a large kitchen, laundry, scullery, store or servant's room, and extensive cellarage in the basement story; together with a three-stalled stable, coach and gig house, with hay-loft over them, yard, and water laid on. There is a large space of vacant ground, now used as a garden, in rear of the out-offices of these premises, occupied by Dr. O'Brien.
No. 42, occupied by Messrs. Dunsmore and Stafford, contains almost precisely the same accommodation as No. 38, having a two-stalled stable, coach-house, hay-loft, yard, and water laid on.
 MORT and CO. would beg to direct the special attention of capitalists and others to this really most valuable and extensive block of property—situated, as it is in the very heart of the city, and in one of its most rapidly improving thoroughfares, which it is now quite apparent to every one must very shortly be only second in importance to that of George-street.
The close proximity of this property to the PRINCE of WALES THEATRE, now nearly completed, and to King-street, as well as its very convenient and central position, either for business or private residences, unquestionably render it one of the best and most secure investments to be met with in the city, and it will always command a very desirable and responsible class of tenants at good well-paid rents.
The walls of the front houses being strong and capable of bearing a great deal more additional weight, one or two stories might at comparatively small expense, be most advantageously added to these houses, and with the LARGE PIECE OF VACANT GROUND in rear, this property is capable of being turned to great account, either as PRIVATE RESIDENCES, a first-class HOTEL or CAFE, or GENERAL BUSINESS PREMISES, by any party possessing enterprise and means. This sale may therefore be truly said to offer an opportunity of investment in city property very rarely to be met with in Sydney.
The lease of the premises Nos. 38 and 40, expire in June and July next; that of No. 42, on the 1st January, 1858.
Terms and other particulars at sale.

THE PICK of GEORGE-STREET, CITY of SYDNEY.
Those three splendid SHOPS, Nos. 224, 226, and 228, situate on the west side of George-street, near to Wynyard-street.
Together with the three STORES, three stories high, at the rear of the above, with frontage to Wynyard-lane.
Title—Grant by purchase, direct from the Crown to the present proprietor.

MORT and CO. have been instructed by the Proprietor, who purposes visiting England, to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 9th March, at 11 o'clock,
Those three splendid SHOPS, Nos. 224, 226, and 228, situate on the west side of George-street, near Wynyard-street, and occupied by Messrs. Mountcastle, Kingsborough, and Colegate.
The accommodation of each is as follows:
GROUND FLOOR—Large shop, back passage, and parlour.
1st FLOOR.—Fine show-room, landing, drawing-room, and closet.
2nd FLOOR.—Three excellent bedrooms
Basement.—Extensive dry cellar
Spacious Kitchen in the rear, and back entrance from Wynyard-lane.
The yards are all flagged, and are divided by brick walls.
The front rooms fitted with register stoves, and the whole of the wood work of the very best cedar.
Water laid on to each.
Immediately in the rear of the above are three LARGE THREE-STORY STORES, fronting Wynyard-lane, and built in the most substantial manner of stone and brick.
 The ground floor of these is arranged as a kitchen, &c., and back entrance to the shops. The upper floors are capacious and well ventilated.
The whole of the Premises well drained.
MORT and CO. desire to call the special attention of capitalists to the sale of these three shops and stores, which for construction and situation may well be called THE PICK OF GEORGE-STREET.
The whole of the buildings were erected for the present proprietor, who had not then the slightest idea of parting with them; added to which, they were raised under the superintendence of J. F. Hilly, Esq., one of our ablest architects, and without regard to cost. The shops, which are in the choicest portion of George-street, have HANDSOMELY EMBELLISHED CUT AND RUBBED STONE FRONTS, large and elegant windows, and are in every respect first-class buildings. They may be used either in connection with the stores in Wynyard-lane, or separately, as each is quite distinct in itself.
Parties having TRUST MONEY TO INVEST would do well to inspect this property prior to the day of sale. It is very rarely indeed that George-street property, enjoying so EXCELLENT A POSITION FOR BUSINESS, is in the market, and it may be very long before a similar opportunity occurs again.
TERMS:—25 per cent. cash, on the fall of the hammer; 25 per cent. cash on completion of conveyance. The residue may remain on mortgage for a term of years, at the option of the purchaser.
Plan on view at the Rooms.

Parramatta.
Valuable Investment.—Immediate return.
Two four-room Brick-built Cottages.

MR. J. F. STAFF has received instructions to sell by auction on WEDNESDAY, the 28th instant, at 12 o'clock, on the premises, in Grose-street East, Parramatta,
Two substantial four-roomed brick-built cottages, which will be sold separately.
Lot 1 has a frontage of 22 feet 4 inches and depth 151 feet, back line 30 feet 8 inches. This house is let to a good tenant at a remunerative rent. It has an excellent well of spring water, never known to fail.
Lot 2 is also an excellent brick-built cottage of four rooms, a four-stalled stable and spacious loft, also a good well of spring water, never failing; plenty of garden ground. This cottage has a frontage of 33 feet, depth 151 feet, and back line 30 feet 8 inches.
The above properties will bring an immediate return for the outlay, in a respectable neighbourhood, being near the new parsonage house, a short distance from the Wesleyan chapel, and adjoining Mr. Love's handsome cottage residence.
An unexceptionable title, which will appear by the conditions of sale on WEDNESDAY, 28th February.

Parramatta.

MR. S. P. DREW has received instructions from Mr. Edwards to sell by auction, on the ground, at 12 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, the 28th of February,
A valuable building allotment, having a brick built cottage thereon, containing four rooms, situated in Church-street, opposite to Mr. Olsen Cooper, being allotment No. 6 of section 25, containing 1 rood 6 perches, having a frontage of 157 links by the Windsor road.
The auctioneer would call the attention of tradesmen and persons of small capital to the above sale, this being the only property for sale in that locality, and will be sold without the slightest reserve.
Terms at sale. Title grant from the crown.

CROWN LAND SALES.—At eleven o'clock of WEDNESDAY, the 28th day of FEBRUARY instant, the following Town Allotments will be offered for sale by public auction, at the Land Sales' Room, Colonial Treasury, Macquarie-street, Sydney, at the upset price affixed to each lot respectively, on the terms and conditions and under the provisions of an Act passed in the 5th and 6th years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled, "An Act for regulating the sale of Waste Lands belonging to the Crown, in the Australian Colonies." (Deposit, 10 per cent.)

Amount collected for the relief of widows and orphans of soldiers and sailors prior to the issue of her Majesty's Commission, and handed to the Treasurer by the Hon. F. L. S. Merewether ... 4680 5 7

The Secretaries request that any errors in this list may be pointed out to them for correction in a future publication. From the number of persons from whom they received lists, and the lateness of the hour at which some of them were handed in, they fear that some inaccuracies have unavoidably occurred.
